

Election Commission Reverses Position

copy of Miller's letter. Marc Powell, who also voted to allow the protest, questioned whether this was the intent of the rule, that no one else could file a protest.

Senate President Gerald Geisweid, who sat in on today's session, said he wrote the rule (Reg. 65.4) himself and that it was his intention to keep unnecessary protests from hampering the work of the commission.

"In years past," he said, "we have always received election protests from the CCOC (Campus Committee of Concern) because commissioners failed to enforce the university's clothing regulations."

He said the manner in which the rule was written was simple, straightforward and obvious.

The rule in question states: "If a candidate or an election commissioner wishes to charge a candidate with a violation of the election regulations, or has any other protest, he shall file a written complaint and explanation with the Election Commission President within one university class day after the closing of the polls or within one university class day after the violation has occurred..."

Caperton said that the commission "obviously made an oversight in its earlier decision," and moved that the protest be rejected.

Commissioners approved the motion 4-1, with Joe Anderson, Mike Wiebe, Clark and Caperton voting for it. Not voting were Powell and Election Commission President Nokomis (Butch) Jackson.

The lone dissenting vote was cast by Tom Condry, who said the commission's original decision should have been appealed to the senate and not reconsidered by the same body.

Condry is not a commissioner, but said he was asked to join the meeting as a "general proxy."

He said he did not attend Tuesday's session and was asked to join the group only minutes before the meeting.

Jackson said Condry was needed to make a quorum, allowing the commission to conduct business. Such a procedure was valid, he said, provided the rest of the commission had no objection.

Near the end of the meeting, Powell complained that "some people have not been very open-minded" on this issue.

He agreed with Condry, that no matter what decision the commission made, that should be the one they stand by. The senate, he said, should be the next body to consider the protest.

"But no, if there's something not done to someone's liking, he goes clawing desparately through the rule book, looking for some nit-picking rule to change the decision."

Geisweid replied that nearly every judicial body has the prerogative to reconsider a decision it has made, especially when it seems that new evidence has been introduced.

"I think the Election Commission has acted correctly in this matter," he said.

Grad Student Named To ACT Council

Mrs. Virgil C. Kenney, doctoral student, has been appointed to the American College Testing Program's test supervisory council for the coming year.

As a council member, she will help set up ACT tests for 1970-71. The ACT tests, much the same as the College Entrance Examination Board tests, are used by most colleges. She is now attending the ACT national meeting in Iowa City.

2 Cadets Awarded Army Scholarship

Selection of two sophomore cadets for two-year Army ROTC scholarships has been announced by Col. Jim H. McCoy.

Recipients are Michael F. Bavaro, nuclear engineering major of Paris, and Gary S. Singletary, marketing major of Orlando, Fla.

The commandant of the Department of the Army awards are in addition to 12 previously announced two-year scholarship recipients. The award will pay each cadet's tuition, textbooks, laboratory fees and a $50-a-month subsistence allowance.

Applications Ready For Mother of Year

Application forms for Aggie Mother of the Year are now available at the Student Programs office, according to David Moore, selection committee chairman.

Moore said that this year's application form gives each candidate an equal chance at the title and that the form allows additional information to be attached. Only a few applications have been received by the committee so far.

"I feel that a great number of nominations will produce the most qualified woman for Aggie Mother of the Year," Moore said in soliciting applications. Deadline for filing applications is May 1.

Sul Ross Reunion Begins Thursday

Approximately 300 former students are expected on campus Thursday through Saturday for the annual Sul Ross Reunion and induction of members of the class of 1920.

Sul Ross is an organization of all former students who graduated 50 or more years ago.

Activities start Thursday evening when the classes of 1911, 1912 and 1913 hold individual class dinners in the Memorial Student Center. The class of 1912 will present the university a $25,000 President's Endowed Scholarship at its dinner with acting President A. R. Lueddecke accepting.

Sul Ross will have its headquarters in the MSC and the class of 1920 will be headquartered in the Ramada Inn.

Seventy living members of the 1920 class will be inducted during at 6:30 p.m. Saturday banquet at the MSC.

Also to be honored at the banquet is Mrs. Willie Mae Shepard, retiring Association of Former Students Class Programs director.

Distinguished Cadets Named by Hanna

Three Distinguished Air Force cadets have been named by Col. Keith C. Hanna, professor of aerospace studies.

The senior cadets are expected to graduate by January, 1971, and will be commissioned second lieutenants in the Air Force.

As a DAFC, the cadet can become a distinguished graduate and receive a commission in the regular Air Force rather than the reserve, Colonel Hanna said.

The distinguished cadets are Donald C. Anderson, electrical engineering majors of Texas City; Billy J. Hall, industrial technology, Sherman, and James S. Wilbeck, aerospace engineering, Hungerford.

Hall has a pilot category contract. Anderson and Wilbeck are Category II cadets and will be assigned in research and engineering when they go on active duty. Anderson and Hall are studying under Air Force Financial Assistance grants.

Rodeo Club to Try To Improve Rating

Aggies will try to improve on their current third place in National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association regional standings in a rodeo beginning here Thursday.

There will be a six-member team supported by three alternates and 20 individual competitors in the rodeo.

Entries also are coming from Sam Houston State, Texas A&I, S. F. Austin, Southwest Texas Junior College at Uvalde, South Texas JC, Houston; Central Texas JC, Killeen; Temple Junior College, Navarro JC, Corsicana; Wharton County JC and Blinn JC, Brenham, said Larry Rice, sponsor.
