Chadbourne has served as a board member of the Brazos Valley Easter Seal Society since 1956, and is a past director of the state Easter Seal Society.

P. O. Settle Jr. of Fort Worth was reelected president of the state Easter Seal Society, and Harry Martin of San Antonio; Jack B. Dale, Houston; and Mrs. Reagan Jones of Tyler, were named vice presidents. Robert E. Kennedy, Abilene, was elected treasurer. R. A. Parker of Houston is the new chairman of the Texas House of Delegates and Charles W. Walker, Austin, is vice chairman.

Dr. Martin selected outstanding educator

Dr. John L. Martin, A&M graduate of the Metropolitan State College faculty in Denver, Colo., has been selected for the 1970 edition of "Outstanding Educators of America."

Dr. Martin is a professor of chemistry at the Denver, Colo., college. He received the Ph.D. at A&M in 1956.

Nomination and selection for the select listing of 5,000 of America's foremost educators is based on civic and professional achievements evaluated on the basis of local standards of excellence. Nominations are made by presidents, deans, superintendents and other heads of schools and colleges.

Means to present drug program

Dr. Richard K. Means' presentation on drug education in the Health Education Seminar at A&M will be Nov. 18.

Considerable interest has been evidenced in the November seminar of the Health and Physical Education Department series, noted Mrs. Melba Halford, seminar coordinator.

Dr. Means' presentation on content organization and practical suggestions for drug education in schools will be given in the library conference room, she said. Because of public school personnel interest in the October seminar, the Wednesday (Oct. 21) talk by Dr. William C. Swanson on suicide prevention is scheduled in the 300-seat chemistry lecture room.

Marketing group to make trip to Dallas

The A&M Student Chapter of the American Marketing Association will take a field trip to Dallas Monday, announced programs chairman Jerry Crowder.

Students will leave by bus early Monday morning, tour Sanger Harris and other Dallas firms and attend the Dallas Sales and Marketing Executives Club meeting that night in the Dallas Athletic Club.

Crowder said the association's first meeting last week included a talk by Jack Burke, sales and advertising manager for the Kroger Dallas Division.

Burke spoke on "Making Eyes at Women Through Marketing."

He explained how Kroger uses advertising and marketing research to interest the woman consumer to shop at their stores.

Programming course offered to faculty

A non-credit course in Common Business Oriented Language (COBOL) computer programming will be offered to A&M faculty and staff members beginning Nov. 2.

Sponsored by the Data Processing Center, the course is designed to acquaint the employees with the COBOL language to the extent they can use it in their course offerings, according to DPC Director Robert Bower Jr.

Classes will meet from 3 to 5 p.m. each Monday and Wednesday for six weeks.

Bower said there is no charge for enrolling.

Engineering service to attend meetings

A&M's Engineering Extension Service will have five employees attending the annual Texas Municipal League meetings Sunday through Tuesday in Fort Worth.

Director H. D. Bearden will head the delegation. Chief Instructor Ed W. Kerlick and Instructor Leroy C. Anderson, both of the Electric Linemen and Telephone Technicians Training Division, will accompany Bearden to the Municipal Utilities Section meetings.

Representing the Firemen Training School during Fire Chiefs Section meetings will be Chief Instructor Henry D. Smith and Instructor Tom Robinson.

Smith will address the group on fire standards recommended by the new state fire commission. Robinson will present a program on future fire training programs conducted by A&M.

Wool judging team tops in contest

The university's Senior Wool Judging Team won top honors in an eight-team intercollegiate contest Sunday during the annual American Royal Livestock Show in Kansas City, Mo.

Second place went to Kansas State University, third to the University of Nebraska, and fourth to Iowa State University. Texas A&M took third in the contest last year.

Aggie team members are Billy Frank Craddock and Preston Faris of Medina, James Davis of Brownwood, and Morman Kohls of Boerne.

Hinojosa heads feasibility study

A&M Urban Planning Prof. Jesus H. Hinojosa headed a feasibility study judged best in its category at the VIII Congress of the Interamerican Planning Society in Brazil.

Hinojosa was chief of study for a 16-member U. S.-Chile team which prepared the study, "Osorno General Development Plan," for Chile's Ministry of Housing and Urbanism.

The proposal won the first-place prize in competition among "practical" studies. The competition, held every other year, also includes demographic and theoretical categories.

The Texas professor said the project's primary objective was to undertake feasibility studies for investments in public and private housing, community facilities and utilities. The investigations were prepared within the context of a general development planning approach.

"Rather than study the investment of public and private funds for community capital improvements in an unrelated manner," Professor Hinojosa explained, "we prepared a general plan for future development in the foreseeable short, medium and long range."
