Arkansas scouting report

League-leading Razorbacks are formidable foe

By MICHAEL RICE

Now there is Arkansas for the recently victorious Texas Aggies, who travel to Little Rock this weekend for a battle against the toughest team in the Southwest Conference.

Arkansas, which is 3-0 in conference play compared to the Aggies record of 1-2, defeated North Texas 60-21 in Fayetteville last weekend to up their season record to 6-1. Their lone defeat was to Tulsa in the third game of the season.

When speaking of talent on the Razorback squad, one must begin with the quarterback slot, where Joe Ferguson (5-11, 180) is throwing the ball with the accuracy of a champion sharpshooter.

Thus far in the season, Ferguson has tossed the pigskin 155 times for 94 completions to net himself 1331 yards and 11 touchdowns. That equals the Arkansas record for passing touchdowns in a season of Ronny South in 1967.

Ferguson's favorite receiver, Mike Reppond (175) is another outstanding player on the squad. He has caught 33 of Ferguson's passes for 622 yards, with an average of 18.8 yards per carry. His backup man in the split end position is 175 pound Jack Ettlinger, who has caught 11 for 165 yards.

At the tailback position is the leading rusher for the Razorbacks, Dicky Morton (180). He has carried 93 times for a net gain of 667 yards on an average of 7.2 yards per carry. The man behind him is Mike Saint (200), who had four TD's against North Texas in 15 attempts.

Tight ends on the squad include Bobby Nichols (205) and Steve Hedgepeth (210) while the fullback slot is filled with the 208 pounds of John Jenkins, and Russ Gaber (215). Jenkins has also thrown the ball in the quarterback spot for Coach Frank Broyles' Razorbacks.

Plankers for the team will be Jim Hodge (170) and Keith French (170). Ron Revard (225) will be the center for Ferguson. Revard's second will be Stuart Freeland, a 235 pound sophomore.

Mike Kelson (238) and Tom Mabry (248) will be the head men in the tackle positions with Tom Reed (220) and Glen Lowe (245) hitting A&M from the guard spots.

Defensively, the Razorbacks are stronger than they thought they would be last spring. They lost seven starters from last year's 9-2-0 team, but so far this fall proved to be about as strong as they have in years past.

Ends Les Williams (190), Steve Cox (205), Ronnie Jones (200), and Jim Brawner (195) are the defensive mainstays for their positions.

Linebacker posts are held down by Danny Rhodes (210), Bill Kennedy (205), Scott Binnion (200), and Doug Scheel (190), while the tackles for the defensive line include David Reavis (240), Bobby Bradsher (215), Archie Bennett (245), and Don Wunderly (220).

Cornerbacks for the Razorbacks are Louis Campbell (182), Jim Irwin (170), Jack Morriss (175), and David Hogue (185). Morriss set a Razorback record last week with 146 yards on seven punt returns to top Lance Alworth's 136 yards on seven attempts against Tulsa in 1961.

Safeties on the squad are Jim Taylor (182), Corky Cordell (180), Clark Irwin (180), and Mike Davis (177).

On the specialty team is a special person named Bill McClard

(205), who kicked six of eight extra points against North Texas. He needs two more kicking points to surpass the NCAA career record of 185 which was set by Happy Feller of Texas in 1960.

Overall, Arkansas has a passing and running game which are fairly equal, meaning both are very strong. Defensively, A&M sports a team which is more experienced than the Razorbacks, but speed and strength are quickly making up for that deficit.

Houston gets help in trying to win from their owner and new players

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Houston Oilers, trying to win their first game, were bolstered on two fronts Wednesday, one by the addition of two running backs and the other by owner Bud Adams.

Oiler coach Ed Hughes said he hoped to get the new backs, Robert Holmes from Kansas City and Dick Post from Denver, ready to play some Sunday against Cincinnati in a Central Division contest in the Astrodome.

The first thing I asked Dickie was how do they number the holes in Denver," Hughes said. "If they're even right and odd left, it just helps us that much more. He'll have a lot of adjusting to do to learn our terminology.

"It'll just depend on how much he can absorb between now and Sunday. It may be he can learn five or six plays by then and we'll limit our game plan to those when he's in the game."

Hughes said Holmes' stature, 5-foot-9, 220 pounds, could be a help in picking up the Oilers' listless running game.

"He's so short, it's hard to get under him for a tackle," Hughes said. "He could run through a lot of arm tackles."
