Establish telephone network

Ad hoc committee reports on military buildup

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A handful of antiwar activists, drawn together in the past week by the escalation of hostilities in Indochina, has established a telephone network to monitor the buildup of American forces.

Operating from offices of other antiwar groups to which most of them also belong, the Ad Hoc Committee on Military Buildup has supplied to news media since last Saturday detailed information on the buildup of U.S. forces intended to counter the current North Vietnamese offensive.

Information provided by the committee, and later confirmed by independent sources, includes movement of ships, men and planes from bases in Florida, Virginia, California and Hawaii and stepped-up activity at bases in the Philippines and in Japan.

The Pentagon will not confirm troop movements. Some of the group's information cannot be confirmed. But much of it has.

The information disseminated around-the-clock by the antiwar activists comes from sources at coffee houses and antimilitary movements near military bases in this country and abroad. Much of the material is supplied by draftees and other military men who privately tell antiwar activists everything they know, the committee says.

"We are doing this so people will know what is happening," one committee member said.

"If they know the real truth, maybe they'll know what we are really doing about Vietnam."

Running a telephone bill to what they say is more than $8,000 in a week the committee says it has learned that 25 ships, 486 planes and 30,650 U.S. military men have been sent from bases around the world to Indochina.

The committee came into being last Saturday when George Stein, a newsman at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology campus radio station, read a news account of a transfer of men from a Kansas base to Southeast Asia.

Intrigued by the story, Stein notified friends who were gathered in Portsmouth, N.H., for a New England convention of persons who operate coffee houses and generally support antiwar movements in areas around military bases.

From that meeting, Stein and six others obtained telephone numbers of people involved in similar antimilitary efforts at most U.S. bases in this country and in Thailand, Japan and Hawaii.

From there it was simply a matter of putting together the telephone network.

Ed Murray, one member of the Committee, was asked whether the group's activities left it open to criticism that it was performing a disservice or aiding U.S. efforts.

Murray said committee members "will not give out any classified information. To the best of our knowledge, everything we've given out is unclassified."

He said it was the committee's belief that they had not disclosed any information which would aid the enemy, contending they feel they probably know more than that.

"We're getting it out to the people," he said. "This war is to end and we'd like to see people end it in this election."

U.N. conference aims to help poor countries

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Thousands of delegates from 141 nations assembled Thursday for another try at ending the awesome disparities between the world's rich and poor.

President Salvador Allende of Chile told them the poor countries of the so-called Third World have drastic problems.

cialism," expressed new hope for the success of UNCTAD.

"It is clear to all that the financial conceptions of the post war period are tottering," he declared to the several thousand delegates and observers in the modern new assembly hall built especially for UNCTAD.

"The now or strengthened centers of political and economic power are generating striking contradictions among the industrialized countries themselves."

The occasion was the opening ceremony of the third U.N. Conference on Trade and Development—UNCTAD III. The conference, held every four years, first assembled in Geneva in 1964 at the urging of the world's underdeveloped countries, which were dissatisfied with the existing U.N. structure.

Covering a wide range of financial and economic topics, UNCTAD III is a forum to seek ways for the world's wealthier countries to aid their poorer counterparts in speeding up their development and raising the living standard of their people.

UNCTAD, however, is a consultative body and has no power to enforce recommendations and decisions.

In a speech of more than an hour, Allende said that if present international systems do not change, 15 per cent of the people in the Third World will die of hunger.

The underdeveloped countries went away generally disappointed from the New Delhi UNCTAD conference in 1968, after no dramatic concessions were won from the rich countries in such areas as preferential treatment for manufactured goods from underdeveloped nations.

But Allende, a Marxist who has pledged to lead his underdeveloped country "down the road to so-

The Church.. For a Fuller Life.. For You..

Here is one of those great epigrams of my favorite philosopher — Dad! Or was it Mother? It's hard to remember for sure.

But, anyway, it isn't true. The older I get the more I realize that there are some who can tie their own neckties but still aren't men.

Maturity is not measured by what you can do. It is measured rather by your reasons for doing—or not doing—things you can do.

Think that sentence through once more. Your son will become a man when he has sound reasons for doing one thing and not doing something else, even though he could have done either.

It is in the character-molding and spiritual growth which the Church provides that both youth and adults discover the soundest motivation of life. In worship and religious training we embrace the reasons that will prompt our courageous decisions as Christian men and women.
