

The Battalion

Vol. 65 No. 114

College Station, Texas

Friday, May 8, 1970

Telephone 845-2226

FIRST GAME TALLY—A&M's Danny Ragland slides home under the plate umpire's nose and Texas catcher Tom Harmon's tag during Thursday's doubleheader in Austin. The Aggies took the first game 7-5, but dropped the nightcap, 8-0, giving the Horns the Southwest Conference title. The teams play a single game today with nothing at stake but pride. See story, page 5. (Photo by Mike Wright)

Exchange Store Seeks Book Space, Remodels

The Exchange Store on the A&M campus is being remodeled to provide more space for books and to speed up purchasing during rush periods. The decision to rearrange the store was the result of inadequate space for the growing volume of books and long lines at the beginning of the semesters, manager Charles R. Cargill said. "We weren't able to carry all of the required books, much less supplemental books," the manager continued. "Now the majority of the store will be for books. Cargill said the rearrangement, due to be completed by the end of this month, will cut down on clothing space and expand the book space from 2400 to 2700 square feet. A wall between the old clothing area and the supplies was knocked down to provide more space. The clothing, drugs, gifts, and records will be put in the area formerly occupied by the books and the supplies will remain where they are.

Cargill said the checkout counters will be increased from three registers to six for purchasing books. He said this should shorten the lines during the rush periods. The remodeling has cost nothing so far except for the regular payroll since the work is all being done by regular employees, Cargill explained. He added the only expense will be for a new tile floor which will be put down this summer and for some coin-operated lockers for students to put books in while they shop. The students may drop a quarter in the lockers and lock it with a key, and when they return the key, they get their quarter back, Cargill said. He added that the regular racks will be available in case the student doesn't have a quarter. Cargill said there will be more emphasis on customer self-service. He said there will be directional signs set up to guide students to books. If they want help, the student can call at an information booth. One of the main objectives of the Exchange Store is to better serve students, Cargill assured. In this regard, he said, students are occasionally hired to act as customers to check general treatment afforded real customers by store employees.

Student Loan Applications Due May 29

A&M students desiring long-term loans to finance their education next year have until the end of the semester to file applications. Student Aid Director Robert M. Davenport said the application should be picked up and filed as early as possible. "This applies to students who must borrow under the Texas Opportunity Plan (TOP) or federally insured programs," he said. Administrative procedures dictate that a longer waiting period than before between filing and approval of funds will be necessary. "We will not be able to give credits as we have in the past because of the procedures," Davenport added. Interested students should inquire about applications at the Student Aid Office on the third floor of the YMCA.

March Cancelled

The proposed anti-war, Kent State memorial march was canceled Thursday afternoon due to a change in plan, a spokesman for the marchers said. The march was to be in conjunction with the mourning of the deaths of four students from Ohio's Kent State University by college students throughout the nation. The march was to be from the College Station City Hall on Church street to the Unitarian Fellowship Church on Old State Highway 6 South. The spokesman for the marchers said a program featuring a panel of pro-war and anti-war speakers was planned.

University National Bank "On the side of Texas A&M." —Adv.

Smith Won't Hesitate To Use Texas Guard If Needed In Austin

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith said Thursday he would not hesitate to call out the National Guard if student demonstrations get out of control in Austin. He expressed confidence that state and Austin police could handle demonstrations on the University of Texas campus. Smith talked of the Austin situation between sessions of a conference of community leaders from 15 counties. At the conference, the governor disclosed a new program aimed at working 500 minority group employees into state government.

Of the Austin demonstrations, Smith commented: "I don't think this action represents basically sound-thinking students." He said he thought the core of the demonstrators was relatively small although there were "many sight-seers" at a rally there Wednesday. "I think the students are there for an opportunity to get an education," Smith said. "The taxpayers expect those of us in government to carry out that program." State colleges, he said, "are not the place to bring about social change."

He said he was confident that Texas National Guardsmen "have fully prepared themselves to handle any situation." The Guard received special training after riots in Detroit, and there is no danger that they would over-react while attempting to control a demonstration, he said. Meanwhile, charges of arson were filed Thursday against one of the University of Texas anti-war demonstrators as a "strike" against classes went into its third day.

Gary Beckcom Day was climaxed Thursday when Student Senate President Gerry Geistweid presented him with a certificate of merit. The ceremony took place before the evening meal at Duncan Dining Hall. Beckcom was also the guest at a noon luncheon in the Memorial Student Center and spent the afternoon visiting friends. Beckcom was injured in November while working on the bonfire and spent three months in a Bryan hospital undergoing operations on his leg. Alpha Phi Omega and senate members collected donations to help defray Beckcom's medical expenses throughout the day, and another collection will be made at Saturday's Maroon-White game. Any student who still wishes to contribute may do so at the Student Program Office or Senate Office in the Memorial Student Center, according to Lee Crawley, issues chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega and senate members collected donations to help defray Beckcom's medical expenses throughout the day, and another collection will be made at Saturday's Maroon-White game. Any student who still wishes to contribute may do so at the Student Program Office or Senate Office in the Memorial Student Center, according to Lee Crawley, issues chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega and senate members collected donations to help defray Beckcom's medical expenses throughout the day, and another collection will be made at Saturday's Maroon-White game. Any student who still wishes to contribute may do so at the Student Program Office or Senate Office in the Memorial Student Center, according to Lee Crawley, issues chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega and senate members collected donations to help defray Beckcom's medical expenses throughout the day, and another collection will be made at Saturday's Maroon-White game. Any student who still wishes to contribute may do so at the Student Program Office or Senate Office in the Memorial Student Center, according to Lee Crawley, issues chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega and senate members collected donations to help defray Beckcom's medical expenses throughout the day, and another collection will be made at Saturday's Maroon-White game. Any student who still wishes to contribute may do so at the Student Program Office or Senate Office in the Memorial Student Center, according to Lee Crawley, issues chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega and senate members collected donations to help defray Beckcom's medical expenses throughout the day, and another collection will be made at Saturday's Maroon-White game. Any student who still wishes to contribute may do so at the Student Program Office or Senate Office in the Memorial Student Center, according to Lee Crawley, issues chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega and senate members collected donations to help defray Beckcom's medical expenses throughout the day, and another collection will be made at Saturday's Maroon-White game. Any student who still wishes to contribute may do so at the Student Program Office or Senate Office in the Memorial Student Center, according to Lee Crawley, issues chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega and senate members collected donations to help defray Beckcom's medical expenses throughout the day, and another collection will be made at Saturday's Maroon-White game. Any student who still wishes to contribute may do so at the Student Program Office or Senate Office in the Memorial Student Center, according to Lee Crawley, issues chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega and senate members collected donations to help defray Beckcom's medical expenses throughout the day, and another collection will be made at Saturday's Maroon-White game. Any student who still wishes to contribute may do so at the Student Program Office or Senate Office in the Memorial Student Center, according to Lee Crawley, issues chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega and senate members collected donations to help defray Beckcom's medical expenses throughout the day, and another collection will be made at Saturday's Maroon-White game. Any student who still wishes to contribute may do so at the Student Program Office or Senate Office in the Memorial Student Center, according to Lee Crawley, issues chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega and senate members collected donations to help defray Beckcom's medical expenses throughout the day, and another collection will be made at Saturday's Maroon-White game. Any student who still wishes to contribute may do so at the Student Program Office or Senate Office in the Memorial Student Center, according to Lee Crawley, issues chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega and senate members collected donations to help defray Beckcom's medical expenses throughout the day, and another collection will be made at Saturday's Maroon-White game. Any student who still wishes to contribute may do so at the Student Program Office or Senate Office in the Memorial Student Center, according to Lee Crawley, issues chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega and senate members collected donations to help defray Beckcom's medical expenses throughout the day, and another collection will be made at Saturday's Maroon-White game. Any student who still wishes to contribute may do so at the Student Program Office or Senate Office in the Memorial Student Center, according to Lee Crawley, issues chairman.

Colorado Cole, 29, of Austin was named in arson charges filed before Justice of the Peace Bob Kuhn. University officials said their records showed no student by that name. Kuhn set bond of $10,000 and Cole was returned to the Travis County jail. University police said there was no doubt the anti-war demonstrations Tuesday and Wednesday were connected with a blaze started in Building Z late Wednesday night. There was slight damage to the temporary structure housing university Biology Department experimental animals. Officers said witnesses saw two men light a fire under a corner of the building and run. Four Austin Fire Department trucks quickly put out the flames caused by gasoline and newspapers. A witness said the two men ran from the fire toward the main mall nearby where several hundred demonstrators spent the night after Wednesday's protests. Early Thursday less than 200 remained on the mall, either curled up in sleeping bags and

blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Blankets or eating a handout breakfast of peanut butter, jelly, honey, bread and coffee. As tensions over antiwar protests heightened across the nation, President Nixon assured eight college presidents Thursday members of his administration would lower their voices, and he called the nation's governors at a meeting in Washington to discuss, among other things, the wave of dissent sweeping the land. The President also scheduled a nationally-broadcast news conference (See Smith Won't, page 3)

Mauro Outstanding Member, Walton Best Hall, CSC Says

By Hayden Whitsett

Gary Mauro, president of Keathley Hall, was presented the Outstanding Councilman Award at the Civilian Student Council Awards Banquet Thursday night in the Memorial Student Center. Walton Hall received the Outstanding Residence Hall award for the second consecutive year. The hall was chosen on the basis of academic standards, activities, off-campus work, and other related functions. The Highest Academic Average Award went to Crocker Hall, which posted an overall 2.87 grade point ratio. 8e Intramurals Award went to Law Hall. Howard Perry, director of civilian student activities, cited Mauro's work as chairman of the Bonfire Committee and Civilian Week Committee as reasons for him receiving the high award.

MAURO

of academic standards, activities, off-campus work, and other related functions. The Highest Academic Average Award went to Crocker Hall, which posted an overall 2.87 grade point ratio. 8e Intramurals Award went to Law Hall. Howard Perry, director of civilian student activities, cited Mauro's work as chairman of the Bonfire Committee and Civilian Week Committee as reasons for him receiving the high award.

of academic standards, activities, off-campus work, and other related functions. The Highest Academic Average Award went to Crocker Hall, which posted an overall 2.87 grade point ratio. 8e Intramurals Award went to Law Hall. Howard Perry, director of civilian student activities, cited Mauro's work as chairman of the Bonfire Committee and Civilian Week Committee as reasons for him receiving the high award.

of academic standards, activities, off-campus work, and other related functions. The Highest Academic Average Award went to Crocker Hall, which posted an overall 2.87 grade point ratio. 8e Intramurals Award went to Law Hall. Howard Perry, director of civilian student activities, cited Mauro's work as chairman of the Bonfire Committee and Civilian Week Committee as reasons for him receiving the high award.

of academic standards, activities, off-campus work, and other related functions. The Highest Academic Average Award went to Crocker Hall, which posted an overall 2.87 grade point ratio. 8e Intramurals Award went to Law Hall. Howard Perry, director of civilian student activities, cited Mauro's work as chairman of the Bonfire Committee and Civilian Week Committee as reasons for him receiving the high award.

of academic standards, activities, off-campus work, and other related functions. The Highest Academic Average Award went to Crocker Hall, which posted an overall 2.87 grade point ratio. 8e Intramurals Award went to Law Hall. Howard Perry, director of civilian student activities, cited Mauro's work as chairman of the Bonfire Committee and Civilian Week Committee as reasons for him receiving the high award.

of academic standards, activities, off-campus work, and other related functions. The Highest Academic Average Award went to Crocker Hall, which posted an overall 2.87 grade point ratio. 8e Intramurals Award went to Law Hall. Howard Perry, director of civilian student activities, cited Mauro's work as chairman of the Bonfire Committee and Civilian Week Committee as reasons for him receiving the high award.

of academic standards, activities, off-campus work, and other related functions. The Highest Academic Average Award went to Crocker Hall, which posted an overall 2.87 grade point ratio. 8e Intramurals Award went to Law Hall. Howard Perry, director of civilian student activities, cited Mauro's work as chairman of the Bonfire Committee and Civilian Week Committee as reasons for him receiving the high award.

"This award is significant because the person picked to receive it is chosen by the council members," Perry said. "It is fitting that someone who has worked as much as Gary receive it." After the presentation, those attending the banquet gave Mauro a standing ovation. Receiving the President's Award was Bill Scherle, first vice president of the council. Mark Olson, CSC president, said that the award goes to the person the president has selected as making the greatest contribution to the council and A&M. He added that Scherle had always been available and always had an answer to the problems that confronted the Council. The Outstanding Service

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office, and Ann Clark and Linda Greyhouse, secretaries to Oakes and Perry. Appreciation awards were given to people who hadn't been able to receive a one-year key because (See CSC Banquet, page 4)

Award was presented to nine persons by Tommy Henderson, second vice-president. Henderson said recipients of the awards were those persons who go beyond what their jobs require. Those receiving the awards were Fred Dollar, Food Services director; George Hartsock, A&M Laundry manager; Perry, CSC advisor; Eugene Oakes, residence hall program adviser; Dave Mayes, Battalion editor; Donna Witt and Shy Hicks, secretaries in the MSC Student Program office