

Maroons Down Whites In Aggies Final Spring Game

By BILL HENRY
Battalion Sports Editor

Coach Emory Bellard felt if he could find 22 players this spring, he'd consider his second spring training at A&M a success. After Saturday's spring game he was more than pleased as the Maroons whipped the outmanned Whites, 52-44.

Bellard, after entertaining numerous sports writers on Friday, let some of their influence rub off and gave the White, or second unit, 24 points to start the game. Also, as many sports writers have to do, he almost had to eat his words as his "gift" spurred on the reserves to outscore the Maroons, 17-6, during the first 20 minutes of action.

From that point on, however, the Maroons remembered who they were and outscored the Whites, 46-3, during the remainder of the contest and made Bellard's debut as a point prognosticator a success.

The Tim Trimmier quarterbacked Maroon unit picked up 510 yards total offense compared to the Jim Hartman-led White unit's 336.

The Maroons picked up 334 yards on the ground mainly riding the legs of fullback Alvin Bowers' 143 yards on 19 carries and halfback Bubba Bean's 93 on nine carries. Trimmier carried 18 times for 63 yards and one touchdown. Skip Walker carried the ball only six times for 35 yards but scored twice. Bowers also scored once.

Fullback Bucky Sams led the White unit in picking up 103 yards on 13 carries; 99 yards of that total was picked up in the first half on nine carries. Hartman was credited with 82 yards on 20 carries but lost 58 of those due to numerous slips on the wet artificial turf. He scored both White touchdowns.

Trimmier was masterful in the passing department hitting seven of 11 attempts for 176 yards and three touchdowns. He hit jitterbug Carl Roaches on a 50-yard bomb and tight end Richard Osborne twice, one for 31 yards with only 39 seconds left in the first half and a nine-yard toss in the third period.

Roaches caught four Trimmier passes in all for 116 yards while Osborne caught three for 60.

Hartman, who was forced to pass due to tremendous rushing defense by the Maroon unit in the second half when it held the Whites to a minus-four yards the final half, was nine of 25 for the afternoon for 162 yards.

His favorite receiver was split end Roy Murray who caught five for 99 yards. Tight end David Greeno had two receptions for 39 yards and halfback Ronny Hubby caught two for 24 yards.

Neither quarterback threw an interception.

The kicking game, though nearly ignored during spring training, was quite good. Lee White and Mark Stanley, both freshman walk-ons last season, shared punting, field goal and extra point duties. Stanley averaged over 45 yards on three punts, kicked five or six extra points and kicked field goals of 25, 38 and 35. He missed one from 40 yards.

One of the more interesting aspects of the contest was in the new offensive formation designed by Bellard and his staff. It is run with the same principles as the Wishbone except it looks like an adaptation of the T formation used in the early stages of football and brought back from time to time.

"The advantage of the new formation is that it can put more pressure on the corners than the Wishbone could," Bellard said. "You've got to have a good running quarterback to get the results that it was designed for though."

"Defenses around the nation were able to stop the Wishbone by jamming the corners with people but with this offense, it is much more balanced to take care of that type pressure."

"It still has the same three running options but it also gives you much more opportunity to pass. There is more blocking potential and has more advantages to it in the things we are trying to do offensively."

Things weren't as pleasant defensively as were expected. The Maroons were not consistent in the first half, allowing the White's big gainers through the middle of the line by Sams. Pass defense was not up to the coaches' expectations but with two junior college transfers and two freshmen, the problems did not seem grave.

The nucleus of good offensive and defensive lines were present with both the Maroon and White units making strides in providing holes for runners and plugging up holes.

There seems to be good depth at defensive end with four very talented individuals. The second team (White) left end Glen Bujnoch, grabbed two of the three fumbles occurring in the contest. His biggest asset last year was in making the big play and being at the right place at the right time and it looks as though that will continue to occur.

"We tried to find 22 players this spring," Bellard said after Saturday's contest. "We wanted to come out with two teams that were solid and sound. We found that many plus others. I think we had a good spring."

"We will be getting a lot of help next fall from our incoming freshmen. We got a lot of help with last year's bunch and I think this year's crop has more talent than last year's. We're getting help where we desperately need it: at quarterback."

"We will be young next year but we will have some talent. When our freshmen get here in August, they will go straight to the varsity and play just as high as they are man enough to."

Flying lessons.

That's right. You, too, may qualify for pilot training in the United States Air Force. Become a leader with executive responsibility.

A pilot is the officer in charge of a million dollars worth of high flying, sophisticated supersonic equipment, isn't he?

Yes, and you'll wear a snappy blue officer's uniform, enjoy officer's pay and privileges. You'll probably travel to exotic foreign lands, and have a secure future in the biggest scientific and research organization. World's biggest.

You'll be where all the exciting Space-Age breakthroughs are. Where it's happening. Now. Today. Right now. This minute. The Air Force is the "now" place to be.

If you yearn to fly and don't try the Aerospace Team, you'll miss your big chance.

Let that be a lesson!
