Cooper named Aggie editor

Jerry C. Cooper, journalism graduate of A&M, has been appointed editor of The Texas Aggie, official magazine for the 55,000-member Texas A&M Association of Former Students.

Richard (Buck) Weirus, association executive director, announced Cooper will be responsible for production of the monthly magazine and will do public relations work for the association.

Cooper, 30, is a member of the class of 1963. He comes to the university campus from the Galveston Daily News where he worked as a reporter-photographer covering city and school news from Texas City, La Marque, Dickinson and League City.

A 1959 graduate of Texas City High School, Cooper attended A&M from 1959 to 1962 and 1964 to 1966, receiving a bachelor's degree in journalism.

He worked for radio station KORA as "Aggie Hour" announcer during 1965-66.

Following graduation Cooper served three years in the U. S.

Army. He was civil affairs officer in South Vietnam from June, 1968, to June, 1969, and was in charge of Army Reserve personnel actions at 4th Army Headquarters in San Antonio for one year prior to discharge as a first lieutenant in June, 1969.

Cooper replaces Connie Eckard on the association staff. Eckard has joined the Skelly Oil Public Relations Department in Tulsa, Okla.

Mrs. Cooper is the former Carole Edinburgh of Texas City.

Power companies and mining operations cannot meet pollution controls immediately

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two administration officials told a congressional committee Wednesday the nation will have to dim its bright lights if it wants cleaner air now.

Power companies and mining operations, they said, cannot meet strong pollution controls immediately and still provide enough energy and materials to sustain America's standard of living.

"The economic cost to the minerals industry of maintaining and expanding production while giving full attention to environmental production will, of course affect our efforts to assure adequate supplies of minerals and energy" said Harold B. Scott, acting assistant secretary of Commerce.

Scott and Elmer F. Bennett, general counsel to the Office of Emergency Preparedness, appeared before the Joint Committee on Defense Production to testify on the nation's reservoir of natural resources.

Both said America already is having trouble producing enough raw materials to satisfy its energy and production needs and will have to turn increasingly to other countries for some materials.

Only 10 per cent of the bauxite and alumina ore needed by the United States is produced domestically, Scott said, and the nation's aluminum production is expected to increase by 6 to 8 per cent a year.

Scott said the U. S. currently produces enough clay, coal, sulfur, silica and sodium to satisfy its needs but is almost totally dependent on other countries for "some of the more important industrial minerals" such as chromite, columbium, manganese, tin and platinum.

Bennett told the committee the United States once was a major exporter of oil and petroleum but now finds itself increasingly dependent on foreign countries for this fuel.

Both men said the problems the United States is having in meeting present needs would be compounded by immediate pollution requirements.

But he added "given proper lead time to install appropriate controls, and given emission standards consistent with regional air-quality standards, the cost can be cut sharply and the efficiency improved."

"In the environmental area in most cases, we would do well to act only after we understand the economic impact, costs and alternatives of a proposed action . . ."

Carter dies in Arlington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clifton C. Carter, 53, a former executive director of the Democratic National Committee, died Tuesday in Arlington Hospital after a brief illness.

He was for many years active in Lyndon B. Johnson's election campaigns and at one time was chairman of Johnson's political organization in Texas.

A native of Smithville, Tex., he attended Schreiner Institute, Kerrville, Tex., and the University of Texas. He was a lieutenant colonel in the Army during World War II and served overseas 30 months with the Texas National Guard's 36th Infantry Division.

After the war he operated a soft-drink bottling business in Bryan, Tex., and in 1946 became campaign manager for Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex.

Carter was chairman of Johnson's statewide political organization in 1954 and in the 1960 presidential election played an active role in carrying Texas for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket. He joined Johnson's staff in Washington in 1961.

Shortly after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, Carter was designated as the White House liaison man with the Democratic National Committee.

He became executive director of the national committee in 1965 and then committee treasurer. He resigned in 1966 and entered the investment business in Washington. He lived with his family in suburban Arlington, Va.

Survivors include his widow, the former Mary Jane Garrett; three daughters, Mrs. Michael J. Livingston, Austin, Tex., Mrs. Daniel B. Shuffie, Annandale, Va., and Laurie; two sons, William G., at the University of Cincinnati, and Lyndon at the University of Texas; and three grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

President Nixon to confer Sept. 29 with Soviet Minister Andrei Gromyko

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will confer here next Wednesday with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, the White House announced today.

Gromyko has had annual conferences with Nixon on the occasion of the Russian leader's visits to the United Nations General Assembly.

Asked if the Soviets had requested the meeting, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said each government was involved in advance negotiations and reached an agreement on the White House session.

Ziegler, when asked what the two men would talk about, replied, "I don't have details to give you on that."

Nixon's top national security adviser, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, was bound for New York today to make a speech. But neither he nor the White House would specify his audience or the location of the appearance.

In answer to a question, Ziegler said Kissinger would not be meeting with Gromyko. The presidential adviser had a secret session in New York with the Soviet foreign minister about a year ago.

Ziegler said Kissinger would talk to a group of businessmen.
