Baylor scouting report...

QB problem slowing Bears

By VICTOR MOORE
Battalion Sports Writer

The Texas Aggies will leave home Saturday and venture forth to Waco, to tangle with the Baylor Bears on their home field in a very important game for both clubs.

The Baylor Bears, though (1-4) (0-1) have played some really close ball games. Only their lack of depth has prevented better outcomes. The Bruins, after bowing to Missouri 38-0, in their first game actually led in their next three ball game against Army, Pittsburg, and LSU, defeating only Army 10-7. Two weeks ago, against Arkansas, the Bears, though behind on the scoreboard, were only 47 yards in total offense off the pace set by Arkansas, before the bottom broke out of the Bruin defense in the second half.

The Bears returned 30 lettermen from a 0-10 season. At the end of last year, five were offensive starters and six were defensive starters. Going into the Arkansas game, however, there were only six of last year's starting eleven with one of these a maybe, that being at the quarterback slot, in the starting role.

Baylor's inability to establish the starting quarterback is one of the main problems of the offense. In five games this year, the Bruins have run only 316 plays, 209 on the ground and 107 times going to the air, resulting in a net total of 957 yards.

The passing attack has not been working for Baylor. In 107 attempts this year only 38 have been completed for 420 yards. With the leading receiver being split end Derek Davis, first in receiving in the Southwest Conference, with 21 receptions for 218 yards. He caught six for 108 yards against LSU, and six for 79 yards against Arkansas, two defenses that are tough against the pass.

The offensive line has plenty of beef in (6-8, 250) Jesse Young, (6-6, 239) Ronnie Evans, and (6-4, 231) Joe Albright. They have done a good job this year in giving their passers good protection.

With Young and Evans on the same side of the line, several holes have opened up and will again. Through these holes, running backs Matthew Williams, who has rushed for 249 yards in 81 carries, and Randy Cook, 110 yards in 30 carries, have burst through. Laney Cook, one of the two candidates for Bruin quarterback is a good scrambler as he has gone 177 yards in 67 tries.
