

President's students set fete

President's Scholars of A&M will convene Friday at Hensel Park for a steak fry honoring their achievements and recognition of 1971-72 honorees who will arrive next fall.

Two awards will be made at the social function and President Jack Williams will speak.

Fifty President's Scholars are now in studies at A&M. Another 22 will enroll in August. Eleven of the new recipients of the award plan to attend the steak fry.

They are David W. Gent and Antonio F. (Tony) Pelletier of San Antonio; Corbett D. Harkey, Victoria; Randall L. James, College Station; Terry W. Myrick, John D. Nash Jr., and John Tyler of Houston; Ruben E. Ochoa, Laredo; John D. Shelton, League City; Ike C. Thacker, Beaumont, and Scott W. Woods, Richardson.

Selected annually from nominees of the state's high school junior class, President's Scholars represent students whose academic work has been near perfect. The honor, which carries a $1,000 for four years scholarship for undergraduate study at A&M, is announced before the recipient begins his senior year of high school.

The Endowed President's Scholars program, initiated by the late President Earl Rudder in 1967, is designed to keep the state's most promising scholars in Texas for university studies.

Guests for the steak fry hosted by Logan Weston and his YMCA staff include Ford D. Albritton, Texas A&M Board of Directors member; Leslie L. Appelt, Association of Former Students president, Ed Mosher, board chairman, Mosher Steel, Houston; R. W. Baker Jr., board chairman, Mercantile National Bank; C. E. Whitson, Sam Houston State professor; G. S. Appling, retired manufacturer of Victorville, Calif., and Roy Redwine, manager of Appling Business Estates in El Campo.

They are all Texas A&M graduates and except for one have had President's Scholarships.

Dr. Horace R. Byers, chairman, and other Scholarships Committee members and deans are also invited.

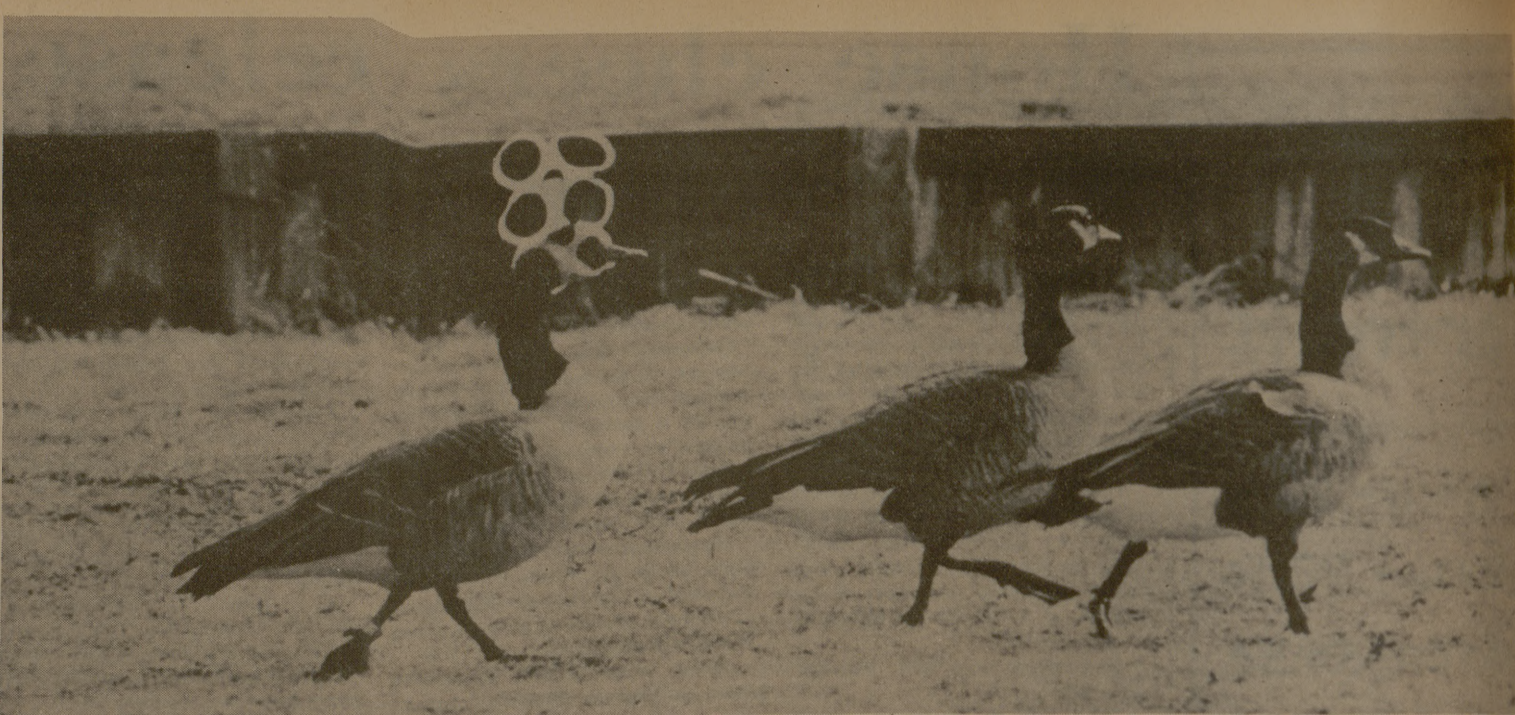

Kenny Hensley, Class of 1972 President's Scholar of O'Donnell, will give the invocation.

Agnew against full prosecution for battle error

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice president Spiro T. Agnew was quoted Wednesday as deploring what he said was a tendency to forgive young men who desert from the military, yet to prosecute to the fullest extent a soldier who may have made a mistake in combat.

But Agnew said he believes the American public should be made aware of the processes completed and the avenues of appeal remaining open to Calley and his lawyers, the Tribune reported in its Thursday editions.

Easter service scheduled for Monday

Easter services sponsored by the Student "Y" Association will be held Monday in the All Faiths Chapel at Texas A&M.

Dr. Malcolm Bane, pastor of the First Baptist Church in College Station, will be the speaker, announced Dan McQueen, Y publicity chairman.

Music for the 7:30 p.m. service will be provided by the Singing Cadets, directed by Robert L. Boone and accompanied by Mrs. June Biering.

"The university community as well as students are invited to participate," McQueen said.

Health education seminar Tuesday

Environmental effects on mental health will be examined Tuesday at A&M by Stuart Fisher, public health specialist with the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Fisher will appear in the Health Education Seminar series of the Health and Physical Education Department.

His 4 p.m. talk will be in the University Library conference suite, Room 226, announced Mrs. Melba Halford, seminars coordinator. The series lecture is a public-free event, she noted.

Graduate to manage 'Atomic World' tour

Orlan L. Ihms, A&M graduate with several years teaching experience, will manage a 1971-72 "This Atomic World" touring lecture program for A&M.

The Llano Junior High School science teacher was named the program lecturer-demonstrator by Dr. Horace R. Byers, academic vice president.

Ihms will take the program to high schools in West and Southwest Texas.

The traveling demonstration lecture is cooperatively conducted by A&M with Oak Ridge Associated Universities and the Atomic Energy Commission. The program explains atomic energy and its uses in student terms.

Ihms, 29, will succeed Harold L. Watson as the "This Atomic World" manager and is the fifth lecturer in A&M's six years in the program.

Ihms has taught five years at Llano since completing his bachelor degree in poultry science at Texas A&M in 1965. He worked summers on the master's degree in education, awarded last year.

Firemen to attend safety association

Henry D. Smith and John R. Rauch of the Engineering Extension Service's Firemen Training School will attend the Texas Safety Association meetings Monday through Wednesday in Houston.

Smith, chief instructor for the fire school, will participate in a demonstration of train derailment problems to the Industrial Chemicals Section.

Rauch will attend the American Society of Safety Engineers meetings.

Both men will participate in the Veterans of Safety meetings, an organization for long-time safety experts who recommend safety procedures.

English professor awarded $1,500

Dr. Forrest D. Burt of the English Department has been awarded a $1,500 summer stipend from the National Endowment for the Humanities for 1971 research.

Burt, recently named chairman of freshman English in the department, was notified of the award by Wallace B. Edgerton, acting chairman of the Washington, D. C., organization.

Edgerton said that the stipend, one of 120 awarded in the U. S. this year, is to further a recipient's "development as a scholar and teacher."

Burt will study John Henry Newman's 1864 autobiography, "Apologia pro vita sua," from the point of view of Alfred Adler's psychology.

Singing Cadets, Franchi together on new record

A national release to be on record sales racks next month will include the sound of the Singing Cadets.

The 45 r.p.m. single slated for national release in late April will be a Singing Cadet and orchestra-backed rendition by Sergio Franchi of "No Man Is An Island."

Singing Cadets Director Robert L. Boone said his group will be recorded onto a master tape in Houston studios during the spring semester class break.

Franchi performed "No Man Is An Island" with the Singing Cadets on the Jan. 24 Ed Sullivan Show. He arranged the group's participation in the single.

Boone said Franchi is giving the Cadets a percentage of the royalties.

"This occurred," Boone added, "as a result of Sergio's association with the Singing Cadets at the Miss Teenage America Pageant and on the Sullivan Show, and because of the Sullivan mix-up."

Another performing group went overtime on the Sullivan show and, with time running out, a Singing Cadets' solo was cut in order to get the Franchi-Cadets number on the air.

WHEN RE-ELECTED TO BRYAN CITY COMMISSIONER JOE FAULK PROMISES

To continue to assist in the development of the industrial growth we have achieved these last two years, and thereby provide more and better paying jobs for our citizens.

To continue public ownership of our utility system. To keep my promise of 23 February 1971 to our newly elected School Board to cooperate with them and do all things necessary to promote the quality of education on as fair a basis as possible.

To continue to involve a greater cross-section of our populace in City Government - something unheard of in Bryan prior to 1969.

To continue to improve the efficiency of our city's operations to provide better government per dollar spent.

To keep street lighting, sewage and drainage programs progressing at the accelerated rate we have developed.

To continue working for additional low-cost housing projects such as the ones we have already brought about.

To make full use of Federal and State funds for our local projects to assure adequate sewage and drainage in all parts of our city, and to avoid unnecessary expenditures.

To do all that I can for this City in an honest and forthright manner. I never have and never will use this office for financial or personal gain and I don't intend to start now.
