World Famous Philosopher Here May 12

DR. J. G. GRAY

Dr. J. Glenn Gray, Carleton Professor of Philosophy at Colorado College, will visit here May 12-14 for a variety of lectures and conferences.

Dr. Gray is one of the most respected American philosophers in the world today, observed Dr. Manuel M. Davenport, Philosophy and Humanities Department head.

Gray's visit, sponsored by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities and the A&M academic vice president's office, will be highlighted by a public lecture, "The Monstrous Present," at 8 p.m., May 14, in the Memorial Student Center Ballroom.

In addition, the distinguished professor at Colorado College will speak to several classes and discussion groups, meet informally with students, and preside over a colloquium to be attended by professors from Rice and the University of Texas at Austin.

Author of several books including "The Warriors," "Hegel and Greek Thought" and "The Promise of Wisdom," Gray has held fellowships from the Ford, Fulbright and Guggenheim Foundations and the National Council on the Arts and Humanities.

Gray was personally selected by Martin Heidegger to edit and translate Heidegger's complete works for Harper and Row.

The professor has been at Colorado College since 1948. He earlier taught at Haverford, Swarthmore and Juniata Colleges. He graduated magna cum laude at Juniata, took his M.A. at the University of Pennsylvania in German literature and the Ph.D. in philosophy at Columbia in 1941.

Former A&M Dean To Speak Monday

Dr. Wayne C. Hall, former academic vice president and graduate dean, will visit the campus Monday for presentation of a graduate lecture entitled "The Graduate Marketplace: Current Status and Future Projections."

Dr. Hall is director of fellowships and adviser on new programs for the National Research Council-National Academy of Sciences' Office of Scientific Personnel in Washington, D. C.

He was granted a leave of absence from Texas A&M in 1968 to accept the Washington position.

Hall joined the A&M faculty in 1949 as assistant professor of plant physiology. He was promoted to full professor in 1954 and named department head four years later.

He was selected graduate dean in 1960 and assumed additional responsibilities as academic vice president in 1965.

Recipient of a Ph.D. from Iowa State, Dr. Hall has served as consultant for several of the nation's leading firms, including Dow Chemical, Union Carbide and the Ethyl Corp. He has been consultant to the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the National Science Foundation.

Dr. Hall is a member of several scientific, professional and honorary societies, including the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society of Plant Physiologists, the Japanese Society of Plant Physiology and the American Institute of Biological Sciences. He is the author or co-author of more than 80 scientific publications.
