32 cadets receive extra summer training

Several Texas A&M Army ROTC cadets will wear Airborne and Ranger insignia during the 1971-72 school year.

Thirty-two cadets, including Corps Commander Thomas M. Stanley of Mt. Pleasant and Jimmy D. Ferguson, corps adjutant and head yell leader of Garland, have completed the rugged three-week jump school at Fort Benning, Ga.

Another nine plan to attend following regular summer camp, announced Col. Jim H. McCoy.

The A&M commandant said the cadets participated in airborne training with regular Army personnel at their own expense. The course includes a week each of ground training, tower jumping and plane parachuting.

Seven of the 32 graduates will go from Airborne to Ranger School. The latter eight-week school will be in lieu of the six-week summer camp.
