

Youth Development Committee, Inc., Offers Youths Alternative To Drugs

The Youth Development Committee, Inc., offers an alternative to Bryan-College youth with drug problems. The committee, a chartered non-profit organization, is open to all area high school and junior high school students.

The group, run solely by students, is not sponsored or affiliated with any organization. It provides an unstructured environment for youths to "do their own things." The group holds rap sessions and gives counseling.

Advisers for the group are six environmental design seniors, all students of Rodney Hill, professor of architecture at A&M. They are Frank Figueredo, Terry Welch, Eric Opitz, Hessian Salimi, Patrick Fontana, and Drew Williams, advisor-coordinator.

Community involvement and recreation are the major activities of the group. By becoming involved with improving the community, the committee presents activities more worthwhile than drugs.

Past activities include trips to Head Lake and Somerville, and a clean-up of Hensel Park.

Saturday the group plans a "paint in" at the Brazos County Rehabilitation Center. Members will decorate a large crate for playground equipment. Carpet was donated by Tuttle Discount Carpet, Bryan, to make the crate safe for children. A picnic for the children will also be held if sufficient donations are received. The major problem faced by the group is its inadequate meeting center. The organization is currently meeting in a garage at the corner of Palasota and Cottonwood streets in Bryan. The garage has no electricity, heat or lights. Since the group is not funded by any organization, a new center has been difficult to obtain.

If a new center does become available, the committee hopes to expand its activities to a telephone counseling service and additional recreational facilities.

The center is open from 3:45-

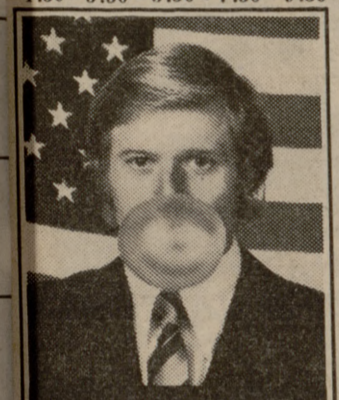

6 p. m., Monday through Friday. Weekend activities are planned by the members in advance.

There are approximately 15 members presently attending the center, according to Patrick Fontana, committee secretary. All interested Bryan-College Station youths are encouraged to attend.

'72 Student Loan Program Is Experiencing Change

The Education Amendments of 1972 made significant changes in the Guaranteed Student Loan Program.

The legislation, effective until March 1, 1973, makes loans possible under the same regulations that governed the Guaranteed Student Loan Program prior to June 30, 1970.

This program enables the student to borrow money directly from a bank, credit union, savings and loan association or other participating lender. A maximum of $1,500 per academic year can be borrowed up to a total of $7,500.

Loans are normally repaid within 5 to 10 years, but minimum monthly payment of $30 may reduce the repayment period, depending on the size of the loan. Repayment may be deferred up to 3 years for service in the military, Peace Corps or VISTA.

Because Texas has its own student loan program, Texas college students have not been affected by the slow-down in applications for loans. More than 10,800 students have already received loans for Fall 1972 through the Hinson-Hazelwood College Student Loan Program.

According to Commissioner Bevington Reed, these loans probably represent two-thirds of the loans which will be made for the fall semester.

While the Hinson-Hazelwood

Program is a state program, it is participating in the federally insured loan program. This guarantees all loans by the Federal government against loss due to default, death and permanent disability of borrowers.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the regional office of the U.S. Office of Education, State Guarantee Agency, Lender or Student Financial Aid Officer.

Pollsters Predict November Victory For Nixon In Texas

(AP)—Samplings of Texas voters by political pollsters point to a November victory in Texas by President Richard Nixon.

But it's too early to bet any money you can't afford to lose.

Texas Republican campaigners are enthusiastic over opinion polls that show Nixon ahead in Texas as much as 53 percentage points, but in the same breath they say they'll be glad to win by any margin.

Supporters of Sen. George McGovern claim the current margin between Nixon and their candidate is not as wide as the polls indicate and say it's possible for the gap to be closed by Nov. 7.

An even closer race, according to both pollsters and campaign managers, is the battle between Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., and Democrat Barefoot Sanders.

Some reports give Tower only a four-point lead now.

A poll published by a national magazine (Time) caused considerable stir the past week when it showed 71 per cent of those questioned in Texas favored Nixon while only 18 per cent favored McGovern and 11 were undecided.

Another recent national poll (Gallup) showed young voters in the South, including Texas, favoring Nixon by a 70-29 margin.

A Republican poll of the state in August, according to their state headquarters, showed Nixon with 68 per cent and McGovern about 29.

"From what I have heard and seen in my travels around the state I know there are more than 18 per cent of the voters for McGovern," said Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong who is a state coordinator for McGovern-Shriver and one of the few state officials actually campaigning for the Democratic ticket.

"I think Texas is probably doing as the rest of the nation," Armstrong said. "There is some discernible movement to close the gap. It's beginning to close — I'm not saying it's closed, but it's beginning to close."

Spokesman for Texas Democrats for Nixon are leery about making predictions or polls but they leave no doubt they think the final margin will be a lot closer than the polls show now.

Both sides agree that the outcome of the Nixon-McGovern race vitally affects the Tower-Sanders conflict. A big Nixon win could push Tower to victory. A McGovern win or even a close loss gives Sanders a chance.

The closeness of the Tower-Sanders race is indicated by opposing poll results.

Republicans say a statewide poll made in August showed that Tower was 14.1 per cent points ahead of Sanders.

Then in September the Texas AFL-CIO and Sanders' supporters said another statewide poll showed Tower only five points ahead—42 per cent favoring Tower, 37 for Sanders and 21 per cent undecided.

Wolfpen Village

it's easy to live in Wolfpen Village

The last section of College Station's most interesting residential community for young, creative "now" people is open for your inspection.

The life style at Wolfpen is open and easy. Living spaces are simple and uncluttered. Thoughtful design subdues the plastic "outside" world and encourages pleasant contact with the natural green world. Wolfpen is in a world of its own. Yet the university campus is within walking distance.

The tedium of lawn care and grounds maintenance is handled by others. So there's time for a swim in Wolfpen's pool. Or a stroll along a curving path along Wolfpen Creek. Or other pursuits that contribute to living a full, fun life.

Wolfpen's ultra-modern design includes the features proven most popular with creative people living in similar projects on the Coast. These amenities for leisure-lovers include glass walls opening onto inside patios and courtyards, fireplaces, covered two-car garages with generous storage, wall to wall shag carpet, custom cabinetry, one-piece fiberglass tub/showers, rheostat-controlled lighting, wooden decks, spacious closets, all electric kitchens, two-level vaulted ceilings and exposed beams, to mention those features that are obvious.

The features not so obvious include the fine attention to detail, the careful craftsmanship, the surprisingly thoughtful design that contribute to enjoyment and value now and at resale.

There is still a choice of one or two story models and two or three bedroom floor plans. A limited number are priced under 25K. Financing arrangements include low down payment, payments extended to 30 years, a unique lease-purchase plan and even a guaranteed equity buy-back option.

The model home is open every day until dark. Come see for yourself. You'll be surprised how easy it is to live in Wolfpen Village.
