Menu Mania: Apartment Rx For Doldrums

Has the novelty of apartment living worn off? Does the routine of shopping drain you of enthusiasm? Even if this does not apply to you, the following list of energizers may be helpful.

Before you go shopping again, find some of the latest issues of magazines such as "Woman's Day" or "Family Circle" and clip out some new recipes. You can't go wrong with the ones using hamburger or chicken. Get something different especially if it has accompanying color photograph.

Try to plan your menus at least a week in advance. Avoid spur of the moment shopping runs and NEVER go shopping on an empty stomach.

When making a list of the things you need, consult the paper for news of specials, but remember, you pay for the stamps. Take the new recipes along and be determined that your results will be as yummy as those pictures.

It is easiest to plan a breakfast type of supper on the days you shop, after working and shopping who needs to slave in a hot kitchen?

If a package of meat will go further than one meal, divide it up, wrap the portions in foil or freezer wrap and chuck them in the freezer until needed.

Stick a copy of the planned menus on the refrigerator door—why memorize such trivia?

If you know you are going to have a busy week, plan to cook meals ahead of time. Choose something which will freeze or keep well. For example, make up a basic meatloaf but double it. Baking one now and freezing the other or bake both and eat one hot and the other sliced cold and slipped under the broiler with cheese topping.

New Hours For Commons

The Krueger-Dunn commons area will be open only to residents without hours on weekdays until 2 a. m. and on weekends to residents and guests.

The commons was previously open until midnight but in a meeting of the dorm officers, E. C. Oates and the head residents, the rules were changed.

Other items discussed were the replacement of recreational facilities and the establishment of judicial boards. The boards will deal with infractions of visitation hours and other rules. Each dorm will have its own board.

The reception desk in the commons has been established as a sign-in and sign-out area for girls who have restricted hours. Girls must show student identification cards upon entering the dorm after curfew.

A thirty late minutes grace period will be given each semester. After accumulating 30 late minutes, coeds will be campused for a weekend.
