MIKE ELLERBROCK of Fowler Hall is "tackled" by George Neurohr of Utay Hall in Tuesday's intramural flag football competition. The "tackle" wasn't enough to stop Fowler from winning its district championship with a 12-0 victory.

Resonance by Steve Grayson

"A fullout, hardass, patent leather rock and roll band" describes Jo Jo Gunne in the words of a totally impartial judge, namely their very own record company.

but I really can't see the rest of the promo line.

Jay Ferguson was the author of Spirit's "Fresh Garbage," "Mr. Skin," "Uncle Jack," "Street Norm" and some other stragies.

When he departed, he kept both the bass player, Mark Andes, and his odd musical inclinations. Along with Mark's brother, Matt, and drummer Curley Smith, he put together the bunch known as Jo Jo Gunne.

Ferguson is the big man in the group. His loud, masculine vocals are the guiding force of their debut album, "Jo Jo Gunne." His influence is detectable in everything from the recurring minor key harmonies to the song titles ("Shake That Fat," "Barstow Blue Eyes").

"Run, Run, Run" is the best track on the record. It, along with "Fat," have been released as singles. "Run" is plenty enthusiastic, with precision reminiscent of the old Spirit I.

Actually, half the Jo Jo Gunne album could pass for Spirit I, it sounds so familiar. Gunne's music is more straight forward than Ferguson's past efforts, but the lyrics sound too much like Robert Crumb to make much sense.

Still, Jo Jo Gunne is by far the better of the two Spirit splinters, even if they may not live up to the Chuck Berry rocking image they're billed as.

I just read where Ed Cassidy has left the "new Spirit" he was heading up. His departure will probably finish the group off, as he was about all their first and only album, "Feedback," had going for it.

In case anyone is still wondering what is so interesting about the three men who dubbed in for the singing Munchkins in "The Wizard of Oz," nothing except that 30 years later the same three voices were used for Elvis Presley's brothers in his flick "Love Me Tender."

Speaking of interesting facts, everyone knows that Three Dog Night was not the first group to record the tune "Mama Told Me Not To Come." But, the original version wasn't by Randy Newman, who wrote, it either.

The first recording was made in late 1967 by Eric Burdon and the Animals, back when Three Dog Night was just a cold evening in Australia.

Anti-Busing Petition Passes

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The Texas Legislature petitioned Congress Tuesday to call a constitutional convention to prohibit busing to achieve racial balance in public schools.

The Senate approved the resolution by voice vote after suspending the rules to take it up. The House voted for it 106-21 Monday.

The key Senate vote was on suspension of the rules. Two-thirds of those present and voting were needed, and that's precisely what supporters of the measure got—18-9.

Voting to suspend—and therefore for the constitutional convention — were Aikin, Bates, Beckworth, Blanchard, Bridges, Connally, Creighton, Hall, Harris, Herring, Hightower, Kothmann, Patman, Tippen, Sherman, Snelson, Watson and Word.

Voting against were Bernal, Brooks, Harrington, Jordan, Kennard, Mauzy, McKool, Schwartz and Wallace.

Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston offered an amendment that called upon Congress to pass a uniform law on busing for the entire nation and not call a constitutional convention.

The vote on the Schwartz amendment was 12-14.

Sen. Barbara Jordan of Houston earlier blocked consideration of the resolution on a point of order that the rules prohibited action on any bill in the last 24 hours of a legislative session except conference committee reports and correction of errors.

It was that rule that Sen. Wayne Connally of Floresville successfully moved to suspend on the 18-9 vote.

Miss Jordan argued that busing ought not to be in the U.S. Constitution.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy argued that the constitutional convention would not be to busing, despite the resolution that limit it to that issue. Supreme Court has held that such a convention not be limited. That would be free to abolish the Rights or anything else Constitution, he said.
