Aggies Host TCU Horned Frogs

By Clifford Broyles
Battalion Sports Writer
As the Southwest Conference baseball race reaches its home stretch only two teams have a shot at the title, but the third and fourth place teams could cause all sorts of problems for those two this weekend.

Texas A&M and the University of Texas at Austin are currently undefeated but the Aggies have one more win, eleven, than Texas.

Third place Rice and fourth place Texas Christian get their chances at being the giant killer when the Owls play host to the Longhorns and the Horned Frogs visit College Station to play the Aggies.

If both fail to knock off the leaders then it goes to the final weekend when the Aggies and Longhorns play for the title and all its benefits in Austin next week.

The Aggies series with TCU is scheduled to get underway with a doubleheader Friday at 1:30 p.m. and a single game Saturday while Texas and Rice get-together will feature a pair Thursday and a single game Friday.

A&M coach Tom Chandler said, the Frogs main strength is their power hitting offense, which is led by second baseman Dickie Turner and first baseman Jeff Newman.

Newman one of the biggest and most dangerous batters in the conference stands 6'3" and weighs in at 215. He hit 3 home runs in a three game series with Baylor earlier this season.

SWC Meet Starts Thursday

The Southwest Conference opens a five-day spring sports program Thursday with tennis and golf action to determine individual championships.

Track and field events join the busy Friday and Saturday schedules, with Texas A&M favored for the team title.

Business sessions for coaches, athletic directors, sports information directors, business managers, and faculty representatives are scheduled Thursday through Monday.

Texas and Rice baseball teams also play a doubleheader Thursday and a single game Friday and the series could play a prominent role in determining the conference championship.

Texas, with a 10-0 record, and Texas A&M, 11-0, currently are tied for the baseball lead. Rice is out of contention but holds

3 Aggie Golfers Play in SWC Meet

By virtue of its second-place finish in the SWC team standings, Texas A&M is allowed three golfers in the SWC individual tournament this weekend at Houston.

The Aggies' top three players this season have been Richard Ellis, Steve Veriato and Duke Butler. Ellis and Butler are seniors, Veriato is a freshman.

A&M will have six players in the SWC tennis tournament this weekend at Houston.

Singles entrants are Dick Fikes, Bruce Crumley, Tommy Connell and Lawton Park.

Doubles entrants will be Fikes and Mike Hickey and Park and Lindsey Kroll.

Chandler called Jerome Hall the Frogs centerfielder a great defensive ball player and added that third baseman Glen Monroe is an all-around threat.

The Frogs also have two of the top pitchers in the conference one of whom ranks with the best, he said.

Chandler said that Rod Monahan is one of the best and Earl Wallace another righthander has two one-thirders this season.

Aggie first baseman Chris Sans who is in a head on head battle with John Langerhans of Texas for the All-SWC first base spot is suffering from a muscle pull in his leg, but should be ready to go, Chandler said. Sans sat out last weekend's Houston doubleheader, except for a brief appearance in the first game.

Sans batting .337 holds the edge average wise as Langerhans is batting .316 but the Texas first baseman holds a commanding edge with 7 homers and 36 runs batted in to Sans 3 homers and 17 rbi's.

Second baseman Butch Ghutzman is suffering from stone bruise but will be ready to go Chandler said.

Ace lefthander Doug Rau who has an 8-0 record and a super 0.29 era is having a problem with a blister on his foot but will be ready to start Friday's first game, Chandler said.

Handballers Take Horns

The Burke brothers of Texas A&M squared their handball feud with the University of Texas with one of three Aggie successes in the Waco Invitational Meet.

Ozzie and Cyril Burke, who took third in the national tournament behind the TU team of Joe Hero and Terry Harkins, bounced the Austin handballers in a three-game set at Waco for the open doubles crown.

Eric Oshlo of Dallas and an A&M doubles team of Dr. Jeff Bronson and Rudy Garcia of Waco also notched wins. Oshlo defeated Guy Fowler of Fort Worth by 21-0 and 21-18 for third place in Class B singles.

Bronson, of the Physics Department, and Garcia captured third in open doubles, scoring 21-19 and 21-5 wins over a San Marcos twosome.

The Burke brothers surrendered the first game of their set with Hero and Harkins, 21-7, but used it to study the opposition. Adjustments were made and the Burkes won the next two games 21-19 and 21-12. Ozzie is a senior in PE, Cyril a senior in business.

Prof. Stan H. Lowy of the Aerospace Engineering Department is faculty sponsor of the A&M Handball Club.

third place at 10-5.

Faculty representatives, the official governing body of the conference, have sessions scheduled Saturday night, all day Sunday and all day Monday.

Actions taken during the closed sessions will be announced only at a Monday news conference by Howard Grubbs, executive secretary.

No major problems are on the agenda but James Street, the Texas quarterback who also is a star pitcher for the Longhorn baseball team, may figure directly or indirectly in two matters.

One agenda item includes consideration of possibly changing a regulation which permits a student athlete to withdraw from school during a semester while still in good standing scholastically and returning the following semester without endangering his athletic eligibility.

After the national football championship season last fall, Street withdrew from Texas but returned for the spring semester and the baseball season.

Another matter involving Street is not on the agenda but Grubbs has said it could be submitted by any member of the faculty group.

The Baylor faculty athletic council has called for a conference inquiry into a rhubarb that developed in a Texas-Baylor baseball game April 17.

On a squeeze play, Street and Dutch Schroeder, the Baylor coach, collided and Schroeder was knocked unconscious. Schroeder was rushing to the home plate umpire to protest the squeeze play.

Debate Team Wins 2nd in Montana Open

The debate team recently won second place in the Montana Big Sky Open, according to Robert Peavey, captain and Forensic Association president.

He and Scott Scherer defeated Brigham Young University, Seattle Pacific, Eastern Montana State, Idaho State University, Utah State, University of Oregon and North Idaho State.

Peavey also placed eighth out of 67 in persuasive speaking and tenth out of 61 in impromptu speaking.

This semester the team also placed third in the New York University tournament, won four awards at the Magnolia Invitational in Mississippi and did not place in the Southwest Conference Tournament.
