14 vet students, five instructors honored Friday

Fourteen students and five faculty members from the College of Veterinary Medicine were honored Friday night during the college's annual Honors Convocation.

The program is held the week before graduation exercises, scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday in the Bryan Civic Auditorium.

Dean A. A. Price received appreciation plaques from the Texas Veterinary Medical Association and the college's faculty. The awards recognized Dr. Price's efforts while serving as dean the past 13 years.

Dr. Ralph G. Greeley, associate professor of veterinary anatomy, received two awards for outstanding teaching.

The Student Chapter, American Veterinary Medical Association Faculty Appreciation Award was presented to Dr. Greeley for leadership, teaching ability, individual integrity and efforts made in the area of student relations.

He also was honored with the Norden Teacher Award, a $200 cash award with plaque presented by Norden Laboratories, Inc.

This award is presented to a faculty member for outstanding teaching ability as judged by responsiveness of his students, and on his moral character and leadership.

The Texas Veterinary Medical Association presented two $100 awards to an outstanding teacher and outstanding researcher.

Dr. Richard H. Davis Jr., professor of veterinary physiology and pharmacology, received the teaching award. Dr. Fred D. Maurer, assistant dean and director of the Institute of Tropical Veterinary Medicine, was presented the research award.

Ten members of the Southwestern Veterinary magazine staff and their advisor, Dr. Asa B. Childers, assistant professor of veterinary public health, were honored for their work on the student magazine.

Students receiving two or more awards include Bernard A. Gowen of Mansfield, The Boden Award, Award of Merit of Tarrant County Veterinary Medical Association Auxiliary Award; Michael J. Benham of Amarillo, The TVMA Auxiliary Award of Merit and Best County Veterinary Medical Association Award; Douglas C. Engstad of Dallas, The TVMA Auxiliary Award and Award of Merit, and Roland F. Lenardum of Angleton, The John H. Miller Award and Microbiology Award.
