The Texas Aggies try to end a r-game losing streak this ekend in Fort Worth as they ke on the TCU Horned Frogs Amon Carter Stadium at 7:30

The success of A&M will deend on the ability to eliminate ffensive errors which have given he opposition the ball 18 times his year, several within easy coring range.

The improvement of the offense ill hinge on the quarterback, nd injuries plague Coach Gene allings' crew here. Lex James as hurt in the Texas Tech game, and it is doubtful he will play. Mark Green, the highly touted sophomore, was moved to tailback last week. He is expected to spend most of his time there, although he may be called on for duty at quarterback.

This leaves the job to Tim Trim-San Antonio Lee grad has been unable to put it all together, but he has looked good at times. Joe Mac King may get his chance, but the Mineola senior misses much practice due to academics. A veterinary medicine student. the 6-2, 192 pounder spends some 38 hours a week in the classroom. With the amount of late after-late to several workouts a week.

Steve Burks, although hurt against Texas Tech, will join Green at tailback, with Marc Black and Doug Neill running at fullback. Hugh McElroy, the fine mier, another sophomore. The return specialist, is slated to go at split end, backed up by John Gardner. Robert Murski and Ricky Spencer will be the wingbacks.

> Homer May will be the tight end, with Mitch Robertson, the Aggie punter, backing him up. Robertson is third in the conference in punting. Buster Callaway and Marshall noon classes and labs he has, it Herklotz line up at one tackle, Peoples' brother Ronnie, a tight Hoermann and Steve Luebbeis necessary for him to report with Skip Kuehn and Ralph Sacra on the other side. The guards are Todd Christopher and Leonard Forey. Mark Park is a substitute there. Robert Gerasimowicz will start at center, and Ted Smith is second at that position.

Defensively, A&M has been superb this season. The scoring of the other team in the past two games has come from errors charged to the Aggie offense. The defense has been credited with making 30 tackles for losses amounting to 104 yards.

Max Bird and Kent Finley will be at the ends, with Dan Peoples and Mike Sweat behind them.

end for TCU, is one of the Frog captains. Bird and Finley have both been in on 26 tackles this year.

Boice Best and Van Odom start at the tackles, but James Dubcak is expected to play, having just recovered from the ankle injury he received in the LSU game. Best has made a total of 34 tackles, and Odom has gotten 29.

Bill Wiebold, a sophomore, will start at middle guard. Odom may play here, too. Wiebold has had 32 tackles, including 13 against Nebraska. In addition, he recovered a fumble against Texas Tech. The linebackers are Grady husen, back up by Mike Lord and Dennis Carruth. Hoermann leads the defense with 65 tackles, 18 of them in the Nebraska game. Luebbehusen had 17 against Cincinnati, and his total is 51.

Lee Hitt and Bland Smith will be at the cornerback slots. Hitt is tied for the conference lead with four interceptions. He has made 33 tackles, while Smith has gotten credit for 18.

Brad Dusek and David Hoot are the safeties, and the pair has had a busy year. Dusek has the second largest number of tackles, 59, with his best game house who led the Aggies in scorbeing 17 against LSU. Hoot has made 44 tackles, including 16 against the Tigers.

Pat McDermott and Roberto Payan will kick the extra points and field goals, and Mike Bellar will kick off. Joey Herr, who broke his collarbone in the LSU game, may be standing by to help Robertson with the punting chores.

With a 1-4 record, the Aggies will be looking to win their first conference game since SMU in 1969. To do it, the defense will have to handle TCU's speed, and the offense will need a quarterback who doesn't make mistakes.

The newcomers are 6-2 junior
