Meteorology students receive $80 awards

Robert G. Borchers of Denver, Iowa, and Henry E. Fuelberg of Navasota Friday received the inaugural Ed A. Felder Memorial Awards for senior meteorology students at A&M.

The $80 awards were made to the outstanding meteorology seniors at a joint banquet of the College Station chapter of the American Meteorological Society and Chi Epsilon Pi, national meteorological honor society. More than 100 faculty, graduate and undergraduate students attended.

3 vet faculty men to go to meeting

Three A&M College of Veterinary Medicine faculty members will participate in conferences this week in Amarillo, Lubbock and Plainview.

Dr. Roy B. England, assistant professor of medicine and surgery, and Dr. William L. Sippel, director of the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory, will be in Amarillo Wednesday and Lubbock Thursday for feedlot workshops.

Dr. Mark F. Young, associate professor of medicine and surgery, will attend the Swine Practitioners Meeting in Plainview Saturday.

E.E. senior given Bolton Award

Billy Don Russell Jr. of Denison received the F. C. Bolton Award and two junior scholarships were awarded Tuesday in Electrical Engineering Department presentations.

Russell was recognized as the outstanding graduating senior in electrical engineering with the Bolton Award. It consists of a certificate, wrist watch and $100.

Recipients of two $300 F. C. Bolton scholarships were Gonzalo Sandoval of Pharr and Harold A. Stokely of Kilgore. Presentations were made by Dr. W. B. Jones Jr., department head.

Science awards 9 achievement awards

Nine graduating seniors in A&M's College of Science have been presented Faculty Achievement Awards by Dean J. M. Prescott.

Dean Prescott said the honorees were chosen on the basis of scholastic accomplishments and contributions to improvements in student activities.

Recipients were Richard A. Hrachovy of Bellville and Harry A. Snowdy Jr. of Port Lavaca, representing the Biology Department; James F. Blanke of San Antonio and Dennis A. Edgerley of Dallas, Chemistry Department.

Also Gregory J. Colby of Sioux City, Iowa, and Johnnie C. Mc-

Daniel of Carbon, Mathematics Department; and John L. Carrigan of Garland, Ralph H. Hill of Fort Worth and Richard B. Loftin of Navasota, Physics Department.

Education receives first scholarship

Texas A&M University's new College of Education has received its first scholarship, a $300 award from the Bryan-College Station Chamber of Commerce.

A. W. (Head) Davis, vice president of the chamber's civic division, formally presented the award to Dr. Frank W. R. Hubert, dean of education.

Dean Hubert said the scholarship will be given to a student selected by the College of Education's Scholarship Committee.

Former fire chief joins FTS staff

G. G. (Buddy) McDowell, fire chief at Richland Hills for the past five years, has joined the Texas Firemen's Training School staff as fire service instructor, announced chief instructor Henry D. Smith.

McDowell, 40, has 14 years experience in fire-fighting, including chief, Red Cross instructor, engineer, training officer, captain and fireman.

He was a mechanic prior to joining the Richardson Fire Department in 1956. He moved to Haltom City in 1958 and to Richland Hills, a 10,000 population suburb of Fort Worth, six years ago as training officer.

He had been chief for the past five years.

McDowell is a member of the International Association of Fire Chiefs, Texas Fire Chief's Association, Tarrant County Fire Chief's Association, North Texas Fire Chief's Association and Texas State Firemen's and Fire Marshals' Association.

Smith names marine advisory committee

A 21-member Advisory Committee on Marine Resources has been named by Gov. Preston Smith to assist in planning a statewide marine conference co-sponsored by the university Sea Grant Program.

Governor Smith, meeting with the committee in Austin, re-emphasized his goal to make

Texas the nation's leader in oceanography.

Meeting at Austin, the committee members said the purpose of the conference will be "to define Texas' interests, responsibility, and problems in the coastal and marine resources field and to recommend goals and possible action programs."

Scheduled September 10-11 at the Rice Hotel in Houston, the conference will be entitled "Goals for Texas in the Coastal Zone and the Sea." Approximately 300 persons will attend the conference at the invitation of the governor, according to Dan Petty, chairman of the advisory committee. Petty is director of the Division of Planning Coordination in the governor's office.

Plant sciences grad gets NSF Fellowship

James A. Fuchs of the Plant Sciences Department is one of 169 young scientists in the nation to receive post doctoral fellowships from the National Science Foundation.

The Ballinger native will be awarded his doctorate in plant genetics May 23. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Fuchs.

Fuchs' fellowship will enable him to continue study and conduct research at the university of Copenhagen in Denmark. His research specialty is pyrimidine biosynthesis.

Camera committee organizes June 8

Organization of the Memorial Student Center summer Camera Committee will be conducted in a June 8 meeting, summer chairman David K. Williams announced.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting in Room 3B of the MSC will be devoted to registration, locker assignment and orientation.

Williams noted committee arrangements will be from June, July and August, during which time three additional meetings will be held.

Traditionally the largest of the center's committees, the camera group provides members black-and-white and color darkroom facilities, competition opportunities, a variety of programs and assistance for the beginning photographer.

Faculty advisor is Roy C. Pledger, architecture professor. He is assisted by C. M. Sykes, who also serves as "Klub Kop" and general aide to student officers.
