Dorm has 'paper problem'

By JAMES R. JACKSON
 A young woman at SMU is concerned over the amount of toilet paper that has been going to waste recently in her dormitory. She posted a sign in her dorm which read: "Do you have an uncontrollable sickness? The dorm is using twice as much toilet paper this year as compared to last year. It is costing us $45 more a month..."

The House Mother had further comment on the situation: "I don't care if it is a natural function, I think it's a disgrace!"

At Texas Tech an Eskimo girl has been selling handcraft on University Avenue. Her name is Greneta Edmiston, a 19-year-old who was born at Fairbanks, Alaska, and graduated from Lubbock High School.

She specializes in making belts, which she says takes from three to five hours. She learned to weave and loom Indian style in the Cleveland National Forest of Southern California where she hitchhiked after graduation from high school.

Then she began to hitchhike back and forth across the country, "meeting people and participating in most of the major happenings which today's youth culture considers important, including Woodstock."

According to Miss Edmiston, "The California coast and from Illinois eastward are the easiest places to hitchhike. Texas and the South are the worst."

She confirmed what most boys have known for years—"girls get picked up much quicker than boys do." For example, she said it took her only "two traveling days to get from Lubbock to New York."

According to an article in the SMU paper, The Daily Campus, Jesse Jackson, speaking to blacks and whites in Dallas, said, "we are all in the belly of a whale, a big white whale, a killer whale... Moby Dick Nixon."

Jackson, national chairman of Operation Breadbasket, said he thinks the real enemies of the blacks are themselves. "The real enemies are uncles, sons, and fathers," he said. "Know your enemy. Get off each other's backs."

He said of the great white whale, "He is not a mean whale. He is a sick whale." He added that no matter what a person believes in, what color he is, whether rich or poor, that all persons are in the whale's belly.

"Whether you believe in the whale's system or not is irrelevant."

He says there have always been more white folks on welfare than blacks. "The reason is that welfare came into existence for white folks."

To defeat the whale he says, "We've got economic power. The wise use of our dollar will make that whale do funny things."

The UT Health Center now has the Unwanted Pregnancy Counseling Service "which dispenses firm professional comfort and supplies accurate medical, legal and practical advice" to university women who are often in "complicated and bewildered turmoil" after being diagnosed as pregnant.

Dr. Paul Trickett, health center director and gynecologist, explained how the health center's approach is unique: "The counseling is done in an expert medical environment. Complete professional psychological and psychiatric aid and advice are offered to each woman. All alternatives not just abortion, are explained, and women are educated about pregnancy and birth control."

According to the director of the health service, intensely emotional women "often have the fear that at any moment during a secret abortion, someone may burst in and say, 'Aha—what's going on here!'"

Day students can get rooms

Students living off campus who want to reserve a residence hall room for the 1971 spring semester should go by the Housing Office and do so before Dec. 8, Housing Manager Allan M. Madeley said Monday.

Madeley said students who do not have a room deposit on file with the university must make such a deposit before making application for a residence hall room.
