

Horned Frogs Against Hogs In Conference Biggie Saturday

The Southwest Conference kicks off its second week with eight of its nine teams in the week. The Aggies have the week off.

The one conference game of the weekend pits Arkansas against TCU in the Horned Frogs Amon Carter Stadium. A crowd of over 40,000 is expected for the SWC opener of both clubs and this should test what the pre-season favored Hogs are made of. TCU is unbeaten in two games while the Razorbacks have been beaten only by top ranked Southern Cal. The Razorbacks have however been having trouble with teams they were expected to roll over. Arkansas has beaten Oklahoma State and Tulsa, neither one a national power, by one point each. The Hogs are a 5 1/2 point favorite in the 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

The Texas Longhorns take a week off by playing Utah State in Austin. The Horns established they are a team to be reckoned with by beating a tough Texas Tech squad 25-20 last week in Lubbock.

The Longhorns need a patsy this week because they catch Oklahoma and Arkansas back to back these next two weeks.

Texas finds itself in a dandy roll as heavy favorite, so heavy that no line has been set for the score. It should be Texas by about 35.

The Baylor Bears play their first home game under coach Grant Teaff in Waco Saturday night. The Bears are an eight point underdog but have beaten the point spread every time out this season. Miami looked anything but impressive against Texas and the Hurricanes now are 0-2. Both teams had the week off and should be ready.

The University of Houston travels to the black hills of Virginia, the site of last weeks upset of SMU by Virginia Tech. The odds-makers have rated the game a toss-up and the Coogs will be trying to get their high-gear offense in motion. Houston is 1-2 while VPI has an identical mark.

The Rice Owls go giant killing against LSU in Houston. Rice is a 14 point underdog to the eighth ranked Tigers but tied Georgia Tech last week under the same odds. Bruce Gadd's passing will have to be extra sharp for the Owls to stand a chance but between Gadd and LSU's all-America candidate Bert Jones, the air should be filled with footballs in Rice Stadium Saturday night. Over 65,000 is expected for the Saturday night contest.

SMU, untracked by Virginia Tech last week when the M&M boys (Maxon and Morris) melted in coach Hayden Frys hand, face New Mexico State in Texas Stadium Saturday afternoon.

New Mexico is led by quarterback Joe Pisarcik, who was the country's 11th leading passer last year. Hopes on SMU were high after good showings against Forest and Florida but are upset by Virginia Tech. The nine point favorites.

Texas Tech must rebound a good but not good enough against defending champion Texas. The fell 25-20 but led the tired Longhorns at half-time is this week's opponent. The Razorbacks. Texas Tech point favorite but have the habit of losing the after they play Texas. This year will be different.

From the looks of things the pre-season selections conference race looked Arkansas has not looked powerful but Texas is contender again. The conference should be a unless some drastic change made in the performance rest of the conference

Miss Royal Triton Visits A&M Campus

Miss Royal Triton, Linda Eversole, visited the A&M campus yesterday and today to build student interest for this Sunday's 300 mile ARCA stock car race.

Students couldn't have missed the lovely blue-eyed, brown-haired beauty strolling around campus in a purple and white mini-skirt.

"I just love your campus," she said. "I never knew it was so big and pretty. The people are real friendly and seem to be pretty curious about our race."

Who wouldn't be curious? Linda, a Dallas native, lists her hobbies as motorcycling, horseback riding, sewing and all outdoor activities.

It's no wonder about motorcycling. She was "Miss Kawasaki" in Dallas, Chicago and Talladega, Ala., national races.

She got her first taste of stock car driving Thursday morning when Jim Hallows, race track owner, took her around the track in the ARCA 300 pace car.

"I was really excited and got into the mood," she said. "I'd never been in a race car before on a regulation track. The thing that intrigued me most was that the tires had to be over-inflated just so the wheels would stay on due to the high wall incline."

Linda was a finalist in the Dallas Model of the Year contest in which the final interview was with TV personality Bohe Hope. She has worked with Eddie Albert on "Rescue Through Recycling" which was sponsored by Dr. Pepper and she appeared on the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon.

Besides modeling, Linda teaches "Charm and Modeling" at Montgomery Wards and works with underprivileged children in Dallas.

"Working with those kids really satisfies me," she said. "They are so poor and need help. Every Saturday we give away shoes at the Chapel. They don't know enough even to keep themselves clean."

Her tour here will mostly be promoting Royal Triton Oil and Sunday's race. Thursday afternoon she was at the Firestone Store giving away free tickets and oil changes and meeting the residents of Bryan-College Station.

Her modeling career has included national photographic advertisements for Oak Farms, Allerecreme Cosmetics (in Glamour, Seventeen and McCall's), Dr. Pepper and Corrigan Jewelry.

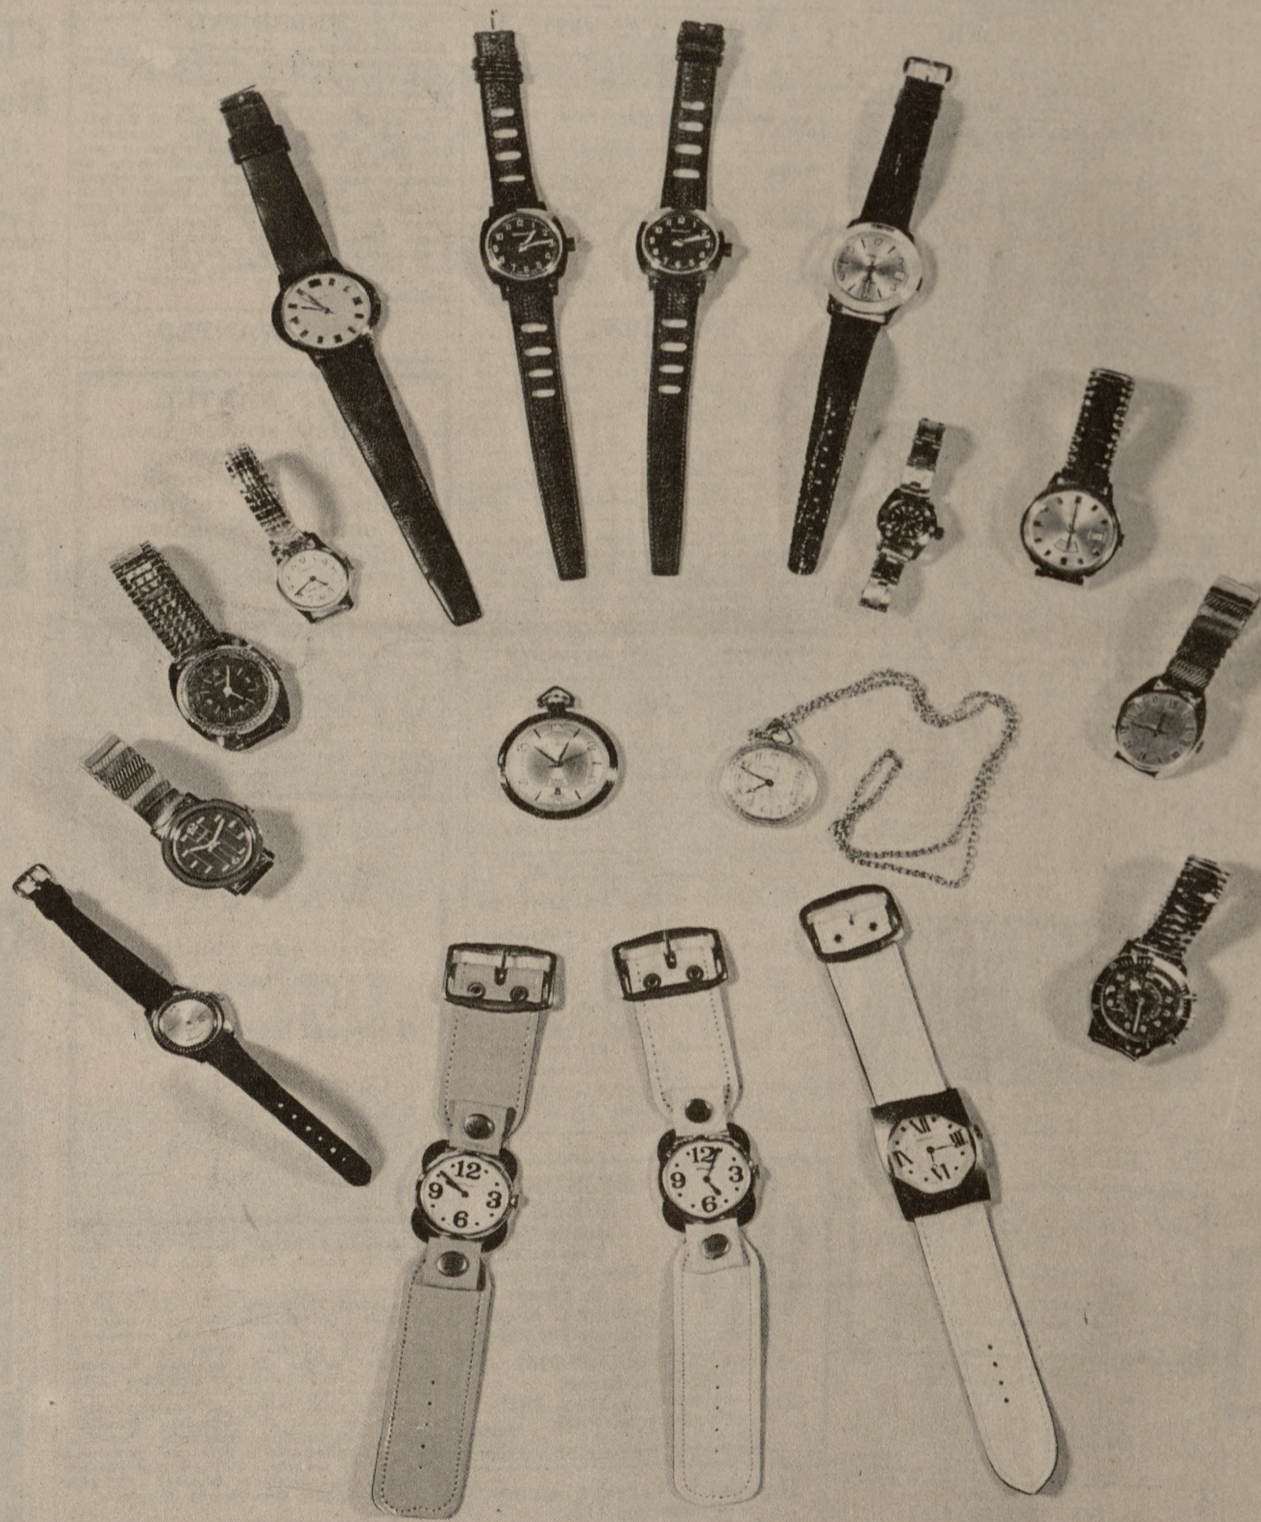

She has also done special promotions for Calvert Distilleries, American Motors, Reynolds Aluminum and General Electric.
