

New classification created for those unlikely to be drafted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new draft classification was created Tuesday for registrants too young to be drafted and the 18-year-olds and older men with such high lottery numbers they're unlikely to be called into military service.

Selective service laid down also new ground rules for personal appearances before Draft Boards for a young man to make "a fair representation of his claim" for exemption or deferment. At the same time there's a built-in brake designed to keep protestors from overloading the boards with appeals.

Deputy Director Daniel J. Cronin said the new "holding" classification, 1H, is designed to enable the service to "do business with the people likely to be drafted and let the other people go about their business."

The rule changes put the draft operation in line with the new draft law, including the phasing out of college, trade school and junior college deferments. They become automatically effective in early December, 30 days after they are published in the Federal Register, as required by the new law.

A major change not required by law wipes out the catchall 1Y classification that lumped together men with borderline physical disqualifications, homosexuals, criminals and a variety of others. From now on a man in this area will be given 4F as physically unfit, 1A-RR1, meaning being adjudicated, or 1A-AO, meaning acceptance undetermined.

Those men who turn 18 next year and must register for the draft then will be given the new 1H classification, except for those who enter military service, join reserve units, or are sole surviving sons. They will remain there until their lottery in 1973, when Selective Service will announce a cutoff lottery number.

Those below that number will remain in 1H and those above will be classified 1A or any exempt or deferred classification for which they qualify.

For men turning 18 this year, a cutoff number will be announced after the 1972 lottery and men below that number will be reclassified 1H, where they'll remain until they reach age 26 barring an emergency.

Men exposed to the draft as 1A this year or earlier but were not drafted will be put into 1H after next Jan. 1, and stay there until their 26th birthday.

Divinity students will be put into a new deferment class 2D and sole surviving sons will be in a new class 4G.

The new personal appearance rules will permit a man for the first time to bring witnesses to support his claim for deferment or exemption.

Other changes in the rules include these:

- A man will be required to register for the draft during a period beginning 30 days before his 18th birthday and ending 30 days after. At present he must register within five working days after his birthday.
- A man will be given at least 30 days notice to report for induction. The old rule was 10 days but normally it was stretched up to 30 days.

Peru government establishes ties with Red China

LIMA (AP) — Peru's military government established diplomatic relations with Red China on Tuesday and won Peking's official support for the Peruvian claim to a 200-mile limit of territorial waters in the Pacific.

This claim by Peru, as well as by neighboring Ecuador, and Chile, is disputed by the United States. Peruvian and Ecuadorian naval patrols have seized U.S. fishing boats many times inside the 200-mile limit and maritime officials have levied heavy fines against them.

Peru is the third Latin-American government to establish ties with Peking. The others are Chile, whose president is a Marxist Socialist, and Cuba. Argentina is considering establishing relations.

The announcement of Peru's ties was made in a brief communique issued simultaneously by the Peruvian Foreign Ministry and Peking.

The communique pointed out that the Peruvian government recognizes Peking as the only legal Chinese government.

It also stated that Peru takes note of the Communist Chinese claim that Taiwan is "an inalienable part of the territory of the Peoples Republic of China."

The communique said the two governments would exchange ambassadors "within a short time."

Shortly after the announcement, Nationalist China suspended relations with Peru.

It was the fourth time the Nationalist government had suspended instead of severing relations with a nation that has recognized Peking, in an apparent Nationalist attempt to partially preserve the government's dwindling diplomatic ties.

In a brief television appearance Monday night, Gen. Edgardo Mercado, Peru's foreign minister emphasized Red China's position as a world nuclear power and pointed out that Peking backs Peru's 200-mile jurisdictional claim.

"China's recognition of the 200-mile thesis is of great historical significance for us," Mercado said, "because within this pluralism of power, in this new strategic balance, the positions of the great nations have been taken."

Edwards is distinguished AF Cadet

Wayne C. Edwards of College Station has been named a Distinguished Air Force ROTC Cadet at A&M.

The designation indicates he has demonstrated potential of becoming a Regular Air Force officer.

Col. Robert F. Crossland named Edwards among 22 AFROTC cadets accorded the honor. Crossland is the professor of aerospace studies and ranking Air Force officer at A&M.

He said Distinguished Cadet status denotes that a cadet, through performance, has demonstrated potential of becoming a Distinguished Graduate and possesses qualities and attributes essential for successful performance as a regular Air Force officer.

Senior cadets are selected on the basis of high moral character, leadership evidenced through campus activities, the Corps of Cadets and Air Force field training and high standing in military and academic classes.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Edwards, 302 Timber Street, majors in recreation and parks, is a squadron 11 commander in the Corps and a graduate of A&M Consolidated High School.
