elect of the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, and Dr. L. D. Haskew, educational administration professor, University of Texas at Austin.

Dr. J. W. Edgar, Texas commissioner of education, and L. P. Sturgeon, Texas State Teachers Association executive secretary, will report on the status of education in Texas. The three-day conference will feature Dr. Scharer in a Monday, June 11, address titled "Renovate Your Rut." He has been Santa Barbara's superintendent since 1956. The AASA official also has school administration experience at Alhambra, Ventura and San Gabriel. He has taught and served as administrator in California

"Are You Ready for Involve-tors; Dr. Glenys Unruh, president- ment?" will be Dr. Unruh's topic. She is assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction at University City, Mo. She planned, wrote and coordinated several federal and foundation projects during 22 years in the St. Louis suburb. She also serves on two national steering committees for Career Education and Development, U. S. Office of Education. Dr. Unruh taught in Wichita, Kan., and Boulder, Colo., before going to University City. Dr. Haskew will discuss risks and rewards of collective decisioning on the final morning of the TAMU conference. The Wednesday, June 13, general assembly will also feature the Edgar-Sturgeon report.

Dean of UT's College of Education 15 years, Haskew has extensive experience and interest in preparation of administrators for schools and colleges, and in the study of administration itself. He was also vice chancellor of the University of Texas System.

Eighteen discussion groups will allow 500 to 600 conferees to consider in more detail topics such as competency-based administrator education, role of the staff in decision-making, NASA decisionmaking by consensus, the administrative team in decision-making and problem-solving, school conflict management and school cultural pluralism.

Other topics include community education, micro-teaching, career education, the quarter system and financing school systems.

The conference is a joint event of the Texas Association of School Administrators, Texas Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development and TAMU's Educational Administration Department headed by Hawkins.

Funded with a $90,484 contract from the U.S. Coast Guard, the project features a sensor using two laser light beams to continuously observe water surfaces from bridges and towers located on ports and harbors.

The project is under the direction of Dr. William T. Mayo Jr., director of the electro-optics laboratory of the Remote Sensing Center. Dr. John W. Rouse Jr. and J. A. Schell will assist with the project.
