Brad Dusek

Brad Dusek To Participate In Lubbock All-Star Game

Brad Dusek, A&M star full-back, has agreed to participate in the coaches All-American Football Game scheduled June 23 in Texas Tech's Jones Stadium in Lubbock.

Dusek was drafted by the New England Patriots in the third round of the NFL pro draft as a defensive safety. He was an all-America quarterback and safety at Temple High School and was named SWC defensive player of the year as a freshman. He was an offensive performer as a sophomore and senior and a defensive backfield star as a junior.

John McKay, coach of national champion Southern California, and Ralph (Shug) Jordan of Auburn, have been selected as coaches for the event.

McKay, who directed his Trojans to a perfect 11-0 season mark and a win over Ohio State in the Rose Bowl, will head the West eleven. In achieving the No. 1 title, McKay's Trojans won the Associated Press Trophy and the Grantland Rice Trophy from the Football Writers of America. Jordan's Tigers raced to a 9-1 season and whipped Colorado in the Gator Bowl. He will head the staff of the East team.

Joining McKay as assistants will be John Robinson, also of USC, Ben Martin, head coach of the Air Force Academy, and Maxie Lambright of Louisiana Tech.

Assisting Jordan will be Paul Davis, also of Auburn, Lou Holtz of North Carolina State, and Tubby Raymond of Delaware. The game will mark a repeat performance for Raymond. He served as an assistant to Bear Bryant in last year's game.

The nationally televised game featuring All-Americans from throughout the country, is sponsored by the American Football Coaches Association in conjunction with the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and the Lions Club who make up District Two-Two of Lions International.

More than 42,000 fans were on hand last year to watch Bryant's East team win over Chuck Friesbank's West eleven, 42-20.
