

Couples set kissing record

By JAMES R. JACKSON
A kissing contest at Southwest Texas State resulted in a new world record of nine hours and 17 minutes. Two couples tied for the record which was previously held by a couple from Notre Dame. Books, TV and radios were used to occupy the time spent in kissing.

Dr. Jean Houston, director of the Foundation for Mind Research, speaking at Texas Tech said, "We are making criminals of thousands of people for using a drug (marijuana) that might eventually prove relatively harmless."

She calls American penalties for use of drugs "unique in their severity," adding, "so severe that one often hears reports of a young man serving a sentence of 20 years for having been caught smoking a joint of marijuana while, in the adjoining cell, is a convicted murderer whose term is only seven years."

Although she is in favor of lessening the penalties, she is not in favor of legalizing marijuana.

The University of Florida student body president thinks money for athletics should be rechanneled into academics. He said that "big-time football is fighting a battle for survival—and losing." Ralph Glatfelter pointed out that for every one athletic scholarship given, four academic scholarships are denied.

Groups at the University of Houston have accused the Houston Police Department of being linked with the Ku Klux Klan. Jan Werness, chairwoman for HCEW, read a prepared statement to the press which attributed recent right-wing terrorist acts to the KKK. The statement said the release of Jimmy Hutto and Louis Beam, "raises serious questions about the relationship between the KKK and the Houston Police Department."

Beam and Hutto were arrested by police shortly after a bombing threat had been received by KNUZ radio.

They were driving around the neighborhood with their car lights off and had in their possession three rifles with ammunition, a portable two-way radio, some flammable liquid and KKK literature.

The two men were released by police, without charges after questioning.

The statement continued with a quotation from Frank Converse, Grand Dragon of the KKK in Texas as saying at a KKK rally, "We have them (members) in the police department, in the sheriff's department and up in city hall and these people are working to build up the United Klan."

An article in The Rice Thresher recently stated various alternatives for bringing about the "necessary revisions" to the approaches to ecology, war, poverty, and crime.

The article states political action is one alternative but it is "hopelessly stagnated." Peace marches and antiwar rallies have not worked, but have widened the gaps.

"The only alternative that remains," the article states, is that "we must refuse to participate in our nation's imperialistic aggressions; we must refuse to ac-

"Everybody made such a fuss about it not being properly cleaned, so we took it out!"
