AID contract to assist South America

The Texas A&M University System has received a two-year Agency for International Development (AID) regional contract to provide professional assistance in the training of animal science students for the southern region of South America.

E. Paul Creech, assistant director of the International Programs Office at Texas A&M, said the contract is a consortium agreement between Texas A&M, Michigan State University and Pennsylvania State University. First-year funding is $582,496. Purpose of the contract is to provide technical advice and assistance in Latin America through development of the Graduate Schools of Agricultural Sciences at Casterlar, Argentina. Students from several South America countries are enrolled at the Argentine college.

Vet Microbiology gets $20,000 grant
The Veterinary Microbiology Department has received a $20,091 research contract from the U. S. Army Medical Research and Development Command. The two-year study, "Jet Injection in Large Animal Medicine, Jet Injection Evaluation," is an effort to evaluate, modify and apply a portable jet injection syringe for use in domestic animals, explained Dr. L. C. Grumbles, principal investigator and department head.

If the equipment can be adapted and designed to work satisfactorily it would have wide application in veterinary medicine where many animals must be vaccinated under field conditions, Grumbles said.

Police instructor gets state post
Ira E. Scott of College Station has been elected second vice president of the new Association of Texas Law Enforcement Educators.

Scott is chief instructor for the Engineering Extension Service's Police Training Division. Law enforcement educators formed the association during the Texas Police Association meeting last week in Amarillo. Scott said there are approximately 125 charter members.

Liberal Arts dean seminar participant
Dr. Charles E. McCandless, associate dean of the College of Liberal Arts, is among 35 administrators from Texas colleges and universities selected to participate in a special two-week seminar July 11-23 at Texas A&M and the University of Texas at Austin.

The Fifth Annual Summer Seminar on Academic Administration is sponsored by Texas A&M and the Association of Texas Colleges and Universities. This year the Sid Richardson Foundation of Fort Worth and UT-Austin are collaborating on the seminar.

Principal topic for the sessions is "Higher Education and Its Constituencies."

Texaco hires 2 A&M graduates
Two Texas A&M graduates have reported for assignment at Texaco's Port Arthur refinery.

James M. Russell graduated from Texas A&M University with a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering. Entering Texaco service June 1, 1970, at Bellaire Research Laboratories, Bellaire, Texas, he was transferred to Port Arthur Plant on May 10, 1971, as an engineer in the Process Engineering Division.

David A. McGinn graduated from Texas A&M University with a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering in 1971. He is a member of Pi Tau Sigma fraternity. David has been assigned as a Design Engineer in the Engineering Division.

CS man named to BVDC post
Johnny P. Smith of College Station has been named coordinator of law enforcement and criminal justice programs for the Brazos Valley Development Council, according to H. A. Willis, Jr., chairman of the board.

Smith, a native of Corsicana and a 1971 honor graduate of Texas A&M, will fill the newly created position July 1.

He served seven years in the U. S. Navy, aboard a nuclear polaris submarine. He is married to the former Kathy O'Neal of Corsicana and has a seven year old son, Jeffrey. The Smiths are members of the A&M Methodist Church.

Dallas educator joins faculty
Dr. Arnold G. Ashburn, assistant superintendent of the Dallas Independent School District, will join the College of Education faculty at Texas A&M this fall.

Ashburn's appointment as associate professor in the Educational Administration Department will become effective Sept. 1, announced Dr. Harold L. Hawkins, head. The new professor will hold graduate faculty rank.

A Hardin-Simmons University graduate who received the Ph.D. in educational administration at the University of Southern Mississippi in 1967, he has had college teaching experience at the University of Corpus Christi and at Hattiesburg.

Ag Extension offers nutrition booklet
Do you love your family?

If so, pick up a "Love" pamphlet at several local grocery stores during the next two weeks, suggests Sally Springer, Extension foods and nutrition specialist.

The pamphlets, distributed by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, outline family daily nutritional needs, and include a food plan based on the four basic food groups — milk, meat, fruit-vegetable, and bread-cereal. Regardless of age, weight, body structure or sex, each family member needs a wide variety of food each day to be healthy and well-nourished.

And as the food shopper and planner, homemakers are responsible for knowing what these foods are, Miss Springer reminds. A convenient size that can be taped on a cupboard door or bulletin board for reference, the pamphlet also lists "Food Is Love" ideas for menu planning.

By following the suggestions, Miss Springer says, you'll be happier knowing your family is healthier.

6 area policemen enrolled in course

Six Bryan-College Station law enforcement officers are among 18 policemen enrolled in a four-week survey course conducted by the Engineering Extension Service's Police Training Division.

Attending daily classes at the Texas A&M University Research Annex are Brazos County Deputy Sheriff Joseph M. Adams and Bryan Patrolmen Domingo Munoz and Donald (Pat) Youngblood.

Texas A&M's University Police Department has Patrolmen Mason A. Newton, Elmer E. Schneider Jr. and Andrew Simmons enrolled.

Chief Instructor Ira E. Scott said the 160-hour course covers all aspects of basic law enforcement and advanced training in criminal investigation and firearms.

Ag journalism grad gets local SDX award

Charles W. Hale, January graduate of Texas A&M University from Tyler, has been awarded Sigma Delta Chi citation as the outstanding member of his class. Hale is employed as editor of Pioneer Seed Division's company magazine in Des Moines, Iowa.

An agricultural journalism major at A&M, he was editor and managing editor of the Agriculturalist, held offices in the A&M chapter of SDX and was member of the Agriculture Council.

Citations awarded by the professional journalistic society are given on the basis of character, scholarship and journalistic competence. Selection is by a committee composed of student, faculty and professional members of SDX.

Aggie Band group sets meeting date

The Texas Aggie Band Association has selected Oct. 2, weekend of the Texas A&M-Cincinnati football game, for its biennial reunion.

The organization of former Aggie Band members will have a luncheon, business meeting, tours, attend the game and other activities, announced President Homer Hunter of Dallas.

Band exes from throughout the U. S. and several foreign countries are expected for the fourth meeting of the association chartered in 1965.

Reunion planning for the TABA executive committee is directed by Larry Christian of the Building Construction Department, College of Architecture.

Beef, cattle course planned for August

Texas A&M University's 21st Annual Beef Cattle Short Course is set for August 16-17 at the Memorial Student Center.

The theme of this year's program is "Improving Reproductive Efficiency in Beef Cattle." The short course will feature information on breeding heifers, feeding programs for breeding animals and calving difficulties as they relate to cow size, sire and feeding regimes.

That's a high fence for a young man to walk, but take a good look at his face, and you'll see that he's not only determined to do it, but confident that he can.

Chances are, with this attitude, he won't slip. At least, he'll have far less chance of slipping than if he approached "fence-walking" plagued by self-doubt.

So many of us approach tasks, challenges, opportunities, with a nagging conviction of our own failure, even before we begin. We need more faith in ourselves. Self-faith comes only from a far greater faith: Faith in God.

Face up to your own "fence-walking." In the course of life, we all have to do quite a bit of it. Find the courage to start by listening to what your church has to say to you.
