U.S., Albania clash over 2-China policy

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Albania held today that adoption of the U.S. plan for dual representation of China in the United Nations would keep Peking out. The United States took issue with that view.

The two countries clashed as the 131-nation General Assembly opened its first debate on Chinese representation since the United States switched to a new policy.

Albanian Foreign Minister Nesti Nase, the first speaker, quoted an Aug. 20 declaration of the Communist people's Republic of China that it would "have nothing to do with the United Nations" if a "two Chinas" or a "one China—one Taiwan" formula was adopted.

U.S. Ambassador George Bush

denied that the U.S. formula was either a "two Chinas" or a "one China and one Taiwan" plan. And he said "Nobody can know for sure how Peking will react" to the adoption of a 19-nation resolution he introduced to have both Chinas in the assembly and Communist China on the Security Council.

Bush warned against expelling the Chinese Nationalists, as provided in a 22-nation resolution that Nase had introduced, to replace them with Chinese Communists through the United Nations.

He said the expulsion would be irreversible, since Communist China on the Security Council could veto the Nationalist' readmission, and it would constitute a dangerous precedent for other U.N. members.

"There is only one Chinese state in the world today," Nase declared. "There is no place for the Chiang Kai-shek clique."

He appealed for support of the Albanian proposal for the expulsion of the Nationalist delegation, adding that any other solution would violate the provisions of the U.N. charter and "is unacceptable to the People's Republic of China."

The Ross Volunteers will initiate approximately 84 A&M Cadet Corps juniors into the elite honor military unit at 7 p.m. Thursday ceremonies in the Memorial Student Center.

District Judge Jack B. Miller of San Saba, 1943 graduate of A&M, will be initiation banquet speaker. The judge of the 33rd Judicial District of Texas is a native of College Station.

While a student he was a member of the Ross Volunteers, major on regimental staff, Agriculturist editor, Longhorn (Aggeland) staff, vice president of the sophomore class, president of the junior class, Who's Who, "Y" Cabinet, Press Club, Saddle and Siroin Club and the Scholarship Honor Society.

Alma Trio to start Showcase

Chamber music of the Alma Trio will be featured Wednesday in the opening presentation of the 1971-72 Artist Showcase at A&M.

The ensemble will present a program from a repertoire including Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Schumann, Mendelssohn, Brahms, Ravel and contemporary composers in an 8 p.m. performance at the Memorial Student Center Ballroom.

Kirk Hawkins, chairman of Town Hall of which the Showcase series is a part, noted that admission to the Alma Trio concert is by activity card, Town Hall season or separate single performance ticket. No seats are reserved for Artist Showcase.

The trio consists of Andor Toth, violinist; Gabor Rejto, cellist, and William Corbett Jones, pianist, each with an independent reputation as a concert artist.

In addition to tours of the U.S., Canada and Alaska, the group has played in Cuba, Japan, Australia, New Zealand and—a first for a piano trio—the USSR. It was learned that no other chamber music group achieved such success. The 1963 Soviet tour included 10 concerts in Czechoslovakia and 18 in Russia.

Formed in 1944 in California at the Santa Cruz Mountains estate of famed violinist Yehudi Menuhin, the trio originated purely for the playing pleasure of three artists.

auguration of the Governor of Texas, serve as honor guard for King Rex during Mardi Gras in New Orleans and escort distinguished guests at A&M.

RV juniors are selected by the company's senior members on the basis of character, military achievement, disciplinary reports, academic standing and extracurricular activities.

The organization is named for former Texas Governor and A&M President Lawrence Sullivan Ross.

Marine team to interview students

A Marine Corps officer selection team is visiting A&M next week to interview students interested in earning Marine commissions.

The team headed by Capt. William E. Lucas will operate an information booth in the Memorial Student Center through Friday.

Captain Lucas also will meet with members of the A&M chapter of the Semper Fidelis Society at 7:30 tonight in room 145 of the Physics Building.

Aggie Blood Drive to become larger

A bigger Aggie Blood Drive is expected Wednesday and Thursday at A&M.

More than 630 students registered for the two-day fall semester drive, which will receive donors at a Memorial Student Center basement station.

Donations will aid treatment and research programs of the Wadley Institutes of Molecular Medicine in Dallas. Persons making contributions also make themselves and their immediate families eligible to draw on the Wadley bank during the next year.

The A&M drive, which also will take donations during the spring semester, is co-sponsored by the Student Senate and Xi Delta Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity. Wadley technicians will be here for the drive.

APO publicity chairman Mike Ballew noted that Bryan and College Station citizens may also give and benefit in the drive. He said the registration this week promises an exceptional turnout for the drive.

The blood drive station will be in operation from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., except for the lunch hour, Wednesday and Thursday. A donor should allow about 30 minutes for making the donation, Ballew said.

On science, technology

Proxmire speaks here Friday

Senator William Proxmire will open a major lecture-discussion series on science, technology and public policy Friday at A&M.

The Wisconsin Democrat known as an outspoken critic of waste in federal spending and opposition leader of the supersonic transport will speak at noon in the Memorial Student Center Ballroom.

Proxmire's topic, "The Politics of Science," is the first in a cooperative series sponsored by the Political Forum and Great Issues committees of the MSC, the Sea Grant Program and Political Science Department.

Political Forum, chaired by Paul Turner of Livingston, is Senator Proxmire's host. Admission to the address is free, reminded Mike Lindsey, Forum major programs chairman.

"This will be Senator Proxmire's only visit to the Southwest this fall," Lindsey said.

The series, which will feature Dr. Robert R. Gilruth, NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center director, in November, is supported by the Sperry and Hutchinson (S&H) Foundation grant matched by the two A&M student groups, Sea Grant and political science. Dr. Paul P. Van Riper, political science head, is series director.

Senator Proxmire led an unfruitful military weapons cost critics attack recently on the Navy's F14 Tomcat fighter. The three-term legislator who chairs the Congressional Joint Economic Committee of the 92nd Congress last week called for repeal of President Nixon's power to freeze wages and prices "to prevent him from becoming an economic dictator."

Proxmire has been the only one of the 100 senators to be present and voting in every roll call since April, 1966. He has voted in more than 1,590 consecutive roll call votes.

The leader in the fight against the SST has consistently advocated more rigorous spending priorities. Senator Proxmire has urged particular close attention to holding down expenditures on public works, the space program and military budget.

He is a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee and the Congressional Joint Committee on Defense Production. In addition, Proxmire is the ranking Democrat on the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee and member of the Senate Democratic Steering Committee and Democratic Policy Council.

Author of much consumer credit legislation enacted into law, the senator wrote acts on truth in lending, fair credit reporting and against unsolicited credit cards. He also is working for passage of fair credit billing, consumer credit and insurance protection acts.

Proxmire repeatedly criticized the President before the Aug. 15 wage-price freeze imposition for failure to use the power under the Economic Stabilization Act. The senator said his Oct. 7 bill to rescind the act is consistent since the law has now served its purpose.

"Congressional action is needed on the Phase 2 economic program," Proxmire said before Nixon announced the measures to be taken after Nov. 13.

Proxmire criticized the current law for the sweeping, unprecedented powers it gives the President: "We not only gave the President the whole ball game, we gave him the ball park as well."

The inquiring Battman

What do you think should be done about parking?

Thomas M. Stanley senior

More parking lots should be constructed and stickers should be issued for only the number of places available.

Bill Braddy senior

Build more lots in Houston, Dallas, and San Antonio. Issue bicycles to everyone with paranoid tendencies, and soon there will be room for everyone to park.

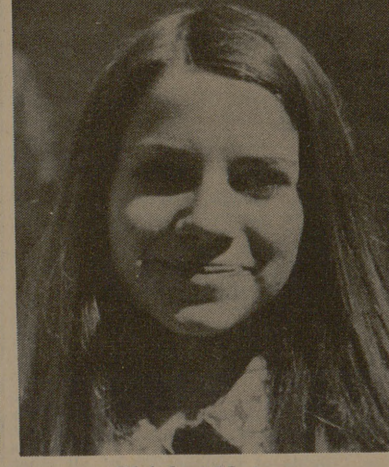

Buddy Hughes freshman

Get rid of all the cars on campus and leave the streets clean for bikes and pedestrians.

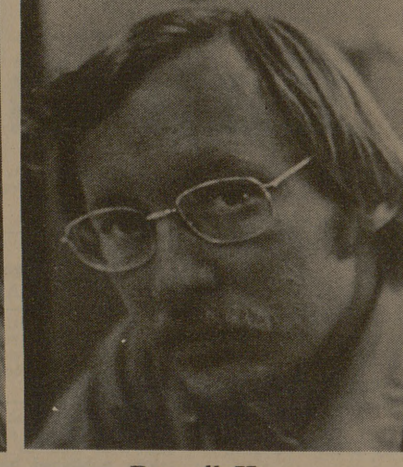

Charles Lee junior

They should build parking lots on the edge of campus and use shuttle buses.

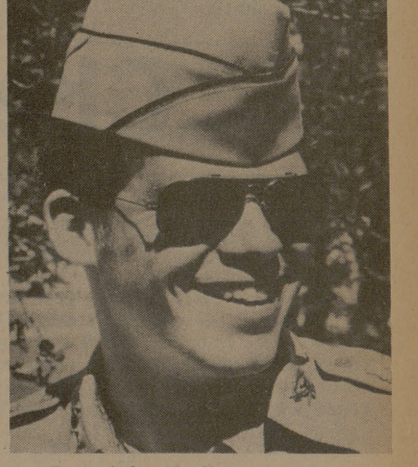

Shirley Kotara sophomore

More parking spaces should be created by reassigning the faculty spaces that aren't used.

Russell Haas senior

The parking situation can be helped by building parking structures and stop wasting valuable space with blacktop deserts. Keep freshman cars off campus.

J. Michael Cunningham senior

Put restrictions on freshmen having cars like other universities have done.
