

Five new profs join staff

Five additions to the College of Business Administration faculty at Texas A&M have been announced by Dean John E. Pearson.

Named assistant professors are Frank P. Buffa, Business Analysis Department; Gary L. Schugart, Finance Department, and Carl D. Parker, Management Department. Dr. Paul W. Lindloff Jr. was named visiting professor of accounting and Clyde E. Newmiller Jr. will be instructor in management.

All appointments are effective Sept. 1, Dr. Pearson noted.

Dr. Lindloff, 48, received bachelor's and master's degrees from Baylor University. He was awarded the Ph.D. in accounting, management and finance from the University of Texas, Austin, in 1965.

A certified public accountant, Dr. Lindloff comes to Texas A&M from the University of South Alabama. He also has teaching experience at Texas, Duke and the University of Houston.

Dr. Lindloff holds memberships in the American Accounting Association, Planning Executive Institute and National Association of Accountants. He completed doctoral work under Humble Oil and General Electric Fellowships.

Buffa, 26, has a B.S. degree in physics from Loyola University, New Orleans, and the M.B.A. from LSU. He will receive the Ph.D. in business statistics from LSU this summer.

Buffa has five years graduate asst. teaching experience at LSU.

Schugart, 34, will complete Ph.D. requirements in August at the University of Kansas, Lawrence. He is currently assistant professor of finance at Wichita State.

Other teaching experience includes a year at St. Benedict's College in Atchison, Kan., and two years as assistant instructor at the University of Kansas.

Parker, 27, received B.S. and M.S. degrees in economics from Utah State. He will receive the Ph.D. in economics from Oklahoma State this summer.

Segment of service building in use

One segment of the new dorm services building is in use with other areas and the band hall to be ready for occupancy in the near future.

ROTC uniform handling personnel began moving into the structure just east of the Hall on April 20. The move was completed that week.

Floyd T. Mathis, military property custodian, said senior classes began turning in government issue uniform items at the building shortly afterward.
