

League officials to discuss issues

By JOHN CURYLO
Assistant Sports Editor

While the best in the Southwest Conference are fighting it out in track, golf, and tennis this weekend, officials of all the member schools will be having their spring meetings to discuss a number of issues.

The series of meetings will begin Thursday afternoon and continue through Sunday, and perhaps even Monday.

To top off the spring meets and the many talks at the Ramada Inn, the conference title in baseball will go to the winner of the A&M-Texas series to be played at Kyle Field Monday and Tuesday.

Probably the biggest item on the agenda will be a report of the Southwest Conference Expansion Feasibility Committee; in other words, the admission of the University of Houston to the SWC.

Along the lines of scholastics and eligibility, there will be a report of the committee appointed to submit possible changes in the SWC Withdrawal Rule. This includes regulations regulating students withdrawing from school during a semester, the possibility of counting summer school work toward athletic eligibility, and a possible change in the nine hour minimum requirement rule for athletic eligibility.

Another consideration will be that involving the amount allowed for incidental expenses for students on athletic scholarships. SWC rules allow only $10 per month, but the National Collegiate Athletic Conference regulations place the limit at $20 a month.

Conference members may change by-laws which allow a school participating in a football bowl game to retain $100,000 plus 1/2 of the remainder of the share of bowl receipts.

Studies will be made of the seating arrangements at basketball games, particularly concerning the location of seats allotted to students of visiting schools at intra-conference games.

The track schedule for next year will receive a hard look, also. 1971 is the last year that the intra-conference track schedule was projected. A decision will be made on whether to continue it, and, if so, how many dates will be assigned.

A change will be studied in golf scheduling and maybe in the medals which are awarded winners of conference meet events.

Still another rule change will be scrutinized, this one regarding students who have spent 18 months or longer in the armed services.

On top of all these items will be the usual business discussed and acted on at conference get togethers. These include consideration of recruiting problems and review of agreements and regulations, selection of sites and dates for the 1971 cross country meet and the 1972 golf, track, tennis, and swimming meets.

Also, selection of site and date for next year's spring business meeting, and thoughts of holding it separate from the spring athletic meets is under consideration. This would avoid conflict with the final days of classes at the member universities.

Added to this will be disposition of football radio for 1972 and television rights for the 1972-73 basketball season. Regulations regarding delayed telecasts of football and basketball games and radio broadcasts of basketball games are on the discussion list, too.

Basketball and track coaches will meet tomorrow, and athletic directors, head coaches, and sports information directors are scheduled for Friday.

Athletic directors, coaches, business managers, and sports information directors get together Saturday morning, and then that afternoon, Sunday, and maybe Monday, a joint conclave of faculty representatives and athletic directors closes out the business sessions.

Softball, tennis playoff to be completed this week

Playoffs are underway in two sports in intramurals this week. Class A and C softball and Class A and C tennis will be completing their season Thursday and will mark the end of the spring intramural program with the exception of swimming.

Swimming began April 26 and will run through this week with the finals scheduled for May 3 in all classes.

Class A finalists are C-1, Squadron 5; Squadron 2, Squadron 11; C-2, E-1. The championship games for both A and C classes are scheduled for Thursday, April 29.

The girls from Puryea emerged as the winners of the women's volleyball tournament recently completed. Taking second place was Data Processing Center and third place was won by Agriculture Extension Service Team Number 2.
