$2,000 Set As Campus Chest Goal

By KAREN BANKS

After every home game there will be barrels outside the gates of Kyle Field so that money may be collected for the Campus Chest.

The purpose of this fund is to aid Aggies who are in a financial crisis, perhaps because of a death in the family or an accident. Through this fund, students in need can obtain money to continue their education or make the trip back home.

The fund also supplies money for the purchase of flowers, which are sent to Aggies who are ill or to the families of deceased Aggies.

This year the Campus Chest has set a goal of $2,000, but only $150 has been collected thus far and only two home games remain.

World Champions 'Drive Friendly'

Dallas Cowboy teammates Bob Hayes and Bob Lilly have come across with a pair of TDs for the Governor's Committee on Traffic Safety. Hayes, the fleet wide receiver around whom the entire Cowboy receiving corps is built, and Lilly, the six-time All-Pro who's been with Dallas for all of his pro career, scored with public service announcements for the "Drive Friendly" program. The recorded messages were recently released to all radio stations in Texas.

BEAUTY AND BRAINS—Miss Rebecca Allison, left, and Mrs. Sandra Caldwell are the only two girls studying petroleum engineering at Texas A&M University. Both are honor students and plan careers in oil production.

A&M Coeds Seek Occupations In Petroleum Engineering

Two Texas A&M coeds studying petroleum engineering feel being a woman offers many advantages in today's job market.

Miss Rebecca Allison of Pasadena and Mrs. Sandra Caldwell of Houston are the only girls in the 156-student Petroleum Engineering Department. Both came to TAMU because of its academic reputation. Both are honor students.

"About the only disadvantage," Miss Allison noted, "is we stick out in classes and at the office" during summer employment.

Mrs. Caldwell, wife of TAMU junior aerospace engineering major Geary Caldwell, said she is the only girl in many engineering classes. She is called on many times because it's easy for the professor to know one girl's name.

"Other students treat us as equals," Mrs. Caldwell added.

Both girls worked for oil companies last summer. Miss Allison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Allison of 706 West Ave., Pasadena, was an engineering trainee at the Getty Oil Co. Research Laboratory in Houston.

The TAMU junior found the work interesting.

"There is a lot of competition to recruit women in industry," she related.

Mrs. Caldwell, a sophomore, is attending TAMU on a Amoco scholarship and worked in the firm's division office in Houston during the summer. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Bundy of 10215 Kittrell, Houston.

Her great uncle channeled her towards petroleum engineering "and the scholarship swayed me," she related. Attending TAMU was a childhood dream, Mrs. Caldwell reported.

Miss Allison's brother, Bert, is a senior civil engineering major here. Her father, a graduate of another Southwest Conference school, suggested she study at Aggieland because of its reputation in industry.

Both girls say they expect to receive about $12,000 a year starting salary upon graduation and report companies already have made employment contacts. Recent equal employment legislation has made the better job offers possible, the girls agree.

Miss Allison said she plans to enter petroleum production, while Mrs. Caldwell wants to work in offshore exploration, something no woman has yet done.

"The oldtimers may not like it, but offshore is where I'll be," Mrs. Caldwell contends.

Briscoe's Position on Urban Transportation:

"We want cities built of boldness and imagination..."

"We want cities built of boldness and imagination, but we don't want highways and freeways that are so dangerously crowded with traffic that we move about no faster in 20th Century automobiles than our forefathers did in 19th Century buggies." That's Dolph Briscoe's point of view, and most Texans now share it. The crying need for rapid mass transit systems in our urban areas will be one of the first needs Dolph Briscoe will tackle as governor. He proposes legislation to allow cities and counties to issue bonds for the development of modern transit systems for a modern Texas.
