

In Athletic Hall Of Fame 4 Inducted Saturday

Three footballers and a world champion trackman are the most recent additions to the Texas A&M University Athletic Hall of Fame.

Due to be inducted in ceremonies on Kyle Field prior to the A&M-Arkansas game Nov. 4, are, in order of class seniority: Joe Utay, class of '08, now a Dallas attorney; Jim Thomason, class of '41, a Brenham public accountant; Charlie Krueger, class of '58, defensive tackle for the pro San Francisco 49ers; and Randy Matson, class of '67, world record holder in the shot put and now a staff member of the Association of Former Students at Texas A&M.

Utay captained his 1907 football team and later became an assistant coach and athletic director in the Charlie Moran days. Still later he was appointed to the Board of Directors of Texas A&M and served as chairman of the Athletic Committee of that board. He founded the Southwest Football Officials Association in 1912 and served as chairman of that group until 1936. He officiated in more than 100 Southwest Conference games before he retired in 1936. A charter member of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame, he was awarded the Distinguished American Award this year in recognition of his lifetime devotion to the sport.

Thomason was the durable blocking back on the 1939 Texas Aggie National Championship team and set a record by playing 584 minutes of a possible 600 that season. John Kimbrough, the Aggie All-America fullback, has said, "Without Jim Thomason, no one ever would have heard of me."

Thomason also was Southwest Conference champion in the shot put and discus for two years. In the school year of 1940-41 he was co-captain of both the football and track teams. He has been named the Best Blocker for the first 25 years of the Cotton Bowl where the Aggies played Fordham in 1940.

Krueger came out for football as a freshman in 1954 without a scholarship and went on to win All-America honors as a tackle in both 1956 and 1957. He signed with the San Francisco 49ers in 1958 and has been a standout with them ever since. He captains the defensive team from his tackle slot.

Matson came out of Pampa High as the state champion in the shot put and discus and in his sophomore year at A&M he won the silver medal in the shot put during the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo. In 1968 he added the Olympic Gold Medal and a new Olympic record at Mexico City. He was the first shot putter to break the 70-foot barrier when he set a world record of 70 feet, 7½ inches in 1965 and two years later he raised the world record to its present distance of 71 feet, 5½ inches.

AGGIES

Do we need a new sheriff after a quarter of a century? Should any one person stay in this office for life? Do we need a sheriff that will take the lead in fast, fair, firm, sure enforcement of the law, the same treatment to all?

Who has fought against dishonest officials all his life? One who has been an Aggie booster all his life? Would you attend a meeting once a month to talk about how to improve law enforcement?

Did you know that full corporation of the sheriffs dept. with all the news media protects you from illegal acts by officials?

Did you know that our team is going to beat Arkansas next Sat.?

Tech, Texas, Arkansas Vie For Post-Season Bowl Berths

By KEVIN COFFEY
Assistant Sports Editor

Hayden Fry of SMU and Al Conover of Rice have both been quoted to the fact that they feel the Texas Longhorns only have to play out their schedule to win an unprecedented fifth straight Southwest Conference title.

The fourth straight was unprecedented enough, but a fifth is down right ridiculous. At this point the 'Horns do indeed appear to have that fifth straight Cotton Bowl appearance locked with only SMU, TCU, Baylor and A&M remaining on their SWC schedule.

Combined these teams have a record of 13-13, but it seems that Texas is just too much for the conference again. How do they do it?

This week the Longhorns host SMU and are a 20 point favorite. SMU coach Fry gave the Mustangs little hope of upsetting Texas earlier in the week, but he may have been using psychological warfare.

Last year SMU gave Texas a whale of a game in Dallas losing 22-18 in a game marred with some highly controversial plays.

SMU's hopes ride on whether their famed M&M boys can come back after a poor showing against the surprising Texas Tech Red Raiders.

Kickoff is scheduled for 2 p. m. Saturday with a crowd of some 60,000 fans expected.

Texas Tech hopes to keep itself in the bowl picture when it faces the Rice Owls Saturday in Houston.

Tech is now ranked 18th in the AP poll, their only loss coming at the hands of the ninth ranked Texas Longhorns. Tech's record now stands at 6-1.

The last two meetings between the schools have been close defensive battles, but this year Tech has a high octane offense and seems to be able to put the points on the board.

Last week Tech beat SMU 17-3 showing a tremendous defense which earned the Raider nose-guard national defensive player of the week. Rice was blasted by Texas 45-9 as the Owls record fell to 2-3-1.

Tech is a 10 point favorite for the 2 p. m. kickoff at Rice Stadium.

TCU lost to the revengeful Fighting Irish of Notre Dame by a 21-0 score and now must turn their thoughts to the Baylor Bears.

Baylor evened its record at 3-3 by beating the Aggies last week. The Bears are a totally different team from years past, but are still a 3-point underdog to the Horned Frogs.

Baylor hasn't beaten the Frogs at home since 1954 but that record could be put to the test Saturday. Kickoff is scheduled for 2 p. m. in Fort Worth.

The University of Houston tries to rearrange their football fortunes when they face Florida State in Tallahassee at 1 p. m.

Houston has faced some of the finest passing teams in the country this year in the likes of Rice, Virginia Tech and Arizona State and Florida State will be no exception.

The Seminoles feature quarterback Gary Huff who currently ranks second in the country in passing with 2,115 yards and 17 touchdowns.

Houston is having one of its worst seasons ever and find themselves 10 point underdogs this week.

If Texas does indeed go on to win the conference theirs should be a real battle between Texas Tech and Arkansas for the second spot. Both teams are in good position to be invited to post-season bowl games barring any major upset. Tech and Arkansas meet November 25 in the last regular season game for both teams.
