

Hates name, likes work

Playboy Clubs have a mother

NEW YORK (AP)—Attractive, vivacious, bright Elizabeth Yee has a job which includes hiring, firing, counseling, supervising, costuming and filing constant reports on 90 similarly endowed girls. And there's only one thing she doesn't like about it all—her title.

"I hate being called 'Bunny Mother,'" Miss Yee says, her dark eyes snapping, though still crinkling with humor. But she is, in fact, in charge of the Bunnies at the Playboy club here, and it's no easy job.

Miss Yee spent a week at the Playboy headquarters in Chicago being trained for her job, but she says her own experience as a Bunny also helped.

"I know about their problems, because I've been through them myself," she says. "If a girl comes in and tells me how much her feet hurt, I know, I don't just shrug it off."

Miss Yee says most of the girls like working at the Playboy Club because of the flexible hours and good salary. "It's especially attractive for models and actresses," she says, "since if they get a sudden booking, they just have to call and let us know they won't be in."

And she adds, once hired, the girls know they will be well-protected. "They are not to be verbally abused," their Bunny mother states firmly. "If they are, and it is blatantly the customer's fault, his club key will be pulled."

But it works both ways. Miss Yee admits customers ask Bunnies for dates frequently, and they are not allowed to go. "They are told to say, 'I'm terribly sorry sir, but we aren't allowed to go out with customers.' If the customer persists, the floor manager will take care of the situation," she says.

And what happens if a Bunny doesn't follow the rules? "She's fired," Miss Yee says.

The image of a Bunny, Miss Yee says, is "a young, fresh, personable young lady," emphasis on lady, and when she's hiring new Bunnies she keeps those factors firmly in mind.

When a new Bunny is hired, she has a week's orientation course, Miss Yee explains. At the end of that time, she must pass a written test, and after a month she has a review course. At the end of three months a girl is taught how to serve food.

And even getting dressed is complicated. "Each girl usually has three costumes," Miss Yee says. These include plain pumps, support hose (both for comfort and appearance) patterned hose, the shell, a rosette with the Bunny's name on it, white collars and cuff, and the famous cotton tail. There are four seamstresses working full-time to maintain the costumes.

Senior receives $500 Ralston award

Ronald W. Droll of Rowena, senior agricultural engineering major at Texas A&M University, has received a $500 Ralston Purina Scholarship in recognition of academic standing and student activities.

Dr. R. C. Potts, A&M associate dean of agriculture, said Droll has maintained a straight-A average, which means he has been designated a "Distinguished Student" every semester of his college career.

The student has twice received the prestigious Jesse H. Jones Scholarship, is vice president of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers Student Chapter, and is a member of Tau Beta Phi and Phi Kappa Phi honor societies.

Girl karate star poses new competition to a man's art

READING, Pa. (AP)—In these liberated 70s it is no surprise to find a girl like Kim Fritz with two four-foot-high trophies and over 40 other awards, for—of all things—her karate talents.

In fact Kim, a recent high school graduate, is the No. 1 karate competitor in the United States, and she only began studying karate two years ago. She wanted a little knowledge of self-defense, but found she loved it.

to strike with full body weight. The remarkable thing is that there is no physical contact in karate. "It takes quite a bit of self-control to pull a punch three inches from someone's nose, or kick past an ear, disturbing only a few hairs," Kim remarked.

Kim also explains that women usually pick up karate faster than men, since men have to unlearn so many fighting techniques which are not acceptable in karate. Women are usually in better physical shape too, since they keep themselves physically active doing housework.

Kim reports women enjoy the karate exercises, not only because they are slimming, but also because they are similar to ballet exercises and produce grace and coordination.

Area Kiwanians get state posts

Two local Kiwanians were elected to high Division IX offices last weekend during the Texas-Oklahoma District Convention.

Jack Gardner of the Bryan Kiwanis Club was elevated from lieutenant governor-elect to lieutenant governor, and College Station Kiwanian Walter Manning was elected lieutenant governor-elect. Both men will serve from October 1971 through September 1972.
