Dabbs publishes third edition of Bengali-English dictionary

A third edition of "A Short Bengali-English, English-Bengali Dictionary" by Dr. Jack A. Dabbs of A&M has been published.

The first two editions, in 1962 and 1965, were on shelves only a short time before the supply was exhausted.

Orders for the book came from all parts of the world, but largest purchasers have been Americans working in East Pakistan and the Peace Corps. Sales also were indicated at newstands and book stores in Calcutta and Dacca.

Dabbs said the third edition incorporates 1,800 new entries, with 2,522 in the Bengali section and 2,250 in the English section. Printed by the A&M Press, it uses special type required for the Eastern language, acquired by Dabbs for the first printing through a Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) grant.

A special university grant made third edition printing possible. Income from dictionary sales paid for help of Bengali editorial assistants. In writing several years, the publication is the work of Dabbs, several Bengali speakers, wives of East Pakistani students at A&M and under sponsorship of the university's International Programs Office.

Dabbs saw the need for a bilingual dictionary in phonetic transcription during a 1960 visit in East Bengal (East Pakistan). A&M interest in East Bengal comes from many years contact between the university and East Pakistan educational system through government grants and contacts through the International Programs Office, directed by Dr. Jack D. Gray.

RSC reorganized into separate laboratories

A&M's Remote Sensing Center has been organized into five laboratories to better serve an expanded professional staff and new projects, announced RSC Director Dr. John W. Rouse Jr.

Dr. G. L. Huebner, center associate director, heads the Space Oceanography Laboratory. He also serves on the meteorology faculty.

Dr. W. T. Mayo Jr., who recently joined the university from Lockheed Electronics in Atlanta, Ga., is director of the Optics Laboratory. Dr. Mayo serves on the electrical engineering faculty.

Dr. W. P. James is director of the Environmental Quality Laboratory. Formerly with Oregon State University, he is on the faculty of the Civil Engineering Department's Environmental Engineering Division.

John A. Schell, formerly RSC engineering research coordinator, has been promoted to director of the Data Analysis Laboratory.

Dr. Rouse heads the Microwave and Infrared Systems Laboratory.

In addition to the five internal laboratories, the RSC maintains its affiliation with several laboratories operated within various academic departments, Dr. Rouse pointed out.

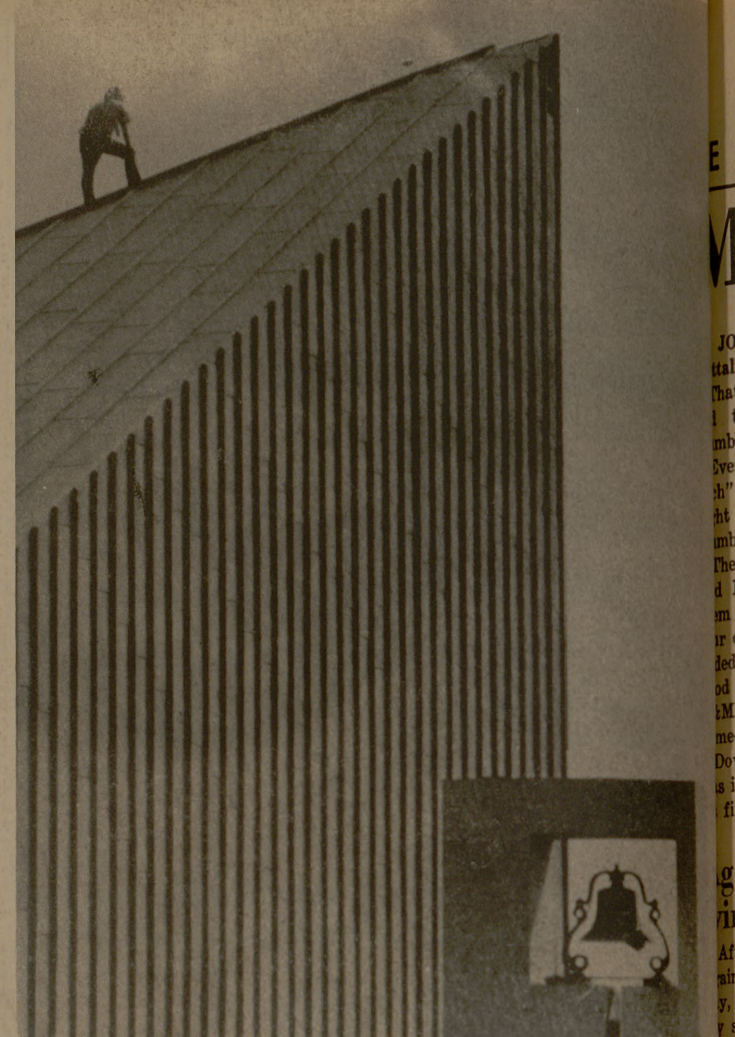

Associates provide the center with an enormous reserve of specialized talent, Dr. Rouse said, which is utilized to complement the research conducted within the RSC labs and to conduct independent remote sensing research projects.

Scoggins selected assistant dean

Dr. James R. Scoggins, A&M meteorology professor, has been named assistant dean for operations in the institution's College of Geosciences.

The appointment was announced by Dr. Earl F. Cook, dean.

Dr. Scoggins joined the A&M faculty as an associate professor in 1967 and was promoted to full professor two years later.

Autocross entries taken Wednesday

Entries for an Oct. 31 "Great Pumpkin Autocross" will be taken at a Wednesday meeting of the A&M Sports Car Club. Kerry Bonner, club president, said several drivers have already entered the Halloween Day event to be run at the A&M Research Annex. He invited interested participants to attend the meeting to find out more about the event.

Wheelmen to sponsor ride to Texas World Speedway

The A&M Wheelmen, the university's first organization of bicyclists, will sponsor a ride to Texas World Speedway Saturday.

Wheelmen president Andre Piazza of Houston said Texas World Speedway (formerly known as Texas International Speedway) is about eight miles south of College Station on Highway 6.

The ride will start at 9 a.m. in front of G. Rollie White Coliseum.

Piazza said the excursion is open to everyone, although children 12 and under should be accompanied by parents. Multi-speed bikes in good condition are strongly recommended.

He suggested riders bring water and candy or other snacks. The group is expected to return to College Station by noon.

Purpose of the ride is to enlist new members and to promote cycling as a healthful and non-polluting sport. Anyone, on or off campus, can be a member, Piazza said. Dues are $1 per semester. Meetings are at 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday at the fountain south of Sbsa Hall. When a permanent place is arranged, meetings will feature cycling films, speakers and bike maintenance clinics, Piazza said.
