Fire breaks out in Dallas jail; officers quell major disturbance

DALLAS (AP)—Fire broke out on the 12th floor of the Dallas County jail Monday and all off duty sheriff's officers were summoned to quell what appeared to be another major disturbance — the second in as many weeks — among prisoners in the jail.

A call was put out for all off duty warrant, criminal and civil officers of the sheriff's department to assist in putting down a rebellion on the 12th floor which appeared to be a continuation of trouble that has racked the jail and the sheriff's department in recent weeks.

A sheriff's spokesman said an unknown number of prisoners were burning mattresses and creating a disturbance in a number of cells and "tanks" on the 12th floor.

City police assisted by dogs were sent to the jail along with a fire department ladder truck.

Initial details of the disturbance were sketchy but it appeared no injuries were involved and prisoners had failed to take control, if that was their purpose, of any section of the jail.

The jail houses about 1,600 prisoners.

The outbreak follows a disturbance about two weeks ago in which rioting prisoners burned mattress covers and flung flaming paper and other materials from upper windows of the downtown jail building.

Sheriff Clarence Jones met with an inmate delegation later which resulted in what Jones said would be adjustment of certain conditions which prisoners had protested—among them food, mail and clothing issue.

A news conference Sunday was granted six prisoners who said Jones "listens to us and he's trying to help us with our problems."

"We're discontented over the way Dist. Atty. Henry Wade is treating poor people of Dallas County," said inmate Larry Potts.

The Monday night disturbance began around 6:30 p.m. when prisoners on the 11th floor began burning mattresses and the uproar quickly spread upstairs to the 12th floor.

Guards quickly moved when they considered to be the jail leaders into isolation on the 12th floor.

It could not be learned at once if there were injuries but a sheriff's spokesman said only one there were no "serious injuries." The spokesman would not elaborate.

Jones went immediately to the trouble area and began talking with prisoners.

Guards said they emptied tanks of prisoners, each containing 30 to 40 men, and separated them.

Jail spokesmen said the trouble was under control and jail personnel were in no danger.

Foreign military students visit TAMU

Foreign military students at a Defense Language Institute school in San Antonio visited A&M over the weekend to broaden their U. S. acquaintance.

The 41 foreign students are training in English proficiency at the Department of Defense-operated institute at Lackland AFB.

Their visit was part of a program of trips to Texas educational centers and cities. It was designed to introduce the military personnel to the American scene, according to Jack R. Singleton, one of three Texas A&M graduates accompanying the group.

Arriving Friday, the students toured the campus and attended midnight yell practice. They also viewed a Corps of Cadets meal formation Friday and dined with cadets in Duncan Hall.

Saturday morning the visiting military men met Aggie international students from the same countries, arranged by Robert L. Melcher, international student advisor. A walking tour of A&M facilities enabled exchange of news from their home lands between the military personnel and A&M students.

The visitors concluded their A&M visit by attending the football game Saturday night. They returned to San Antonio Sunday.

Escorts included Singleton, a 1938 A&M graduate; Fritz Boedeker, class of 1947, and Howard Bush '52. They are on the staff of the language school.

The weekend A&M visitors were from Afghanistan, the Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Germany, Indonesia, Iran, Laos, Lebanon, Paraguay, Saudi Arabia, Spain, Thailand and Vietnam.

IT'S NOT A NEW TREND in women's wear and not a new brainstorm of the fashion designer's world. Although the fall look, the fashion world says, is toward the longer, it has not gone this far. It is just a case of a dress shop mannequin becoming unpinned in the window. (AP Wire-photo)

Sophs poll on selection of sweetheart

The sophomore class will conduct an opinion poll to determine whether the Sophomore Sweetheart should come only from A&M or from all Aggie dates.

The poll will be held in front of the Academic building Wednesday and Thursday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Phi Alpha Theta chapter has been formed at A&M

Phi Alpha Theta, international honor society in history, has formed a chapter at A&M.

Dr. J. M. Nance, head of A&M's History Department, said the Sigma-Rho chapter was formally organized here Sept. 30 with 31 charter members, including 21 initiates.

Charles H. Briscoe, an Army captain studying for a master's degree in history, was elected chapter president.

Other officers are Paul M. Lucko, junior from Temple, vice president; Mrs. Jane M. Foster, graduate student from Houston, secretary-treasurer; and Danna E. Odom, graduate student from Dimmitt, historian.

Faculty advisors are Profs. Garland E. Bayliss, Victor H. Treat and Henry C. Dethloff.

Dr. Joe B. Frantz, University of Texas history professor and director of the Lyndon B. Johnson Oral History Project, represented Phi Alpha Theta's national office at the installation. Dr. Frantz also is director of the Texas State Historical Association.

Founded at the University of Arkansas in 1921, the society now includes over 400 chapters in 48 states, Puerto Rico, Canada and the Philippines. More than 60,000 students and professors have been initiated into the organization.

EE students awarded $600 scholarships

Two electrical engineering students at A&M have been awarded $600 scholarships for academic achievement and interest in careers as power system engineers.

They are Glenn A. Shankle of Lake Jackson and Jerry J. Zemanek of Palacios.

Announcement of the awards was made by Dr. William B. Jones, head of A&M's Electrical Engineering Department. The students were selected by the faculty.

Funds for the awards were provided by the Texas Power and Light Co.
