Aggie Coach Gene Stallings told his weekly news conference yesterday that the win over the Arkansas Razorbacks in Little Rock Saturday night was a continuation of the victory over Baylor.

"We were mentally ready for Baylor," he explained. "The attitude carried over this week. I wasn't worried about them not being ready to play, but Arkansas was ready too."

Thirty five stars were awarded to 26 players by the coaching staff, with Grady Hoermann, Lee Hitt and David Hoot getting three each. Mike Lord, Steve Luebbehusen and Brad Dusek won two each.

Hoermann was cited for causing two fumbles, tipping a pass and making 13 tackles. Hitt made 11 tackles, caused a fumble and recovered a fumble. Hoot made 12 tackles, intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble.

Lord tipped two passes, Luebbehusen made 14 tackles and Dusek caused a fumble and knocked down a pass. The remainder of the defensive unit received a star each.

Offensively, ten players were given stars. Mark Green for his effort on the touchdown run, Joe Mac King for the winning game and Steve Burks for recovering a fumble on a punt were the Aggies who received recognition for performances other than blocking. Buster Callaway had 23 knockdowns, Skip Kuehn 22, Ralph Sacra 13, Doug Neill and Leonard Forey 11 each, Homer May 10 and Robert Murski six to round out the offensive star winners.

On the specialty units, Pat McDermott's 34 yard field goal won him a star, as did Mitch Robertson's excellent punting. Ted Smith was given recognition for his good centering and coverage on punts, while Charlie Billingsley and Gary Whitehead had three tackles each on kickoffs.

Stallings pointed out that one of the keys to victory was the fact that Arkansas had four turnovers, but the only Aggie miscue in the last two games was an interception against Baylor.

"Joe Mac King has given us leadership and stability at quarterback," Stallings explained. "If we hadn't thrown interceptions and fumbled snaps from center, we'd have done better down the line."

Joe Ferguson, the Razorback quarterback, drew praise from the Aggie mentor. The Arkansas junior completed 31 of 51 passes Saturday for 345 yards.

"He threw perfect passes," Stallings said. "Our defensive secondary played well, even though they completed a lot of passes. Ferguson's a super quarterback. He loves to throw the ball a lot. Not many teams are fortunate enough to have a great one like him."

The SMU Mustangs are the Aggies' next opponent, and the Dallas school, off to a slow start, is 2-1 in conference play. They lost a close game to Texas last week, 22-18. The quarterback of SMU is Gary Hammond, a two-time All-SWC performer, who played split end as a sophomore and tailback last year.

"Hammond can really do things," Stallings said. "He does a good job of faking off tackle and sprinting out to pass or run. He loves to play the game, and he certainly is one of the better players we'll face. SMU has a tough defense to rush against too."

A&M's tailback, Mark Green, carried the ball 27 times for 102 yards against Arkansas. In scoring two touchdowns, the Odessa sophomore is tied for the scoring lead on the Aggie team with 18 points.

"Mark's finally well from the foot he injured during early fall drills," Stallings said. "This is the first time he's played there, and blocking is something new to him. All he's ever done before was take the ball from center and sprint out to run. His football's all ahead of him."

Early estimates have the crowd at 35,000 to 40,000, but Stallings said he hoped there would be more people than that. Commenting on the Arkansas fans at Saturday's game in Little Rock, he praised them for their enthusiasm.

"They were noisy," he said, "but not so that the quarterback couldn't hear. I like crowd noise, just so long as they don't interfere with the game. It doesn't make much sense for them to sit there and say nothing. The Arkansas people did everything they could to get their team going."

The reception party of 5,000, 6,000 that met the Aggies at Easterwood Field early Sunday morning was a bright part of the upset win too.

"It was good for the team," Stallings said. "It took me quite a while to get home from the airport, but I wasn't in any hurry."

Nebraska and Oklahoma are still at top of poll; Aggies drop Razorbacks to sixteenth place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nebraska and Oklahoma continued to run 1-2 in The Associated Press college football poll Tuesday, raising tensions for the possible national championship battle at Norman, Okla., Nov. 25.

Both teams continue to move along at an impressive pace, but the defending national champion Cornhuskers maintain first place, although the Sooners have the gaudier statistics.

At last count, with new figures scheduled Wednesday, Oklahoma was leading the nation in total offense, rushing offense and scoring. However, Nebraska, while ranking among the leaders in offense, rushing offense and scoring, has the better defensive record.

The Cornhuskers, averaging better than 35 points a game, have shut out two of their rivals, limited five others to no more than a touchdown and given up 13 points to only one team—Oklahoma State, beaten 41-13.

The Cornhuskers' defensive prowess was maintained last weekend when they defeated Colorado, a team which previously had beaten Louisiana State and Ohio State, 31-7.

This feat enabled Nebraska to cling to No. 1 in the poll with 34 first place votes and a total of 1,050 points.

On the graded scale of 20 points for a first place vote, 18 for second and down to one for the 15th selection, Oklahoma was a close second with 1,010. The Sooners collected 17 first place votes after trouncing Iowa State 43-12.

Other first place votes went to Michigan, the No. 3 team, which got two; Auburn and Penn State.

Alabama is No. 4 in the poll, followed by Auburn, Penn State, Georgia, Notre Dame, Ohio State and Arizona State.

Auburn and Alabama meet in their annual bash Nov. 27. Michigan has a Nov. 20 date with Ohio State. Penn State closes its regular season against Tennessee Dec. 4. Georgia must play Auburn Nov. 13. Notre Dame's toughest remaining test is a Nov. 20 date at Louisiana State. Arizona State winds up with rival Arizona Nov. 27.

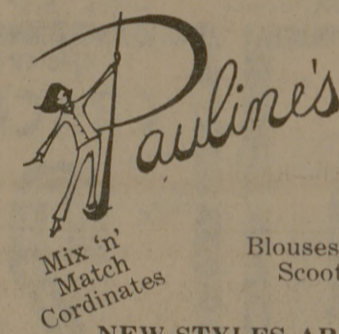

The Top Twenty teams, with season records and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8 etc.:

1. Nebraska	8-0	1050
