

Former Students sponsors variety of TAMU programs

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of four stories by Jerry Cooper of the Texas Aggie covering various activities of the Association of Former Students.)

The Association of Former Students of Texas A&M sponsors numerous programs to enhance the educational stature of the university. These programs and programs of service to former students are financed solely through the generosity of former students and friends of A&M.

Fund raising for the Association is the responsibility of Donald W. Garrett '50 of San Antonio, vice president for fund raising. His efforts and ideas are coordinated by Robert L. "Bob" Walker '58, the Association's associate executive director. More than $1 million has been contributed to the Association Annual Fund in each of the past two years. This money is used to help university administrators accomplish educational improvements not fully funded by state appropriations.

A Dean's Fund of $22,000 is divided equally between the 11 academic deans of the university to enable them to pursue programs of excellence above those funded by the Texas Legislature.

Along the same line, the Association provides University President Dr. Jack K. Williams with funds for projects that contribute to A&M's high educational standing.

This money is used to recruit top caliber faculty members and cover other administrative expenses not supported by state appropriations.

Other programs sponsored by the Association are designed to further enhance the academic stature of the university by providing incentives for faculty members and graduate students.

Each year a joint committee of faculty members, students and former students selects 12 recipients of the Distinguished Faculty Achievement Awards. The award consists of $1,000, an engraved watch and a certificate for each faculty member chosen.

The program was started in 1955 and all but four of the 131 living recipients of this award are still serving A&M.

The Association has in the past recognized the top graduate students each year at the Master's and Ph.D. Degree levels. This year the program is being expanded to honor the top two students at each level.

Recipients of the Distinguished Graduate Student Awards are presented a cash award and a framed certificate.

In addition to these awards, the Association, in cooperation with the university, annually extends recognition to at least four former students of Texas A&M through the Distinguished Alumni Award Program.

Recipients of this, the highest award presented by the Association, are selected by a committee of faculty members and former students. The awards are presented during commencement exercises.

Besides these programs to promote the interests and welfare of Texas A&M University, the Association sponsors A&M Club and Class programs as well as providing numerous services for former students which will be explained in another article.

Calhoun voted president-elect of national engineering society

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Dr. John C. Calhoun Jr., Texas A&M vice president for academic affairs, is the new president-elect of the American Society for Engineering Education, announced Dr. Harold Bolz, ASEE president. The TAMU official was elected in nationwide balloting by individuals belonging to the 13,000-member organization.

Dr. Calhoun will assume office at the ASEE annual conference June 19-22 at Texas Tech University and automatically succeed to the society's presidency in June, 1973.

ASEE officials noted Dr. Calhoun will in essence serve a three-year term in the society's top echelon, including an active role in 1974 as immediate past president.

Founded in 1893, ASEE is dedicated to the advancement and improvement of all aspects of higher and continuing education which pertain to the teaching and training of professional engineers, engineering technologists and engineering technicians, noted Dr. Bolz, engineering dean at Ohio State University. He said the society strives to improve the process and content of engineering and engineering technology and maintains a leadership position in seeking, expressing and advocating goals and standards related to the field.

The organization includes engineering educators at more than 600 institutions in the U. S. and 57 foreign countries.

Dr. Calhoun has served as ASEE vice president and chairman of the society's Projects Board and has been a member of several key committees.

Computer expert to speak

An expert on the use of computers in chemistry research will speak at the May meeting of the A&M Chapter, American Chemical Society.

Dr. Robert A. Osteryoung, chairman of Colorado State's Chemistry Department, will give a seminar on "Computer-controlled Electrochemical Experimentation" at 8 p.m. Thursday, May 11, in Chemistry Room 228.

The lecture is preceded by a mixer at 5:45 and dinner at 6:45, both at Clayton's Restaurant. Reservations must be made by noon May 10 with Dr. Nick Pace or Dr. Ralph Zingaro.

Dinner costs are $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for students.

Dr. Osteryoung received a B.S. from Ohio University and Ph.D. from Illinois University.

He taught at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute from 1954-1959, when he joined Atomic International Division of North American Rockwell Corp.

Dr. Osteryoung later became the first group leader of physical chemistry at North American's Science Center and then associate director of the laboratory.

From 1963 through 1968 he was visiting professor at California Institute of Technology. He joined Colorado State in 1968.

His research has led to more than 50 papers.

Governor Preston Smith Produces Results, not Rhetoric

As Governor of Texas, Preston Smith

1. Proposed lowering the voting age to two sessions of the Legislature and encouraged Texas' ratification of the U.S. Constitutional Amendment permitting 18 year olds to vote.
2. Initiated an agreed judgement in a test case which allows 18 to 21 year olds to vote where they live and go to school, rather than requiring them to vote in the communities where their parents live.
3. Appointed the first student to a university governing board in the history of Texas and indicated that similar appointments of students and faculty members would be made in the future.
4. Proposed extension of majority rights—full rights of citizenship—to all those between the ages of 18 and 21.
5. Was the first elected state official to endorse the Anderson Reform Rules for the Democratic Party of Texas and specifically encouraged the inclusion of the provision in the Rules that three Young Democrats elected by the Young Democrats, serve as full, voting members of the State Democratic Executive Committee.
6. Selected more young people for top administrative positions on the Governor's staff than any other Governor in Texas history.
7. Is the first Governor in history to invite all student body presidents from junior colleges, senior colleges and universities to Annual Conferences of Student Body Presidents to seek out advice and recommendations from the campuses. He has always actively solicited the opinions of young people.

Re-elect Governor Preston Smith He gets the job done.
