Cease-Fire Violations Continue

SAIGON (AP)—A top-level State Department official joined Wednesday in efforts to stabilize the Vietnam cease-fire that in 18 days has been riddled by violations.

At the intervention of Deputy

Asst. Secretary of State William H. Sullivan, the four-party Joint Military Commission agreed to do something about trying to stop the shooting in which Saigon has reported more than 13,000 Vietnamese casualties.

The senior American military representative to the commission warned the Viet Cong meanwhile, that the United States will not tolerate any future delays in the release of American war prisoners in South Vietnam.

The Viet Cong delayed release of 27 American prisoners Monday for more than 10 hours.

Representatives of the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong also discussed the 20 additional American prisoners to be released from North Vietnam in the next few days. But it is understood that no firm release time has been set.

U.S. officials made Sullivan's intervention with the Joint Military Commission known shortly before the United States and North Vietnam issued a joint communique on talks Sullivan and Henry A. Kissinger held in Hanoi for four days.

The communique said the participants "had frank, serious and constructive exchanges of views on the implementation of the agreement on ending the war and restoring peace in Vietnam."

While Kissinger flew into Hong Kong Tuesday on his way to China, Sullivan slipped quietly into Saigon.

In a series of meetings Wednesday, Sullivan conferred with all four parties to the Vietnam peace agreement.

It was understood in Saigon that President Nixon has instructed both Kissinger and Sullivan to make efforts to get the Vietnamese to reduce hostilities, which though declining have persisted through the cease-fire.

The Viet Cong commander at Loc Ninh would not release the American prisoners until the Communist side had its own POWs back. The Communist POWs scheduled for release at Loc Ninh staged a sit-down at the prison camp at Bien Hoa until they could meet with their representative on the Joint Military Commission. The result was a delay of more than 10 hours.

A Viet Cong spokesman claimed that a team of the Joint Military Commission sent to Can Tho in the Mekong Delta to inspect a camp where Communist prisoners are held was denied the opportunity to carry out its mission.

Drug Legislation Called A 'Fraud'

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Dolph Briscoe's proposed drug legislation is a "fraud," says a former senator who headed a legislative study committee on Texas drug laws.

Former Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth, now a consultant at the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs here, endorsed a bill introduced by Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena.

Kennard was chairman of an interim committee appointed by former Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes in 1971. Kennard was defeated for re-election last year.

He said Brooks' bill, product of the interim committee study, makes pushers, not users, the target of enforcement efforts. The bill would make simple possession of small amounts of marijuana legal. Only the sale of a drug would be a felony.

Kennard denounced the governor's plan, which would make nearly all types of possession of use in marijuana, including smoking paraphernalia, a felony.

"It's an out-and-out fraud," he declared, "counter-productive to the problem."

 He said the governor's plan "has the illusion of reform by raising penalties to ridiculous heights."

It "reeks of failure" and was prepared with an "instant expertise," Kennard went on.

Kennard said Brooks' bill is, in contrast, based on extensive data collected from prominent national, state and local officials and is "one of the best in the country."

Kennard said he would attempt to bring young people now in prison for marijuana possession before the Senate Judiciary Committee, which will consider the bill. He said nearly everyone, including prison officials, agree that a 17-year-old who smokes joint should not be in prison.

"What does jail have to do with smoking marijuana?" Kennard asked.

Brooks said he hoped the legislators and people of Texas would listen "coolly and calmly" to the evidence the study committee amassed in producing the bill.

Coed Viewpoint Panel Gives Advice on Dating Behavior

The first A&M coed Viewpoint panel gave advice to students about dating behavior in its meeting Wednesday night.

"Be friendly and be yourself," seemed to be the main thought of panel which answered questions on almost every phase of life with the A&M coeds.

The women stressed that guys should not be shy and assume that every "Maggie" has a date. The panelists said that many coeds sit at home because men are afraid to ask them out.

"The easiest thing to do is to speak up and say hello, if you want a date," said panelist Linda Todd.

The members of the panel felt that good manners and nice dress were important factors on dates. "Blue jeans are okay for the movies, but I'd rather have my date wear knit slacks or dress slacks for anything else," said Lynn Bliss.

"If a guy asks me if it is all right to smoke, I'll go ahead and say no," said panelist Sue Matula. Most of the panelists felt they did not want their date to smoke.

The panelists answered questions from the audience that centered around the women's presence on the campus.

When asked about the way "Maggies" feel with the high men-women ratio, Leilani Sanders said, "I really don't feel that the women here have a superior feeling because of the larger amount of men."
