Maritime workshop begins next week

Seventy students from Texas universities and national Sea Grant institutions will be here Oct. 7-8 to participate in the first Student Conference/Workshop on Marine Affairs.

Co-sponsors of the meeting are the Link Foundation and the A&M Sea Grant Program.

The students, graduates and upper-level undergraduates, were selected from 20 Texas schools and 12 institutions participating in the National Sea Grant Program.

"Interaction of national and state leaders in marine affairs with students in the field will be the focus of the sessions," noted John C. Calhoun, Sea Grant Program director for A&M.

"This workshop will bring together people representing many disciplines, such as engineering, management, biology, oceanography, chemistry and law—all of whom are working with some aspect of the ocean environment," he continued.

Panelists for the two-day conference include Donald P. Martineau, deputy associate administrator for marine resources, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration; Feenan D. Jennings, head, International Decade of Ocean Exploration of the National Science Foundation; William S. Beller, chief, Ocean Island Program, Environmental Protective Agency; Robert Abel, director, National Sea Grant Program within NOAA; Capt. R. W. Haupt, U. S. Naval Oceanographic Office; and Al Sparks, director, National Marine Fisheries Service's Galveston laboratory.

Also, Lt. Col. Edwin F. Coffee, deputy district engineer, U. S. Corps of Engineers; James Goodwin, coordinator of natural resources, Office of the Governor, State of Texas; State Rep. Ray Lemmon of Houston; State Sen. A. R. Schwartz, of Galveston; Edward H. Harte, publisher, Corpus Christi Caller Times; Alan Lohse, Gulf Universities Research Corporation; and Terrance Leary, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Conference coordinator is Roger D. Anderson, A&M Sea Grant marine education and training director.

A&M participants include President Jack K. Williams, who will open the session; Dr. Jack W. Anderson, Biology Department; Dr. Leo Berner, associate graduate dean; Dr. Thomas Bright, Department of Oceanography; Calhoun; Dr. William Clayton, dean, College of Marine Sciences and Maritime Resources in Galveston; Dr. Roy W. Hann, head, Environmental Engineering Division of the Civil Engineering Department; Dr. John B. Herlich, head, Coastal and Ocean Engineering Division of the Civil Engineering Department; Dr. William Schroeder, director of diving training; Dr. Robert Sorensen, Civil Engineering; W. Cecil Steward, associate dean, College of Architecture and Environmental Design; and Capt. T. K. Treadwell Jr., Oceanography Department.

High ranking servicemen from A&M to be honored

A&M graduates who have earned general or admiral rank in the U. S. armed forces will be honored in the new Alumni Center to be located in the expanded Memorial Student Center.

Richard (Buck) Weirus, Association of Former Students executive director, said the permanent display in the reception area will include a photograph and short biography covering each individual's military career.

The association currently has information on 92 A&M graduates who attained general or admiral rank either as regular or reserve officers. Seventeen of the flag officers are deceased.

Weirus noted several A&M graduates are currently being considered for promotion to general.

Mrs. Olive DeLucia, class programs director for the association, is coordinating the project.

Czech scholarships made possible by grant

Encouragement for the study of Texas' third most common language has been advanced at A&M by a $1,000 grant from the Supreme Lodge of the SPJST (The Slavonic Benevolent Order of the State of Texas).

Dr. Jack A. Dabbs, Modern Languages Department head, said it will be used for scholarships to Czech language students.

Preference in selection will go to students who plan to teach Czech in Texas or otherwise advance the cause of the Czech community, he indicated.

The SPJST, under the presidency of Nick A. Morris with headquarters in Temple, is a state-wide organization of Texans of Czech ancestry.

"Their contribution is further evidence of the insistence of the 500,000-strong Czech community of Texas that their language and culture should remain strong and proud," Dabbs said.

In recent years A&M has had the largest enrollment in Czech of any U. S. university, reported Dabbs. He makes annual enrollment surveys.

"A large part of our success in maintaining this lead is due to the exceptionally qualified faculty including two nationally recognized leaders of the Czech community," Dabbs added. "They are Dr. John M. Skrivanek and Joseph J. Skrivanek Jr."

Family Plan tickets are available for the Aggies' game with Cincinnati tomorrow night, Spec Gammon, sports information director, said yesterday.

"We've had questions about this from people who bought them for the Wichita game," he said. "We want everyone to know that the same deal applies for this game."

The Family Plan enables an adult to buy seats in the horseshoe of Kyle Field for $3 and a similar seat for children for $1. There are some 12,000 seats eligible for purchase under the Family Plan.

The campaign was originated by the Chamber of Commerce to fill the stadium for the season opener, and it is being continued for this game.

Only 29,580 people saw the Wichita State game, but crowds of 68,576 and 67,993 turned out in Baton Rouge and Lincoln, both being capacity attendances. This brings A&M's three-game total to 166,149.
