

You can't win with the umps

Rhubarb — Aggie Coach Tom Chandler gets in a few words Friday over play at second base that cost Aggies an important run. Chandler got no sympathy from the umpire, however, and when two of his players, shortstop Jim Raley and pitcher Pat Jamison joined in the argument they were ejected from the game. Texas won the game 5-3 with the run that scored on the play being questioned giving them a 4-3 lead. (Photos by Mike Wright).

Longhorns clip Ags 5-3

Southwest Conference baseball champion and third ranked nationally Texas Longhorns used 7 1/2 innings of shutout relief from junior righthander Walt Rothe to clip fourth rated Texas A&M 5-3 and win the three-game series three games to one in Austin Friday.

Rothe replaced starter Mike Beard in the third after A&M had erased a 3-0 Texas lead.

He came in with the lead run in third with one out and got Boyd Hadaway to hit into an inning ending doubleplay.

Rothe gave up only three hits after that two of them singles in the eighth the rest of the way. He was also able to keep his fastball down in the strike zone, an asset which allowed him to make 14 of the 20 outs he recorded on ground balls.

Burt Hooton used this same avenue to shut out the Aggies Thursday in the game that clinched the title for Texas. Fifteen of the 27 outs in that game were ground outs.

Texas jumped on Aggie starter Hardy Frazier for three runs in the second.

Pat Amos walked and moved to second on a single by Beard. Mike Markl hit a grounder to third that took a bad hop past Danny Ragland scoring Amos. David Chalk then singled knocking home the final two runs of the inning.

The Aggies tied it in the third as Frazier led off with a single and Butch Ghutzman and Rusty Howard walked to load the bases.

Dave Elmendorf's single drove the first run across and Billy Hodge's liner to left scored the other two.

Bruce Katt replaced Frazier in the third and gave singles to the first two hitters, David Hall and Jack Miller.

Hall scored on the play and Miller, who was knocked out for a short time, was ruled out.

Aggie coach Tom Chandler who had protested a call in the second inning came back in the third to protest again. Shortstop Jim Raley, who added a few choice comments and pitcher Pat Jamison, who got in a few words from the bench, were both ejected in the rhubarb which lasted about 15 minutes.

Texas scored its final run in the fifth with the aid of the only Aggie error in the three-game series.

Langerhans doubled but was an easy out at third when he tried to move upon a ground ball to Katt by Amos but Katt threw the ball over Ragland and he scored.

Charles Kelley pitched the final two innings for A&M and completed his season hurling 19 1/2 innings without giving up an earned run.

The game was the last for three Aggie seniors, Jim Raley, Boyd Hadaway and Dave Benesh.
