Ags, Tech square off in cage tilt here

By JOHN CURYLO
Battalion Sports Writer

The Texas Aggies and the Texas Tech Red Raiders play king of the hill in G. Rollie White Coliseum Saturday, in a Southwest Conference basketball game featuring two of the three teams currently tied for first place.

A&M, coached by Shelby Metcalf, is 11-6 for the season, including wins in eight of the last nine games. Tech is 10-7, with a 4-1 conference mark identical to the Aggies'.

Tech has won three league road games, with the only loss being to Southern Methodist in Lubbock. The Red Raiders are 6-1 at home and 4-6 on the road, and A&M is 7-1 here and 4-5 as the visiting team.

Low field goal percentages hurt the Aggies in pre-conference play, but a 47.3 norm in SWC games has been the difference. The usual five will start for A&M. This includes guards Mario Brown (13.3) and Bobby Threadgill (7.7), forwards Wayne Howard (14.4) and Jeff Overhouse (17.8) and center Rick Duplantis (6.8). The top reserves will be Randy Knowles (10.1) and Bob Gobin (4.0). Overhouse had 19 successful free throws in a row before missing at Rice Tuesday.

Starting for Tech Coach Gerald Myers will be the league's leading scorer, guard Greg Lowery (26.1), guard Richard Little (13.8), forwards Ron Richardson (12.5) and David Johnson (2.9) or Ron Douglas (2.7) and center Ralph Palomar (14.5).

"Most teams have strong points," Metcalf said, "but Tech's getting 40 points a game from their guards. They have big people inside, too. Their other starter at forward is flexible; they put in whatever they need." Richardson is 6-10½, Johnson is 6-5, Douglas is 6-6 and Palomar is 6-8.

"If we're to win, the first thing we have to do is shut down those guards," Metcalf explained. "Bobby and Mario have the physical abilities to do it, if it can be done."

Duplantis will be covering Richardson, and Overhouse will guard Palomar. Both junior college transfers, Richardson weighs 200, while Palomar is a 220 pounder.

"Rick and Jeff will be giving up size and weight," the coach said. "That wouldn't be such a problem if Richardson and Palomar weren't so physically tough." Tech is expected to run a man-for-man defense, although they have used a zone at times. Metcalf said that the Aggies had a good night against the Rice zone, but that it was execution that was the important factor in defense.

"Saturday's a big one," he explained. "It's a must for us. We've come along well, but I wouldn't get too excited, yet. The schedule's in Tech and SMU's favor. Counting Tech, we have three big ones in a row." The Aggies travel to Austin Tuesday to face the Texas Longhorns and to Dallas next Saturday to meet the SMU Mustangs.

The Red Raiders have beaten Baylor, 73-67, Rice, 89-85, Texas, 79-68, and Arkansas, 76-73, losing to SMU, 85-69. A&M beat SMU, 79-71, Texas Christian, 81-74, Baylor, 85-75, and Rice 80-70. The only conference loss was to Arkansas, 100-89.

In other games Saturday, Baylor is at SMU on television, Texas is at TCU, and Rice visits Arkansas. Tuesday, the Raiders travel to TCU, SMU is at Rice, and Arkansas is at Baylor.

The Aggie Fish (7-2) host Temple Junior College (13-12) in a 5:45 p.m. preliminary to the 8:00 varsity game.

Fish host Temple Leopards in preliminary contest

By BILL HENRY
Assistant Sports Editor

The Texas A&M Fish take the weekend off from Southwest Conference action to host the Temple Junior College Leopards Saturday at 5:45 p.m. preceding the Texas A&M-Texas Tech varsity basketball game in G. Rollie White Coliseum.

Coach Jim Culpepper's squad stands 7-2 overall and 4-0 in loop competition. The Leopards of Coach Danny Scott have a 13-12 seasons record. One of Temple's losses came at the hands of the Baylor freshmen which has been the Cub's only win of the season.

The conference break couldn't have come at a more opportune time for the Fish. The past two conference games have been very hotly contested; Baylor, 64-61, and Rice 92-88, in double overtime. Tuesday, the Fish return to the conference race in Austin against the Texas Shorthorns for the final league tilt of the first round.

With a 4-0 conference record, the Fish are odds-on favorites to win the SWC title. This would have been no surprise at the first of the year when all the Fish were healthy, but without the services of the team's leading scorer and floor leader, Mike Floyd, the future looked dim. Floyd stood in second place in conference scoring before a freak turned ankle proved to be a broken foot and the end of Floyd's freshman basketball career.

Temple will go with a front line consisting of three freshmen and two sophomores. At the two guards will be Randi Reboul, a 5-7, 142 freshman from New Orleans and Lee Williams, 5-10, 155 sophomore from San Antonio. At forwards will be Eric Clark, 6-2, 157 freshman from San Antonio and Charles Solomon, 6-4, 186 freshman from Austin. At center will be Julius Howard, 6-8, 235 sophomore from Dallas.

A&M will start the usual quintet of Isdell Birnbaum (6.8), Dale Donaldson (12.7), Webb Williams (14.0), Jerry Mercer (9.9) and Cedric Joseph (19.3).

Temple is expected to run an effective fast break and use the press throughout the contest to force A&M into a number of turnovers as most teams have in the past few games. The Fish are averaging close to 17 turnovers a game. The A&M strength lies in its massive inside height advantage but will have a real test from the 6-8, 235 Howard in Saturday's game. Very few opponents have matched A&M with a big man of this size, thus giving them an average of 14 more rebounds a game (57-41).

This will be the last game for the Fish in G. Rollie White until they host Rice Feb. 26. Before that time the Aggies will have to play SMU, TCU, Baylor and Texas in enemy territory.

Treadwell chosen to serve at USC on sea committee

T. K. Treadwell of A&M's Oceanography Department has accepted an invitation to serve on the University of Southern California's Sea Grant Program Advisory Panel.

Treadwell, who also has been associated with TAMU's Sea Grant Program, joined the Oceanography Department last summer after previously working with the Federal Marine Sciences Council and the U. S. Navy's oceanographic programs.

Dr. John R. Hubbard, USC president who invited Treadwell to serve as a panel member, said the university's program will emphasize the coastal zone and related scientific, sociological and economic problems.

The USC advisory group held its first meeting last weekend at the institution's marine laboratory on Catalina Island.
