

Netters slate LSU contest

Texas A&M's Tennis team will have an exhibition match this Sunday at 2 p.m. against LSU at Baton Rouge.

Coach Omar Smith's team will be playing at LSU's new modern tennis center, featuring six Tarcourts and a steel and concrete stadium.

John Ragland and Dick Fikes line up as the top two players. Coach Smith hasn't decided which one will get the number one seeding. Other players include Tommy Connell, No. 3, Mike Hixson, No. 4, Lawton Park, No. 5, David Chastain, No. 6, Mike Hixson, No. 7, and Carl Jaedicke, No. 8.

There will be four doubles matches in addition to the eight singles matches. The seeded teams line up with Fikes and Hickey, No. 1, Ragland and Park, No. 2, Chastain and Mills, No. 3, and Connell and Jaedicke, No. 4.

Coach Smith said that although this is an exhibition, he looks for some real good matches. The team has been working out since the first day of school.

The matches will utilize the 9-point tie break system recently used in the Davis Cup and U.S. Open matches. When a set becomes tied at 7-7, there is a "sudden death" playoff of the next 5 out of 9 points. This way, it is easier for a tournament to remain on schedule.

Coach Smith said that the team would dress out and eat on the LSU campus Saturday and then watch the A&M-LSU football game in Tiger Stadium Saturday night.

Hixson No. 1

ALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Southwestern Conference football teams ended their first week with a total of six games in the victory column but it was a record-breaking show in the statistical department.

LSU quarterback Chuck Hixson — despite a 28-11 losing effort to Oklahoma — became the first to complete 24 for the record of 506. He's now got 14 more than the old mark with 10 passes still to play.

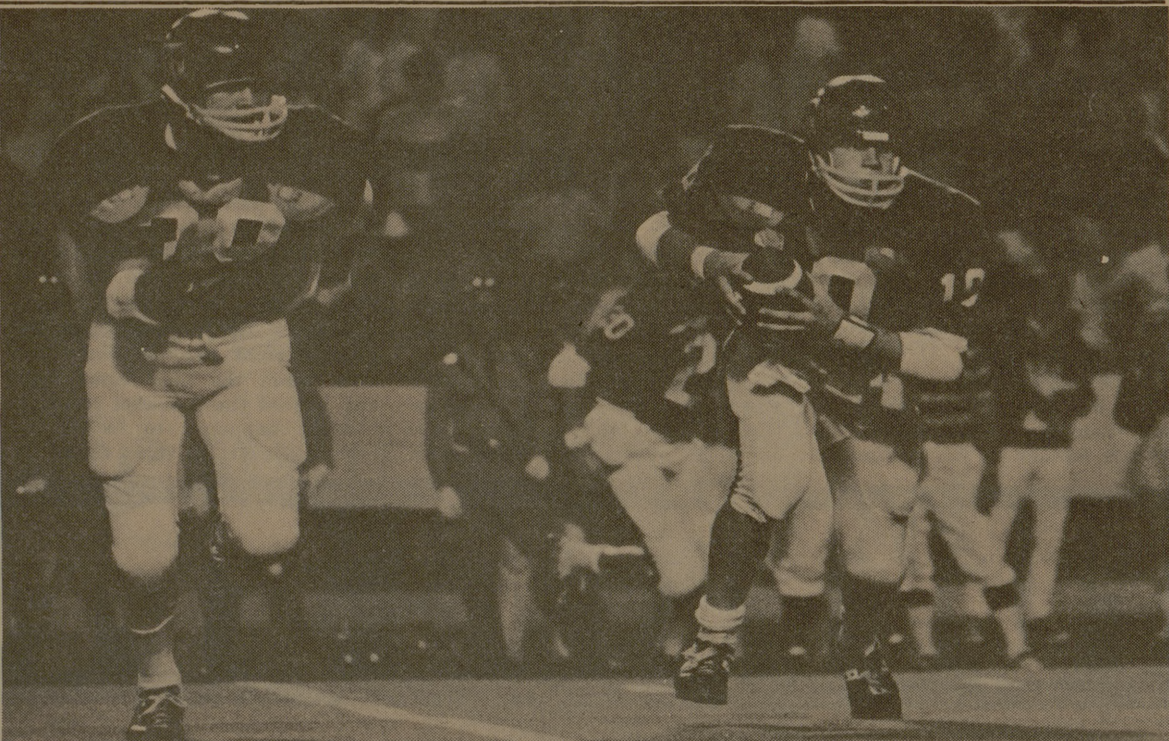

Hixson's performance gives the SWC lead in total of passes and passing — just where he's been since he first donned a Pony uniform.

Texas Christian got an unexpected surprise in junior running back Bobby Davis, who went wild against UT-Arlington for 247 yards rushing — third best in SWC history — to sack up the rushing lead.

Davis scored on two of his wanderings to also take the scoring lead with 12 points.

The Texas Aggies broke their all-time offensive record with a total offense of 552 yards, which also is a league record.

'Aggies have best chance'

By CLIFFORD BROYLES

Saturday night marks the sixth try for Coach Gene Stallings for a victory over the Louisiana State University Tigers.

Since Stallings has been here, the Aggies have lost four and tied one in the series that spans 33 previous meetings back to 1899 when the Aggies bombed the Bengals 52-0.

"We have as good a chance to win with the people we've got as we've ever had," said Stallings. He noted three of the past games were decidedly close when the Aggies had lesser talent.

In four of the five games, the Aggies have been right with the Tigers.

The losses have been by 13-12, 10-0 and 17-6 and the Aggies tied them 7-7 when Ed Hargett was sophomore.

Only last year's 35-6 whipping was by a large margin.

To go along with his optimism for his young team, Stallings pointed out several factors which make the Tigers a powerhouse, at his weekly press conference Tuesday in the Letterman's Lounge.

"LSU will have as much depth as anyone in the country. We can't substitute everytime they do but I think we have some people capable of playing this year."

Tommy Casanova, the Tigers' All-America candidate at tailback, is a great running back, according to Stallings. The junior runs the 100 in 9.7 and plays both offense and defense. He was an All-Southeastern Conference selection last year as a defensive back.

"They've seen us and we haven't seen them," Stallings said and the mentor considers this a disadvantage.

He said that he would rather be in the Tigers shoes of knowing what the other team is going to do.

"Even though we have the game's experience, they've seen what we do and we haven't seen them. All we know is what we've seen in films, and if they decide to pull something new on us we won't know about it and will have to adjust to it at the game after preparing all week for something else."

The Aggies will be wearing net jerseys again at Baton Rouge. The situation caused a controversy last year but the Ags hope they have patched up the problem.

Last season before the game the officials made the Aggies change from their net jerseys, which were used to combat the humidity of the southern Louisiana town, into regular jerseys because it conflicted with the Tigers' jerseys.

LSU was wearing their home white and it seems that the combination of the maroon net with white shoulder pads and numerals on the Aggie jerseys was causing a conflict in identity.

The Aggies then changed to their regular jerseys but will be back this fall with their net jerseys and have put a maroon T-shirt between the jersey and the shoulder pad to counteract the confusion.

"We hope to call a little less plays for Lex," Coach Stallings said but added that what they would do would be according to James' needs in the game.

Stallings had special praise for several players in their play against Wichita State, including placekicker Pat McDermott, who scored 11 points with his soccer style kicking.
