bid for Border repeat

The Texas Aggie track team still recovering from an early defends its team title in the Uniseason hamstring pull. He'll versity Division of the Border Olympics Saturday, and with an injury slowing down one of their top performers the task is easier said than done.

Marvin Mills, one of the key men in the 440 and mile relay as well as the sprints, will run in only the 440-yard dash. Mills hasn't run since aggravating at the Houston Federation meet a muscle pull he suffered last summer at the NCAA meet, and has been able to resume workouts only this week.

Brother Curtis will bear much of the burden and a top performance from Curtis could show whether the Aggies rule as team champs again. He'll be in the 100 and 220 as well as running a leg on both relays.

Rockie Woods, the two-time SWC 100-yard dash champion, will not run his specialty as he is

Former gridders Larry and Ross score again

By CLIFFORD BROYLES Battalion Sports Editor

Former Texas A&M football stars Larry Stegent, now with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League - and Ross Brupbacher - now with the Chicago Bears of the NFL were two of six professional football players who got together and provided $1,000 to William Madden, 43, of Fort Worth so he could give his wife Betty, a cancer victim, a decent burial.

Madden advertised furniture, clothing, a portable television, a record player, groceries and other articles under the heading

"Must Sell for Funeral." Madden said that he had spent nearly all his savings on caring for his wife, who died Sunday, and a funeral home told him the burial lot and casket would cost about $600.

Mrs. John Kennedy of Fort Worth, who answered the advertisement, started a collection when she heard the story. Persons had already contributed $300 to a fund at Seminary State Bank in Fort Worth where the special fund was set up.

Stegent and Brupbacher became involved when Langdon "Zip" Viracola of Dallas contacted them. Both are continuing work on their degree this semes-

"He told what the situation was and said he thought we ought to help. I agreed and we did it," Stegent said.

Viracola, president of the American Sports Association, contacted the players whom he was an agent for when they signed their grid contracts.

Stegent and Brupbacher have just finished their first season in the pro grid wars, with Stegent missing the season due to knee injury. contribute were Skip Butler,, place kicker of the Atlanta Falcons, who played his college football at the University of Texas at Arlington; Linzy Cole, wide receiver for the Chicago Bears, who played at Texas Christian University; and two players who were selected in the recent draft of college players in January -Bill Atessis of the Baltimore Colts and the University of Texas at Austin and Richard Harris from Grambling, who was the number one draft choice of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Madden has also received at least 13 free burial plots in four different cemeteries. He accepted one and services will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. in the Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Aggies finish season against Arkansas five

By JOHN CURYLO

Bill Cooksey, Chuck Smith and Steve Niles close out their college careers here tonight when the Aggies meet the Arkansas Razorbacks.

The three will be in the starting lineup for the 8 p.m. tipoff that ends play this year for both teams. Cooksey is a 6-2 guard from Houston Sam Houston, Smith is a 6-5 forward from Odessa Permian, and Niles is a 7-foot center from San Antonio

"When they were sophomores, we won the conference championship," Coach Shelby Metcalf said. "Then, last year, we were second, and now we have, at best, a 9-17 year. It's a shame that it couldn't have been the other way around for the type of athletes and people they are."

Another senior on the squad this year was Pat Kavanagh. He injured his back in the Citadel game before conference play and was not able to finish the season. However, he did make a contribution to the team as a scout. Metcalf said that he is one of the best scouts the team has ever had. Kavanaugh is a biology major from Camden, New Jersey.

The other starters tonight will be Charlie Jenkins and Jeff Overhouse. Jenkins came to A&M to play baseball. Although he didn't start on the Fish team last year, he has developed this season into one of the best players on the
