

Sen. McGovern wins in Wisconsin Democratic primary

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota won Wisconsin's presidential primary Tuesday night and vaulted to the front rank among Democratic contenders for the White House.

McGovern led Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, with Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine far behind. With 33 per cent of the state's 3,290 precincts counted, McGovern was running strong across the state, polling 137,906 votes or 29 per cent of the total.

"We have won a great victory today," McGovern said. "There's no question about it." He led for 54 of the 67 Democratic national convention delegates at stake in Wisconsin. Humphrey had the edge for the rest, in two congressional districts.

"I expected to come out about second place and I hope to hold that," said Humphrey. Humphrey said it was difficult to say whether Muskie's far-back showing would eliminate the one-time front-runner from Maine. "Each primary stands by its own and I don't expect him to quit," said Humphrey.

President Nixon swept to towering victory in the Republican primary and captured 28 national convention votes for renomination.

Nixon was opposed on the ballot by Reps. John Ashbrook of Ohio and Paul N. McCloskey Jr.

who has dropped out of the race.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York were running fifth and sixth among the Democrats; the balance of the 12-way field had scattered support.

Jackson telephoned his congratulations to McGovern.

"This is just one primary," he said in defeat.

Wisconsin put a big question mark over the political future of Muskie, the demoted frontrunner who, for the second time, suffered a drubbing in an all-candidate field.

It happened first in Florida on March 14, where he ran fourth with 9 per cent of the vote in an 11-way race.

Muskie managers said in advance that they were prepared to run as poorly as fourth in Wisconsin and would battle it out for the nomination in other states.

With one-third of the precincts counted, this was the lineup behind McGovern:

Humphrey 105,514 votes, or 22 per cent. Wallace 94,845, or 20 per cent. Muskie 53,585, or 11 per cent. Jackson 36,772, or 8 per cent. Lindsay 32,905, or 7 per cent. Wisconsin voters could choose the primary ballot of either party, and in the wide-open primary, Wallace was likely to get some Republican help.

The other names on the Democratic ballot were those of former Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, Reps. Shirley Chisholm of New York, Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas and Patsy Mink of Hawaii, Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles and Sen. Vance Hartke has quit the campaign and endorsed Humphrey.

The dinner meeting, sponsored by the student organization of the Data Processing Management Association at A&M, begins at 7 p.m. in Wyatt's Cafeteria.

Dr. Ryan is on leave of absence from his position as associate professor of mathematics at Case Western Reserve University.

commander of the 1st military region there, described Tuesday's relative lull as the result of the enemy's taking time for resupply and reorganization.

"We have stopped them now, but we don't know if they will attack more," Lam told newsmen in Da Nang. "They have taken very heavy casualties. They have stopped for resupply and reorganization."

The general estimated the North Vietnamese have suffered 2,000 killed thus far in ground fighting and by air and artillery strikes. South Vietnamese forces, Lam said, have lost 200 killed and 600 wounded.

The fall of Fire Base Anne raised the threat that Highway 1 might be cut south of Quang Tri, thus isolating it.

Associated Press Correspondent Holger Jensen reported that many of the 28,000 refugees still left in Quang Tri were packing to move southward along the vital Highway 1 toward Hue, 34 miles to the southwest where some 20,000 already have been temporarily located.

The South Vietnamese military command denied published reports Tuesday that government troops had made an amphibious landing at the mouth of the Cua Viet River, where the naval base fell after three days of attacks.

AP Correspondent Jensen said U.S. air strikes north of Dong Ha were designed to cut Highway 1 in an attempt to prevent the North Vietnamese from moving any more heavy equipment and weapons southward from the demilitarized zone. The bombers used laser-guided bombs in the strikes.
