

Entertainer now secretary

By Pat Little

Touring the country with a well known piano group during the depression, owning a dancing school in Hollywood, California, owning a business college in Brownwood, and being secretary to the late James Earl Rudder have been the highlights in the life of Ora May Warren, now secretary to Vice President for Business Affairs Tom Cherry.

Mrs. Warren said she graduated from high school when she was 15 years old and was offered a scholarship to Rice Institute, but she turned it down.

"After I graduated from high school my parents moved from Oklahoma to Houston where my sister and I formed a dancing duet," she said. "We performed as 'The Hill Sisters' in Houston and then all over the state. We quit the act so I could go to California and so she could marry an Aggie."

"I started the Hollywood School of Dance and then I joined a group called the 'Ivories' which was a piano and musical comedy act, consisting of one grand piano and ten small ones.

"We went on three tours of the United States and at that time we were one of the highest rated shows on the road."

After she sold the dance school, Mrs. Warren came to Brownwood in 1937 and bought Mac's Business College which consisted of a run-down building with four old typewriters.

"The school was a success and my students told me they were motivated to do well by the fact that I could type over 100 words per minute," she said.

"When I sold the business college it had 40 typewriters and all modern equipment. I don't know if the school still exists, because it might have been joined with the college they have in Brownwood."

After selling the business college, Mrs. Warren went first to Austin to work as secretary to the president of the Visual Education, Inc. and then to the state General Land Office as secretary to the chief attorney.

In 1955 she went to work for Earl Rudder when he was State Land Commissioner and worked for him until he came to Texas A&M.

"My husband was deputy sheriff of Travis County so I stayed and worked for President Rudder's successor," Mrs. Warren said. "After my husband died I came to Texas A&M as President Rudder's secretary and stayed until Mr. Cherry came to work here."

Cherry took over as head of five departments and according to Mrs. Warren, "it was a monumental job to handle at first."

Mrs. Warren concluded by saying the outstanding aspect of her life has been the bosses she has had. "President Rudder and Mr. Cherry have both been the best bosses any secretary could ask for," she said.

Brown new president of local PDK

Dr. Herman Brown of the Agricultural Education Department, has been installed as president of the College Station Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa.

Brown is an associate professor and assistant to the dean in the College of Agriculture.

Phi Delta Kappa is an international professional fraternity for men in education. Membership is composed of recognized leaders in the profession.

Former newsman freelance writer joins J department

A former Associated Press newsman and freelance science writer will join the Journalism Department Sept. 1, announced Department Head C. J. Leabo.

William C. Harrison, 51, is a nationally recognized science writer, Leabo pointed out. Harrison will fill an assistant professor position vacated by Bob Rogers, who is joining the journalism faculty at the University of Wyoming.

A 1948 Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Missouri, Harrison holds Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Journalism degrees. He also was awarded the Certificate in Advanced Science Writing from Columbia University in 1966.

Harrison was a bomber pilot in Europe during World War II, serving from 1942 until 1945.

He was managing editor of twin weekly newspapers in Hampton, Iowa, from 1951 until 1953. Harrison joined The Associated Press in April, 1954, and resigned in 1968 to spend full-time working on books, promotion and freelance writing.
