Perry named top grad, receives annual award

Howard S. Perry, civilian student activities director, has been honored as the top graduate in a five-year course of the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Perry, a Reserve Army lieutenant colonel with almost 29 years of service, was presented the John J. Pershing Award, given annually since 1962 to the top man in each course.

The 1944 graduate's name also will appear on a permanent plaque displayed in Bell Hall at Fort Leavenworth.

Perry won the award by ranking at the top of a class of 360 in the command and general staff residence-nonresidence course. It involved two weeks instruction at Leavenworth for the last five summers and study at home the remainder of the year.

The award was inaugurated eight years ago in honor of the former General of the Army, John J. Pershing, who first formalized non-residence instruction for reserve officers.

A 1944 Aggie graduate, Perry studied logistics, tactics and major unit employment commensurate with duties of officers at division and higher level.

He was commissioned through officer candidate school, served as an infantry platoon leader through battalion commander in the Pacific during World War II.

Perry completed his Pacific tour as troop movement officer for the Okinawa base command.

He was sixth out of a class of 200 in an advanced engineer officers course and has participated in several field grade armor and engineer officers refresher courses. He currently instructs the USAR advanced officer's course at the U. S. Army Reserve Armory, Bryan. The officer also commanded a local engineering National Guard unit.

Perry became civilian student activities director last September. The reserve officer who received the master's degree here in 1955 has been affiliated with the university since he enrolled in 1940. After several years teaching in Brenham, he joined the A&M staff in 1950 as a military counselor and become residence hall program advisor in 1968.
