Law Enforcement Grants Approved

AUSTIN — Six grants to state agencies for improving law enforcement and crime prevention were among those approved last week by Governor Dolph Briscoe.

The money will come from the Criminal Justice Council, which administers the state's block grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration under the Omnibus Crime Control Act.

The Department of Public Safety will be the recipient of most of the money. DPS was awarded $710,321 to continue development of the Texas Crime Information Center, which serves as a link for the state's law enforcement agencies with the FBI's National Crime Information Center.

A second award to DPS, $265,788, will be used to continue operation and development of an improved law enforcement teletype control system. High-speed control and terminal equipment will be purchased to service more efficiently an increased message volume.

The Board of Pardons and Paroles was awarded $93,455 for a computerized data management system. The system is designed to enable the board to cope with an increased work load resulting from recent court decisions and from increases in both the number of parolees and the number of prison inmates that must be considered for parole.

A $37,500 grant to the Texas Rehabilitation Commission will continue support of a vocational rehabilitation project for juvenile offenders and predelinquents in El Paso. Grantee will provide a $12,500 cash match. Services will be made available to youths referred by El Paso County Juvenile Probation Department and El Paso Independent School District.

The other two awards will go to the Texas Department of Corrections. One, for $22,250, will continue heavy equipment operator training in cooperation with the Texas Engineering Experiment Station at A&M. The other will take the 14th course aimed at providing a useful occupation both before and after their release from prison.

The second TDC grant, $17,000, is to improve patient care services in the department's hospital at the Huntsville unit. Patients will be trained as paramedics as part of the program.

The state agency grants, among 71 for action and plans funds considered by the Executive Committee June 8, total $4,565,876.

Draft Registration Still Required

Selective Service Director Byron V. Pepitone today reminded the nation's young men that even though there is no draft, they still are required to register with Selective Service at the time of their 18th birthday.

"I am concerned that many of our young men may fail to register when they reach 18 years of age because they are unaware of their responsibilities to Selective Service," Mr. Pepitone said. It would be unfortunate if a young man should break the law because the proper information has not been made available to him," he added.

Failure to register is a violation of the law, Mr. Pepitone emphasized, and could result in prosecution by the Department of Justice.

The President's authority to induct men into the service expired on July 1. The Administration does not plan to seek an extension of this authority, and the Defense Department is relying on volunteer enlistments to supply military manpower.

"A very important point that has been missed in most reporting on the cessation of inductions is the fact that the Military Selective Service Act remains in force," Mr. Pepitone said. "The Act states that all young men have a continuing legal obligation to register with Selective Service at age 18. They have 60 days to do this, beginning 30 days before their 18th birthday. Men not registering within that period may be considered as violators."

"I would urge the parents and friends of all young men who reach 18 to remind them of their legal responsibility to register with Selective Service," Mr. Pepitone said. "They should register at the nearest local board or with a registrar for the Selective Service System who resides in the young man's community."

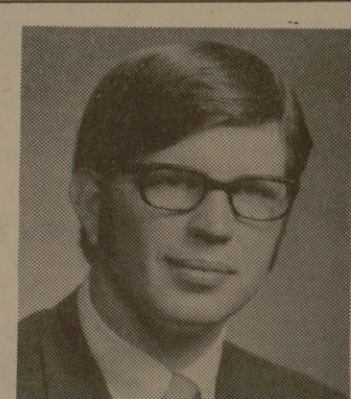

The Selective Service System currently is undergoing a reorganization as it moves into a standby system of operation. The number of local board administrative sites is being reduced to 925 nationwide from a total of 2,700 which were in existence in December, 1972.

Computer Veteran Joins DPC

Dr. Paul E. Pulley, a 17-year veteran of computer science and engineering, has joined the scientific applications branch of A&M's Data Processing Center.

In announcing Dr. Pulley's appointment, Dr. Dick B. Simmons, DPS director, said Dr. Pulley will join Jim Moore in providing consultation for university faculty, research staff and graduate students having problems involving use of the DPC.

Dr. Pulley's background includes statistics, mathematics, physics, computer science and medicine.
