

AN EMPLOYEE BENEFIT PROGRAM SHOULD KEEP THE EMPLOYER IN MIND.

That is, it should be designed carefully, tightly... efficiently and economically... so that it benefits the employee, but the employer doesn't go broke. If you are an employer, maybe we should talk.

Offense leads Maroons past Whites

The Maroons scored in every quarter to defeat their second string teammates, 38-7, in an uninspired finale to spring training Saturday at Kyle Field.

The first team ran the Wishbone for 370 yards, 213 in the second half, during the understandably unemotional contest. John Bounds carried the ball 14 times for 116 yards, Brad Dusek rushed 22 times for 86 yards, Mark Green ran 22 times for 83 yards, and Don Dean kept it 10 times for 69 yards.

The Maroons were operating without three key performers—quarterback Lex James, tight end Homer May and center Skip Kuehn. James reinjured a hamstring and saw no action. May tried to play with a sprained ankle, but he went no more than a few plays. Kuehn left the game with a slight knee injury with three minutes gone.

"The game today was pretty typical of spring training," head coach Emory Bellard said afterwards. "We're not there yet, but we're on the way. We've made a lot of progress."

"The one thing I've been most impressed with this spring is the attitude," he added. "We had one bad practice, but other than that, the team worked extra hard. Everything's gone by so fast, I feel like we've just begun."

The Maroons drove 45 yards in six plays for a first quarter touchdown, with Bounds going two yards over left tackle for the score. Green ran for a late second quarter touchdown and one in each of the last two periods.

The first team drove 40 yards in six plays after a Larry Ellis interception, with Green driving over from the two in the second quarter. The big running back carried another one in from the one in the third quarter, this time capping a nine-play, 42-yard march. The game's last score came on a six-yard burst by Green after the Maroons had gone 33 yards in five plays.

Roberto Payan, the soccer-style kicker from Columbia, booted a 51-yard field goal in the second quarter. Payan had little or no wind at his back. He tried a 52 yarder at the end of the game, but the kick was wide, although it was long enough.

Dean ended a 68-yard drive in the third quarter by tossing a two-yard pass to split end Mike Keese. The quarterback set up the play on a run out of the pocket. He ran to the left and rolled to the right during the jaunt. A crashing block by Dusek helped him along the way.

The White team scored on a 76-yard drive after the first Maroon touchdown. Long plays made the journey for the second team, with Tim Trimmier hitting David Standish for 15 yards on a screen. Standish ran 25 yards over right tackle to set up the scoring play, a 32 yard Trimmier-to-Doug Jordan bomb with the sophomore tight end fighting off a defender for the ball.

The traditional explosiveness of the Wishbone was noticeably absent, as was the necessary in-gradient, blazing speed in the backfield. This resulted in the outside plays not living up to expectations.

The passing possibilities of the formation were indicated, but not proven. Dean hit on four of 16 aerials for 30 yards, while Trimmier connected on six of his 16 attempts for 73 yards. Trimmier was intercepted four times—twice by Grady Hoermann, once by Ellis and once by Dwight LaBauve.

With the Wichita State coaching staff on hand to scout the Aggies, Bellard was reluctant to show them any new wrinkles of the formation he invented and established while at the University of Texas.

"The passing game is definitely a threat, but you couldn't tell it today," Bellard explained. "The possibility of passing out of the Wishbone is good."

"Our quarterbacks will always be prepared to call their own game," he continued. "Don Dean called his own game today, but I noticed that Donnie (Wigginton), the White coaches, were sending in plays."

Defensively, Boice Best was the Maroon leader with six unassisted tackles and four assists. Corky Sheffield had five solo stops and three assists, and Max Bird made two tackles and helped on five.

White linebacker Ken Stratton, a 5-10, 186-pound sophomore from Spring Branch, had 11 unassisted tackles and 17 assists. Mike Sweat made five stops and assisted in four, Charlie Billingsley had four solos and five assists, Rusty Pool made two tackles and helped with seven, Al Tommond was credited with six tackles and four assists, and Steve Canter had two stops and six assists.

"The first team defense is pretty solid," Bellard said. "They're their lax moments, but they're ed themselves as the best."

"For the White team, I did some things extremely well," he explained, "but because of he missed some things in the areas. He'll definitely seek out to hit you."

"I don't know what they're expecting," he replied. "If they saw the Wishbone, because we ran out of it nearly every play."

Learn to be a pilot. Fly in your spare time.

Flying... what a great way to spend your spare time. Undergraduate Pilot Training (UPT) is the Air Force Reserve's program that trains those who qualify to become Air Force pilots with a minimum of interruption from job, home life, etc. Qualifications include: being between 20½ and 26½ years of age; in top physical condition; hold a bachelor's degree (or in your last semester); and satisfactory scores on the Air Force Officer's Qualification Test.

The program begins when you go to Lackland AFB, Texas, to attend Officer Training for 12 weeks.

Upon being commissioned a 2nd lieutenant in the Air Force Reserve, you go directly to an Air Force flying school for classroom and flying instruction. After one year of training, you will return to your own hometown, follow the civilian career you've chosen, and fly with your local Air Force Reserve unit, during your spare time and on weekends. For all the facts about the Reserve's Undergraduate Pilot Training Program mail in the following coupon.

When you fly with the Air Force Reserve, you can really get away from it all.
