Unit Additions Increase ROTC Enrollment

Organization of A&M's Corps of Cadets for 1927-73 hit full stride Saturday.

Four new units were added to the military organization which expects 2,800 cadets this fall, a substantial increase over last year.

Two Naval ROTC companies assigned to the First Brigade and two new Air Force ROTC squadrons will increase the size of the corps to 40 units, up from 36 last fall, according to Col. Thomas R. Parsons.

The commandant said the new alignment will include 20 Army ROTC companies, 16 Air Force ROTC squadrons, two Naval companies and the Maroon and White Bands.

New Naval units will be Company N-1, commanded by Cadet Maj. Ernest Threadgill of Houston, and Company H-1, led by Cadet Maj. John Macdiarmid of San Antonio.

New AF ROTC squadrons formed by splitting two over-size units will be Squadron 15, pre-professional majors outfit commanded by Cadet Maj. Fred Mitchell, and Squadron 16, agriculture outfit commanded by Cadet Maj. Karl Koch.

Col. Parsons said the corps will include "at least 900 freshmen. I believe our overall strength will be over 2,800." Exact figures will have to await tabulation of Monday reports. The number includes 19 football players, with six freshmen among them. The corps will occupy all but Dorms 10 and 12 in the 12-dorm east area.

The corps' first official formation was for the Monday evening meal. Col. Parsons said the most immediate goal will be preparation for the march-in at the Texas A&M-Army football Sept. 29. The first home march-in will include participation from the U. S. Military Academy.

Weekend activities in uniform issuance, which added two sets of wash-covers for lab and work. Allowing for adjustments, Parsons expects the Cadet Corps to be fully uniformed by mid-

Nixon Vows Again To End Draft

President Nixon announced Monday he will end the military draft, a three-decade-old relic of the World War II era, by July 1, 1973, and replace it with an all-volunteer armed force.

The announcement redeeming Nixon's 1968 campaign pledge came as Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said the President would disclose within 48 hours his decision on Vietnam troop levels.

Laird also told newsmen on the sunny lawn of the Western White House that U.S. bombing and mining of North Vietnam would end if the North Vietnamese returned north of the demilitarized zone and quit using the DMZ to infiltrate troops and supplies.

His statement seemed what softer than conditionally outlined by Nixon during the bombing and mining. White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the been "no change in policy."

Nixon's end-the-draft announcement came in a statement by the White House which conferred with Laird and what he called "an interim report detailing the status progress we have made in ending dependence on the military manpower."

The present authority men into the armed forces next July 1 and Nixon would not ask Congress extension of induction

Bush Burns In Protest

A 21-year-old Houston woman who said she was burned up over federal money for welfare was charged Monday night with burning the shrubbery outside the federal building here in protest.

Ellen Janice Watkins was charged with willful destruction of property in the burning of about 20 wax leaf Lagustrums Sunday. She told reporters it was the only way she knew to protest the government use of her tax dollars.

"I don't think what I work hard for should be given to those on welfare," said Miss Watkins, who is presently unemployed.

Sunday night, she told reporters, she was drinking and decided it was time to act. She said she took a gallon of gasoline to the federal building, doused the bushes and set them afire with her cigarette lighter. A federal officer saw her leave and took down the license number of her car, arson investigators said.
