House cheers release by president of Calley

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 President Nixon's order for the immediate release of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., pending review of his conviction for murder at My Lai was applauded in the House of Representatives, reflecting the opposition to the verdict that had swelled across the country.

News of the President's action, announced at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., drew applause and cheers from House members who were in the middle of a debate on extension of the draft.

The same reaction occurred elsewhere.

John Roemer, executive director of the Maryland American Civil Liberties Union, said, "Our organization is generally in favor of keeping defendants free until some final judicial decision is made. Calley is no exception; I see no reason why he shouldn't be released pending a review."

Calley, 27, was convicted Monday by a six-man military jury at Ft. Benning, Ga., of the premeditated murder of at least 22 Vietnamese old men, women and children at My Lai on March 16, 1968. He was sentenced Wednesday by the same jury to life imprisonment at hard labor. Appeals are automatic.

Before Nixon's action was announced, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., suggested the President appoint a panel of "distinguished citizens" to review Calley's case and to provide a "speedy review and a thoughtful review that would have some credibility."

Reaction across the country had been running strongly against the verdict. There were telegrams of support, offers of money, plans for demonstrations.

More than 1,200 telegrams were delivered Thursday morning to the courthouse at Ft. Benning and thousands of letters were delivered to Calley's apartment. Most were believed to support the soldier.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Wednesday the White House already had received 5,000 telegrams and there was a backlog of 20,000 waiting to be transmitted. He said they were running 100-1 in support of Calley.

Gov. Edgar D. Whitcomb of Indiana, a decorated World War II veteran, ordered all state flags flown at half-staff to protest the conviction and sentencing.

Blacks recruited as NYC firemen

NEW YORK (AP) — "Soul brother, become a fireman. New York City needs your black experience," reads a purple and black poster distributed by the Vulcan Society, an organization of black firemen.

The campaign by Vulcan and the city's fire department to improve the meager representation of minorities of the 14,000-man force appeals to the language and to the life-style of ghetto youths.

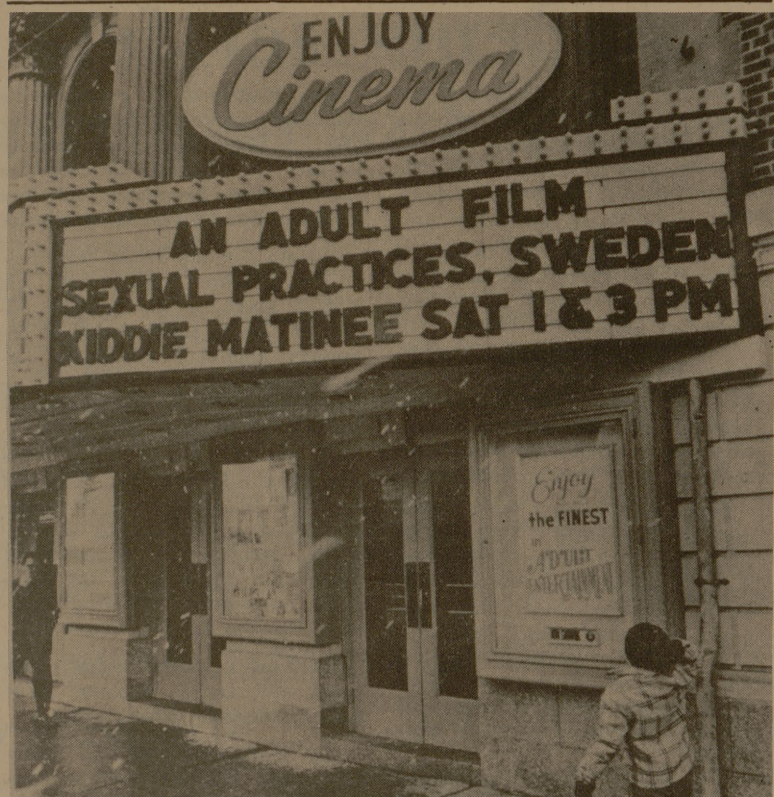

On the poster is a sketch of a young man with an Afro hairdo.

But David Floyd, president of Vulcan, warns potential recruits not to grow their Afros too long because "hair burns easily."

"They say the Fire Department is part of the establishment," Floyd said Monday. "But I tell them they can wear dashikis on their days off. Then I tell them the starting salary and they begin to get interested."

"With $9,400 a year (the starting salary)," Floyd says in speaking appearances at high schools or at classes conducted by the Vulcan Society at its Brooklyn headquarters to prepare recruits for the Sept. 18 Civil Service exam, "you can buy a lot of Black Power — and if you want, all the beads, earrings and dashikis you'll ever need."

He said the society's greatest success had been with returning Vietnam veterans. "They find themselves looking for a job and they're not coming back heroes and they don't want to join another para-military outfit."

IT COULD BE EDUCATING if they mix up the reels at the Enjoy Cinema in Johnson City, New York. In fact, it does seem to be puzzling the small boy in the foreground. The sex film won't be shown to the kids, the theater was just advertising two features on the same board. (AP Wirephoto)
