Singing Cadets accept six new members

Six new members of the Singing Cadets have been named by Director Robert L. Boone to fill vacancies created at the end of the university's fall semester. New buffos are Mitchell D.

Hall, baritone of Sugar Land; Kevin R. Rogers, baritone of Baytown; James S. Shuttlesworth, second tenor of Pasadena; Denis L. Parish, second tenor of San Antonio; Carlos D. Pena, bass of San Antonio, and William E. Reeves, bass of Orange.

Senate begins

During discussion last week and last night, senators pointed out the amendment would allow as few as 26 senators to approve an amendment (about one-fourth of the membership).

Recording Secretary Bill Hartsfield, in defending the amendment, said attendance by senators is so poor that usually barely over the required three-fourth is present in the first place. Thus, he said, a small number, six or seven, could prevent an amendment from being passed.

Parliamentarian Michael Essmyer presented a recommendation by the Senate's sweetheart committee, that "The Aggie Sweetheart will be selected from A&M coeds only."

After the recommendation was presented some committee members, including Senate Treasurer Eddie Duryea, said that the idea had seemed good at the time but did not now. Duryea said he thought it would be best if the recommendation were referred back to the committee for further consideration.

Boone said addition of the buffos brings the famed all-male choral group's membership to 60 for the remainder of the 1970-71 school year.

Wadsworth attends engineers conference

Dr. Richard B. Wadsworth, assistant professor of industrial engineering, participated in the recent Institute for Electrical and Electronic Engineers 1971 International Conference on Systems, Networks, and Computers, held in Oaxtepec, Mexico.

Wadsworth was chairman of the sessions on applications of systems engineering and also delivered a paper on "Application of Systems Engineering to Education."
