

Group to assist college

The first 50 recipients of the Texas A&M doctor of philosophy degree in education have voted to organize, with one of the group's purposes to assist the College of Education.

The "First 50" was formed at a Tuesday banquet in the Memorial Student Center with chairman of the 50 Ph.D.'s advisory committees honored.

A plaque bearing the "First 50's" names was presented to Education Dean Frank Hubert by Dr. Wesley K. Summers, chairman of the organization's planning committee and Bryan Public Schools' director of instruction.

Hubert, recognizing Dr. Paul Hensarling's efforts in setting up the education doctorate program and contributions that led to the formation of the College of Education last year, said the group should be known as "Hensarling's Half Hundred."

"This group is great testimony," the dean added, "to the fine bedrock you planted in the old Education Department for the beginnings of the College of Education." He predicted the second fifty will graduate by 1972.

The "First 50" was the result of discussion in a 1966 seminar of doctoral students conducted by Hensarling.

"The fellows wanted some way to recognize the beginning of the doctor of philosophy degree in education at Texas A&M," recalled Hensarling, who headed the former Department of Education and Psychology from which the new college was organized.

Wimbish named to receive post

Bob Wimbish, master's degree candidate in the Urban Planning Department, has been named recipient of the Urban Studies Fellowship for the Houston Model City Agency.

The Waxahachie native will provide technical assistance and liaison with the university for planning and community development for both the agency and local citizens groups, noted Prof. Joseph J. McGraw, head of the Urban Planning Department.

THE BATTALION

Dr. J. W. Allen to head Department of Economics

Dr. John W. Allen has been appointed head of the Economics Department, announced the new College of Liberal Arts dean, W. David Maxwell.

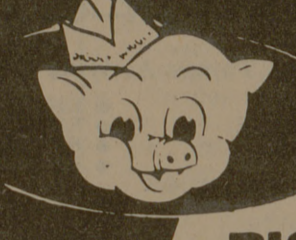

Dr. Allen, 34, has held the position in an acting capacity since last September.

He succeeds Dr. M. L. Greenhut, now distinguished professor of economics. The department has 85 undergraduate, 65 graduate students, 23 faculty members and offers bachelor, master's and Ph.D. degrees.

Associate professor of economics, Allen has been on the faculty three years. He directed undergraduate studies in the department from 1967 to 1969.

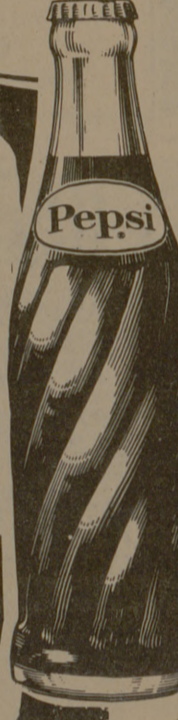

The Moline, Ill., native was research associate with the Bureau of Economic and Business Research of the University of Illinois before coming to College Station. He directed a study in interregional trading patterns of Illinois Manufacturers and Wholesalers.
